SEEK VOTE ON COURT AS ITS FOES ATTACK DAWES'S RADIO TALK

Leaders on Each Side Hope to Agree on Date to End Present Debate.

BITTER WORDS ON FLOOR

COPELAND WINS APOLOGY

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—A truce between the World Court's proponents and antagonists in the Senate is on tonight. An effort to reach an agreement to vote on the pending resolution is in progress, following a day of dramatic incidents in which frayed tempers, resentment, explanation, denial, apology and charge and countercharge concerning waste of the Senate's time each had a part.

Vice President Dawes's radio talk last night furnished "a hangover for the morning after." It was the basis of the most dramatic of several dramatic happenings on the Senate floor. In that talk, delivered extemporaneously to an unseen audience of countless listeners, spreading from the Atlantic to the Pacific and points North and South, he referred to his effort to reform the Senate rules and cited in support of his crusade the ability of Senators to kill time by having irrelevant articles read during Senate debates.

Some newspapers construed this as a reference to the action of Senator Reed of Missouri yesterday in having a clerk read in the Senate a magazine article written by Andrew Carnegie in 1893. That construction started today's trouble.

The reading of the Carnegie article consumed an hour and a half, giving Senator Reed that much time to rest the voice that had been thundering anathema on the World Court.

Reed Shows Resentment.

Senator Reed accepted the press construction as correct, and showed his resentment against the Vice President when he rose in his place soon after the Senate assembled today.

Vice President Dawes was in the chair. Senator Reed forcefully accused him of unethical conduct in attacking Mr. Reed, as the latter supposed, over the radio.

The Vice President immediately disclaimed any intention of referring to Senator Reed as a time-waster. The Senate breathed easier.

No, it was not Senator Reed, but Senator Copeland of New York that he meant, the Vice President went on.

Senator Copeland was on his feet. He denied that he had wasted time. He had offered some newspaper articles for insertion in the Congressional Record, but that had not retarded the enactment of any legislation.

A little later the Vice President gave out a statement in which he apologized to Senator Copeland and exonerated him from any attempt to obstruct the program of the World Court debate.

General James B. Harbord, President of the Radio Corporation of America, in introducing General Dawes to the radio audience, made reference to the reading of magazine articles in yesterday's Senate debate. That, said the Vice President, must have suggested the reflection on Senators attributed to him.

Ask Who Is Time-Waster.

If neither Senator Reed nor Senator Copeland is guilty of time-wasting, who is? That question remains unanswered as Senators tonight seek to find some formula to meet the demand for a vote on the World Court resolution so as to avoid costly delay in the enactment of the tax reduction bill.

Embarrassed as Vice President Dawes was over the Senate reaction to his radio address, those who support his crusade for a reform of the Senate rules take satisfaction in the trend of events. They contend that the situation in the Senate furnishes abundant testimony that rules reform is urgently needed.

When the World Court was the subject of discussion in the Senate this afternoon, Senator Johnson of California, an irreconcilable, and Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin, in charge of the World Court resolution, shouted at each other as the latter charged time-wasting to the anti-Court group, and Senator Johnson denied the allegation. They paced the floor like caged lions. The galleries, crowded, had an enjoyable time. It was a field day in the Senate.

Relatively unimportant as today's spirited proceedings in the Senate may seem, all that happened there had its value. It was symptomatic of a turning point in the long issue of the World Court debate, with the turning in the direction of the journey's end—that is, a vote within a reasonable time on the resolution for American adhesion to the Court protocol.

Court's Enemies Worsted.

The Court's enemies in the Senate are feeling the effect of a strong public opinion that their attitude is jeopardizing the early enactment of the Tax Reduction bill. There is also the danger to them of public sentiment.

France Raises Army Pay; Foch Gets $3,000 a Year

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—Marshal Foch and the other Marshals of France have had their salaries raised along with all the other military ratings of France.

At the new scale Foch will receive the magnificent remuneration of 75,000 francs a year, or something less than $3,000 at the present rate of exchange.

The rest of the army will still be paid on a similarly economical scale. A General will get $1,500, a Colonel less than $1,000, while a French Lieutenant will receive only $235 yearly on which to keep up a good appearance.

A French private who remains with the army after his year's voluntary service will be rewarded with the pay of one franc (or less than 5 cents) a day, and if he remains enrolled for service for ten years he will get a little more than double.

FRENCH ENVOY TALKS TO COOLIDGE ON DEBT

Berenger Tells Him It Will Be Settled as Soon and as Fully as Possible.

PRESENTS HIS CREDENTIALS

President Sees No Insuperable Difficulty in Reaching "Fair and Honorable Adjustment."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Henry Berenger, the new French Ambassador, in presenting his credentials to President Coolidge today, gave assurances that France was resolved to settle her war debts to the United States "as promptly and as fully as her present and future possibilities will allow."

In replying, President Coolidge expressed hope that "a fair and honorable adjustment" of the problem would be reached "in the near future." The President said "there should be no insuperable difficulty" in arriving at such an agreement.

In presenting his credentials to the President, Ambassador Berenger said in part:

"France remains faithful to the sentiments of friendship which have inspired both our nations since the birth of the United States of America. France always remembers the sublime ideal which has led our two peoples to help each other throughout history and brought them victoriously through many fearful trials in the course of the last 150 years.

"Independence has been the foundation and maintenance of our democracies. They have never ceased to strive for greater right and justice among all citizens and all men. They are now exerting a like effort toward the end of all war and the establishment of lasting peace among all peoples of good-will.

"The French Republic has never ceased to give evidence of that wish. A little later the Vice President gave out a statement in which he apologized to Senator Copeland and exonerated him from any attempt to obstruct the program of the World Court debate.

"The French Republic has never ceased to give evidence of that wish. A little later, several peace, the last proof being asserted, and successfully so, at the Locarno Conference. All that may bring humankind still closer in a common aim of civilization under the sacred safeguard of international engagements and agreements will surely continue to be offered and accepted by France.

"With especial regard to the financial settlement of the obligations contracted in connection with the late war of 1914-1918, France again declares herself true to the principle of the sanctity of international contracts. Even in the midst of the difficulties of restoration which the ravages of the last invasion still cause her, France is resolved to settle the debts contracted for her defense and for that of civilization as promptly and as fully as her present and future possibilities will allow.

"France knows that the economic world cannot be brought back into equilibrium unless every one in the world meets internal and external obligations by a strict restoration of credit and of confidence.

"We are convinced that the traditional friendship of the United States of America will make easier for France a progressive and orderly liquidation

GOV. SMITH SAVES 1 BELLMORE SLAYER; ROSS TO DIE TODAY

Executive Commutes Death Sentence of Slattery to Imprisonment for Life.

CITES DISSENTING JUDGES

Majority Affirmed Conviction of Slattery—Decision on Ross Was Unanimous.

PRISON LACKS EXECUTIONER

Warden of Sing Sing Says He Will Choose From Applicants Within 24 Hours.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 20.—Governor Smith announced today that he had decided to commute to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed on John Slattery for his share in the murder of Ernest L. Whitman, a bond salesman, during the robbery of the First National Bank of Bellmore, L. I., in the Summer of 1923.

The Governor also stated that he would not interfere with the carrying out of the death sentence in the case of Ambrose J. Ross, convicted of murder in the first degree for the same crime.

The execution of Ross has been set for tomorrow evening at Sing Sing.

Governor Smith made public the text of a letter he wrote yesterday to the Board of Directors of the Bellmore bank in response to a telegram received from the board in which objection was raised to Executive clemency.

On Monday Governor Smith heard arguments on an application for Executive clemency or a reprieve for Ross and Slattery until after the third trial of Stanley Kiavana, also convicted and sentenced to death for the same crime.

The Governor's Decision.

Board of Directors, First National Bank, Bellmore, L. I.

Gentlemen: I am in receipt of your telegram of Jan. 20. You have gone to considerable pains to let me know Ambrose J. Ross and John Slattery condemned to death for the crime of murder in the first degree. I gave a public hearing on Monday on applications for executive clemency.

Following a study of the cases and the arguments on the applications I find both Ross and Slattery convicted of murder in the first degree with the conviction sustained by decisions of the Court of Appeals.

There is, however, a wide difference in the two cases. The conviction of Ross in the lower court is sustained in the Court of Appeals by the unanimous vote of the seven Judges. I find the Slattery case, however, sustained by a vote of four to three, and I find Chief Justice Hiscock and Associate Justices Crane and Lehman dissenting from the conviction on the ground that the evidence was not sufficient to permit the jury to find that the defendant was guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

I am therefore in this position: I have two men before me legally and properly convicted of murder in the first degree.

Of course, as to Slattery, I take my position with the majority of the court, and therefore no question arises of guilt or innocence.

But there does arise the question of penalty. As to Ross, the affirmance was unanimous and I therefore see no reason for interfering with the sentence pronounced by the courts.

As to Slattery, I believe that I should not exact from him the full penalty of the law; that instead of being put to death he should be imprisoned for the balance of his natural life. I come to this conclusion in the Slattery case because I feel that life imprisonment will meet the ends of justice, in view of the dissent of three judges of the Court of Appeals from the conviction.

I have accordingly declined to interfere in the execution of the sentence in the Ross case and have commuted the sentence imposed upon Slattery from death to life imprisonment.

Sincerely yours,
ALFRED E. SMITH.

Six armed men drove into Bellmore, L. I., at noon on April 4, 1924, went into the First National Bank Building there and stole $6,000. They shot and killed Ernest L. Whitman, a bond salesman, who happened to enter the

Movies Decide Custody of Child in Court And Give Evidence in Claim for Salvage

DETROIT, Jan. 20 (AP).—Moving pictures today delivered a 4-year-old child to its foster mother when Judge Vincent Brennan, in Circuit Court, awarded custody of the child to Mrs. Irene Goosen. In doing so he denied the habeas corpus petition of the child's natural mother, Mrs. Julia Przybyla.

The child has been under Mrs. Goosen's charge since a few weeks after birth. In an effort to arrive at a just decision on the petition of the natural mother for the return of her child Judge Brennan had the two women and the child stand before him last Saturday, when he announced that the child was to be sent to an institution. Concealed moving picture machines showed the reaction of the two women to this decision.

Judge Brennan and several psychologists yesterday viewed the film. He said today that he was giving custody of the child to Mrs. Goosen because the film showed "a much more biological emotional reaction on her part," and also because of the willingness of the real mother to permit the child to be sent to an institution.

BOSTON, Jan. 20 (AP).—Motion pictures were introduced in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today as evidence in a claim for salvage.

Five residents of Ellsworth, Me., to whom $1,800 was awarded in the United States District Court in Maine for saving three costly yachts in May, 1921, appealed to the higher court, claiming at least $15,000. The pictures were designed to show the hazardous nature of their salvage.

The yachts, Kalima, owned by F. B. Richards of Cleveland; Duchess, owned by the late Warner M. Leeds of New York, and Namarda, owned by Frederick W. Vanderbilt, were carried away with their boathouse by freshets in the Union River Bay near Ellsworth. They were salvaged by Walter K. Carter, A. N. Cushman, Stanley T. Smith, Captain Winfield Treworgy and Percy E. York, the plaintiffs.

Committee Adds $25,500,000 to Total of Reductions Made by the House.

THREE MEMBERS DISSENT

King and Jones of New Mexico Will Disagree and Simmons Will Not Sign It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The Tax Reduction bill was reported to the Senate by the Finance Committee today with a total tax cut of $352,661,000, or an addition of $25,500,000 to the $327,161,000 reduction made by the House bill. The estimated revenue for 1926, under the bill as it stands, is $2,396,338,000.

When the measure will come up for debate was undecided tonight because of the tangled situation over the World Court, but indications were that if Senators could reach agreement on a day to vote on the Court the tax bill would be taken up next Monday or Tuesday.

Senator Simmons, leading Democrat of the Finance Committee, concerned over the outlook for the bill in the Senate, said that while in his recent offer for a final vote on Feb. 10 was made in perfect good faith he now foresaw a difficulty in reaching such an agreement. Radicals of both parties wished to fight the bill because of changes in the estate and income taxes and the repeal of the publicity clause, and these, he added, might enter into a formidable alliance with opponents of the World Court if that matter were temporarily shelved.

Involved With World Court Vote.

The Senator inferred that if no agreement were made to vote on the World Court the opponents of the latter would join radicals in trying to extend discussion of the tax bill, as they consider time an essential element in "educating" the public against the Court. Should a date for voting on the Court be agreed on, the World Court opponents would be out of the way, and only the radicals would be left to oppose obstructive tactics to the bill, he argued, and this would make the situation easier.

Senator Smoot worked today on the report to be made in behalf of the Finance Committee tomorrow, and which will be signed by almost all the committee members. Senator Simmons said the Democrats would offer no minority report as a party but that Senators King and Jones of New Mexico would present individual views. Senator Simmons will not sign the report, as he does not agree with the arguments made by Senator Smoot, but will not present a separate written document.

Senators Simmons and Smoot disagree as to the total net tax reduction in the bill, Mr. Smoot estimating it at $352,000,000 and Mr. Simmons at $368,000,000. Mr. Simmons arrived at his conclusion by adding to the $325,000,000 cut of the House bill $61,000,000 for repeal of the capital stock tax, $20,000,000 for changes in the estate tax, $9,000,000 for changes in the admission tax and $23,000,000 for the change in the middle surtax brackets.

This made, he says, a gross reduction of $470,000,000. From that total he subtracted $102,000,000 representing increases in taxes put in the House bill by the Finance Committee, made up of $68,000,000 in the corporation tax, $6,000,000 on automobile trucks, $6,000,000 on admissions and $4,000,000 on alcohol.

Simmons and Smoot Differ.

According to Senator Simmons the total reductions made by the Senate Finance Committee fell short only $21,000,000 of the original Democratic proposal, which, he said, would have involved a reduction of $461,000,000 in taxes, made up of the $325,000,000 reduction in the House bill, plus $80,000,000 by the repeal of the capital stock tax, $20,000,000 by the repeal of certain admission taxes and $36,000,000 by changes in the middle surtaxes.

All of the reductions finally incorporated in the Senate bill cut off $470,000,000 in revenue. But that figure does not take into consideration the fact that the Senate committee also provided for an increase in revenue of $102,000,000 from other taxes, thus leaving a net reduction in the final provisions of the bill of $368,000,000.

Some of the computations by Senator Smoot and Senator Simmons conflict as to details. Senator Simmons, for instance, estimated a gain of

KELLOGG HITS BACK AT MEXICO'S DENIAL

Secretary Challenges Saenz Statement That Laws Are Fair to Americans.

REITERATES OUR POSITION

State Department Resents Tardiness of Direct Reply Now Reported in Sheffield's Hands.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The demands of the American Government for full protection of legitimate American rights in Mexico are not met in the statement issued to the press last night by Señor Saenz, Secretary of Foreign Affairs in the Mexican Government, according to Secretary of State Kellogg. Mr. Kellogg challenged today the Mexican contention that the new oil and land laws are neither retroactive nor confiscatory. He issued the following statement:

Department of State,
Jan. 20, 1926.

The statement issued to the press by the Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs comprises no facts or arguments which have not been fully dealt with in the official exchanges between the two Governments.

The position of this Government has been and still is that the so-called land and petroleum laws contain provisions which are plainly retroactive and confiscatory in their effect upon property rights heretofore legally acquired and held by American citizens in Mexico under prior existing Mexican laws.

This position, which does not in any sense question Mexico's sovereign right to legislate on her domestic concerns, has been made perfectly clear in the most frank and friendly terms to the Mexican Government both formally and informally.

Our last note on this subject was delivered to the Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs Jan. 9. In the absence of any reply to that note I am not disposed at this time to make any further public comment.

Property Safeguards Are Sought.

While the Government does not challenge the right of Mexico to legislate on her own domestic concerns, it is nevertheless the contention of the Coolidge Administration that Americans must not be deprived of their property in Mexico without due process of law and without full compensation.

What the Washington Government contends, in a nutshell, is that Article 27, either by law or regulation, cannot with any justice be made to apply retroactively to American rights acquired before the Constitution of 1917 was adopted, and that, in any event, Mexico cannot confiscate legitimate American property in that country without violating her international obligations.

Not only does the press statement of Secretary Saenz fail, in the opinion of American officials, to meet the demands of the United States, but it also became evident today that the Administration is not satisfied with the Mexican Government's attitude in the consideration of the issue precipitated by the enactment of the new oil and land laws.

While officials today diplomatically refrained from further open comment than that of Secretary Kellogg, the Mexican Government's mode of procedure is known to have been far from pleasing to Washington.

The 5,000-word statement cabled from Mexico City by Señor Saenz to Señor Telles, Ambassador at Washington, issued last night, contended that neither of the new laws is confiscatory, and that American property rights in Mexico are neither jeopardized nor being dealt with unjustly.

Secretary Kellogg, in the absence of any reply to the Government's note, today felt that he could not allow the Mexican Foreign Secretary's statement to go unchallenged.

Say Mexico Gave Assurances.

State Department officials said today that the withdrawal of Ambassador Sheffield from Mexico City had never been discussed, although they did not deny that the American representations made to the Calles Government had carried with them the implication that American recognition might be withdrawn.

They pointed out that recognition of the Mexican Government by this country had followed definite assurances by Mexico that no legislation would be enacted which would give retroactive effect to Article 27 of the Constitution

$55,000 SPENT ON OPTIONS

FORCE SURPRISED AT TOTAL

Enright Had Put It at $50,000—Ordered Drive Dropped in 1920 After Three Weeks.

Police Commissioner George V. McLaughlin made public yesterday the first definite information which had come into his possession in connection with the abandoned $5,000,000 Police Hospital Fund project since he began his investigation about two weeks ago into forty-six different police funds, most of them started during the eight-year régime of his predecessor, Richard E. Enright.

The information received by Mr. McLaughlin was in the nature of an analysis of an audit made on Jan. 15, 1922, by accountants employed by the trustees of the fund. This analysis revealed that a total of $112,031.19 was received from three sources for the fund, but out of this amount $110,869 was expended, leaving a balance in bank as of that date of only $1,162.19.

No Comment on Hospital Deal.

Mr. McLaughlin said he had no comment to make on the fact that the report showed the disbursements in connection with the contracts to purchase the property for the hospital site amounted to $78,000, instead of $60,000, as had previously been reported to him.

When he was asked "Is $1,162.19 all that is left?" Mr. McLaughlin replied: "Well, that's what it looks like."

Of the receipts $109,514.19 was in the form of contributions from citizens, many through checks received either by Mr. Enright or others connected with the fund on the solicitation of Acting Captain John J. Mangin, formerly head of the Bronx Police Telegraph Bureau, or other members of the force. Another item revealed that $1,000 had been turned into the fund by the Police Band, and the remainder of the money credited to the fund, $1,516.80, being derived through interest from banks on deposits.

The accountant's analysis also contains a statement of disbursements which included $55,000 in options paid to owners of fifteen or sixteen parcels of property on the proposed site of the hospital in Eastern Parkway, near Underwood Avenue, Brooklyn; $23,000 in "settlement of law suit"; $4,177.50 for "office salaries"; $12,469 for "police banks and collection baskets"; $4,703.46 for "advertising in newspapers"; $10,682.45 for stationery and printing; $803.26 for office supplies, and $358.33 "interest on loan."

L. G. Kaufman Sent Analysis.

The Police Commissioner would not reveal from whom the report was received by him, but it was learned later that it had been supplied by Louis G. Kaufman, President of the Chatham & Phenix National Bank, who was the Treasurer of the Hospital Fund.

"I shall not discuss the investigation of the Police Hospital Fund or any of the other police funds," said Mr. McLaughlin, "until I have received a definite report on each of them from Thomas F. Moran, auditor from the office of Controller Charles W. Berry, who is in charge of the four examiners from Commissioner of Accounts Joseph A. Warren's office, who are aiding him in the work."

"Have you any understanding of the meaning of the item 'police banks and collection baskets' among the list of disbursements?" he was asked.

"None whatever," replied the Commissioner. "I do not know their whereabouts. They may be somewhere, and, if so, they can be salvaged, but that is only one of the many matters in connection with this particular investigation which are being inquired into."

"There is an item among the disbursements 'interest on loan.' What

Dry Act Hurt Soft Drink Sale; 400,000,000 Quarts Year Now

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 20.—Although prohibition has hurt the sale of soft drinks, the American people consume 400,000,000 quarts of such beverages each year, it was said here today by Eric Scudder of Chicago, head of a soft drink manufacturing company. He spoke before the second annual convention of the New Jersey State Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages at the Ambassador.

"Immediately following enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment," said Mr. Scudder, "our business decreased 42 per cent. It has been only by hard labor in the distribution of soft drinks to every small store in every town and hamlet that we regained that loss. We expect to double our business next year.

"Previous to prohibition a great many bought soft drinks over the bars. When the saloons were closed this business was lost."

DURANT, IN HOSPITAL, TURNS STOCK TREND

PROFITED ON MOST DEALS

Ordered to 'Keep Quiet' After Train Injury, He Acts When 'Pet' Issues Drop.

A sick man, from his bed in a hospital, aided mightily in yesterday's rally in the stock market, and is credited by his brokers with having turned it about and started it once more on an upward course.

William C. Durant, the automobile manufacturer, who has been a big factor in the market during the last year, heard over the telephone in his room at the Post-Graduate Hospital, where he is recovering from injuries received in a railroad accident, that his "pet" stocks were going down rapidly.

He communicated with his secretary in his office on Columbus Circle, and through him gave buying orders of sufficient volume in key stocks to rally the entire list and give the market an appearance of strength at the close. His main purchases were in Baldwin Locomotive, United States Cast Iron Pipe, Independent Oil and Gas and Humble Oil and Refining. No estimate could be obtained from his brokers last night of the amount of stock Mr. Durant took during the afternoon, but it was said to run into the thousands of shares, on most of which he realized a profit at the close of trading.

In Hospital to Keep Him Quiet.

Mr. Durant was injured in a train wreck at Frontenac, Fla., on Sunday, Jan. 10, when the private car in which he was traveling with members of his family was telescoped by another train. Three persons were killed in the accident. Mr. Durant was hurried by special train to this city after twenty-two stitches had been taken in a scalp wound. He arrived here Jan. 11 and was taken to his home by Dr. John F. Erdmann, his physician, suffering from the injury. Dr. Erdmann had difficulty in restraining Mr. Durant from attending to business, and to this end moved him on Jan. 12 to the Post-Graduate Hospital, where he has been since.

During the last two or three days, according to his brokers, Mr. Durant was permitted to use the telephone. Shortly after noon yesterday he communicated with his secretary, W. W. Murphy, and ascertained that the overnight developments relating to publication of brokers' loans had caused a reaction in the market, and especially in the stocks in which he was interested, since these were considered by speculators the most vulnerable. They had declined from 3 or 4 to as much as 8 or 10 points, the latter being in the case of United States Cast Iron Pipe.

Keeps Phone Open.

Mr. Durant at once instructed Mr. Murphy to ascertain from his brokers the amount of his favorite stocks offered for sale. The telephone arrangement was therefore a three-cornered

MILLER PROPOSES BIGGEST BOULEVARD TO EASE WEST SIDE

Revised Plan Calls for an Elevated Roadway—All on City Property.

FROM CANAL TO 72D ST.

Would Link With Riverside Drive and Handle 5,000 Vehicles an Hour.

COST PUT AT $11,000,000

Central Road's Engineers Deem It Feasible to Sink Tracks From 34th Street North.

As another proposed step toward the solution of New York's intricate traffic problem, Julius Miller, Borough President of Manhattan, sent to the Board of Estimate yesterday a plan for an $11,000,000 west side elevated express highway, to be built wholly on city property, and to run adjacent to the Hudson River shoreline, from Canal Street to Riverside Drive at Seventy-second Street.

At that point, it is contemplated, the new driveway will connect with the projected express highway skirting the river, from Seventy-second to 129th Streets, covering the tracks of the New York Central Railroad. In his letter to the Board of Estimate, accompanying his maps and specifications, Borough President Miller says that in January, 1925, he submitted a similar plan, with the New York Central tracks to run on an elevated highway. In March, 1925, Mr. Miller asked that the plan be referred back to him for further study. The letter continues:

Has Completed Study.

"I now have to advise the board that I have completed my study and investigation of this matter and I herewith present another plan for the construction of an elevated express highway adjacent to the Hudson River, from Canal Street to Riverside Drive at Seventy-second Street, which differs from the plan of last January in that the plan now covers only the construction of the highway, the New York Central Railroad having devised another plan for removing their tracks from the surface of Eleventh Avenue, Tenth Avenue, West Street, Canal Street and Hudson Street.

"Further investigation of this matter after its reference back to me in March, 1925, developed the fact that the construction of an elevated express highway and the relocation of the railroad tracks upon an elevation beneath the express highway was involved in questions of ownership of the structure, dual responsibility of its maintenance, objection to the express highway being elevated forty feet above the street surface and complications as to consequential damages by reason of the structure being located against the east building line of the river front streets."

Borough President Miller was asked last night to what extent, if any, he and the officials of the New York Central Railroad Company had reached a common basis of agreement looking to the removal of the west side tracks of the New York Central since the Borough President, a year ago, withdrew his original plan from the Board of Estimate for the purpose of further negotiations.

"While details still are under consideration," Mr. Miller replied, "I may say that the engineers of the city and of the New York Central Railroad Company are agreed that, as an engineering proposition, it would be practicable to sink the west side tracks between Thirty-fourth Street and the railroad yards at Sixty-third Street and run them through a subway constructed either beneath Eleventh Avenue or under private property contiguous to that thoroughfare."

First Workable Plan.

Discussing his plan in detail, Borough President Miller said:

"As every one knows, the great mass of vehicles move north and south in this borough, and the lack of thoroughfares to permit their free movement in these directions is one of the main causes of the general congestion. To relieve this condition express highways have long been discussed and approved in principle, but no workable plan that will serve the lower part of the borough up to this time has been brought forward.

"There is now before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on its final passage a plan for such a highway in the upper part of the borough between Seventy-second and 129th Streets, covering the tracks of the New York Central Railroad Company, but without a proper approach from downtown it is only an alleviation and not a remedy.

"The remedy provided in the present plan is for a new roadway, altogether on city property, that connects with the preceding one at Seventy-second Street and runs to Canal Street, where it will help to distribute the travel that will concentrate there due to the New Jersey tunnels and the widening of Canal Street.

Roadway Four Miles Long.

"The distance to be covered by the new road will be about four miles and its cost about $11,000,000. It will be elevated and will follow the Hudson River shore from Canal Street through West Street, Eleventh and Twelfth Avenues to Seventy-second Street, where it will meet the previously mentioned highway, and together these will make a new thoroughfare to 129th Street without cross streets that will safely permit traffic to move quickly and without interruption.

"Its sixty feet of available roadway will provide space for six lanes of

Coolidge Calls Governors to Discuss Safety; Cites 24,000 Road Deaths, 100,000 Injuries

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Declaring nearly 24,000 persons were killed and more than 100,000 injured in street and highway accidents during 1925, and pointing to the need for a "progressive solution of what is a very difficult question," President Coolidge today urged all State Governors to be represented at Secretary Hoover's national conference on street and highway safety to be held in Washington on March 3d.

The President's letter to the Governors says:

"This conference was created to investigate the causes of street and highway accidents and to recommend remedial measures and to promote greater uniformity in action among the several States and municipalities. The conference has already made considerable progress in the coordination of public effort in these directions.

"The control of the highways is, of course, a matter for the States and not for the National Government, but it is my feeling that conferences of this character between State officials and various voluntary associations interested in the problem result in valuable contributions to the progressive solution of what is a very difficult question.

"Many State officials attended the last conference, but on this occasion, in order that the representation may be general, I wish to invite you to appoint a delegation of not more than five to attend the conference as representatives of your State. In order that they may be supplied with the projects and committee reports in advance it would be helpful if I could be notified as soon as practicable as to the names of such delegates.

"I scarcely need refer to the importance of the subjects at issue. Nearly 24,000 of our citizens were killed and probably over 100,000 hurt by street and highway accidents during the past year. Therefore constructive exchange of experience in development of traffic control and safeguards becomes of the highest importance."

Spain Aroused Over Flight to South America; Crowds Going to Huelva to See Franco Start

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Jan. 20.—Thousands of persons are journeying to Huelva to give Flight Commander Franco and his party a rousing farwell when they take off Friday or Saturday for South America in Spain's most serious attempt to attain world aviation honors. It is now thought that the hydroplane will take the air on Friday instead of Saturday, as originally planned, because of more favorable air currents.

All Spain has "an air of fever" just now in view of the approaching attempt of its foremost airman to fly from the Old to the New World and return via Iceland and Britain. Many airplanes were to be sent over Madrid today and all the available machines will be present when Commander Franco and his aids set forth from Huelva.

Every town of any size in Spain is sending a special greeting to South America through the aviators, two hundred such messages having already been received and stored in the plane's mail-bag.

Spanish warships have left for the Cape Verde Islands, from which point they will steam toward Pernambuco in order to be ready to give all possible aid to the Spanish plane.

The King's Saint's Day, Jan. 23, always is an occasion of a certain amount of royal celebration and will be made especially important this year by a grand reception at the palace, which the whole of the diplomatic corps, the military leaders and Ministers will attend.

The captains general and their aids from all regions of Spain will celebrate at another important affair, and on Saturday evening the celebration will terminate with one of the largest official dinners recently given, when the most important governmental, naval, military and political leaders of the country will dine with King Alfonso and drink to the success of Spain's courageous bid for aviation honors.

traffic, three in each direction. These will be reached by ramps that will start at the present street surface and at a practical grade lead to the elevated roadway, where they will emerge at the centre. The plan presented calls for such ramps at Canal Street, Christopher Street, West Fourteenth Street, Twenty-third Street, Thirty-fourth Street, Forty-second Street and Fifty-seventh Street. They will be so placed, parallel to the structure, that they will not encumber the cross streets.

"Due to the location of the ramps in the centre of the structure, the slower moving vehicles will form two lines in the centre of the roadway, leaving room for the four fast moving ones, two on each side. This arrangement will not only serve the convenience of all classes of vehicles but will furnish a barrier between those on the side moving rapidly in opposite directions that will practically prevent serious accidents. Owing to this condition and a total absence of cross traffic, a far greater speed is practicable here than on a surface street, with the result that the four lines of rapid traffic can each move at the rate of about 1,000 vehicles per hour, while the slow moving one in the centre will reach 500 in the same period, the six lines together providing room for about 5,000 cars per hour, more than twice the number accommodated in Fifth Avenue at present."

The driveway, Mr. Miller says, "will furnish a continuous view of the river and the shipping that will make it a worthy extension of our magnificent Riverside Drive further north." He adds that it will "carry buses that will make both its conveniences and beauties available to the general public."

Mr. Miller suggested that an appropriate name for the entire new driveway from Canal to 129th Street would be the Hudson River Boulevard. He said it would have a capacity at least double that of the most congested one in existence.

Accompanying his plans, maps and letter to the Board of Estimate, Borough President Miller also sent copies of a letter of Jan. 19, in which Julian A. Gregory, Chairman of the Port Authority, registered that body's approval of the project.

NEW REICH CABINET FINDS SCANT FAVOR

But Socialist Majority in Reichstag Will Support League and Locarno Policies.

By LINCOLN EYRE.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 20.—Though Chancellor Luther's second Cabinet, the names of which are now officially announced last night, is much more Republican as cabled to THE NEW YORK TIMES than his first one formed a little over a year ago at the request of the late President Ebert, there are no expressions of satisfaction in either the reactionary, middle or radical wings.

In its foreign policies the new Government will have the aid of the Socialists, Germany's largest party, thus assuring for the Locarno treaties and entrance into the League the support necessary for passing the necessary measures in the Reichstag. By the admission of Dr. Curtius into the Cabinet as Minister of Commerce the Dawes plan gets an ardent supporter there, since it was through his efforts that the Nationalists voted for the plan, under the Marx Cabinet, with the understanding that they should participate in the next Government.

The first meeting of the new Government will be held Friday night, when its policies will be framed for presentation to the Reichstag next Tuesday. Political circles believe that Dr. Luther will ask the Reichstag for formal approval of his policies then and not ask for a vote of confidence, which would be impossible if the Nationalists and Socialists withheld their votes. The vote on acceptance of the Government's policies is expected Thursday of next week.

The fact that the Cabinet was completed had a stimulating effect on today's Stock Exchange and discount of sight drafts was again reduced to 6% per cent.

MOORE TO INSPECT STATE INSTITUTIONS

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 20.—Despite a somewhat painful right hand, which had been grasped by thousands of persons yesterday at the public reception following his inauguration, Governor A. Harry Moore put in a busy time at the executive offices in the State House today. He announced that he would be accessible to the public at any time he was in Trenton, and that he intended to come to Trenton every day except Saturday.

His first official act was to sign papers for the extradition of Charles E. Sahlegel, who is wanted by the police of Massachusetts.

The Governor plans to inspect the State's institutions at an early date to inform himself at first hand regarding conditions there. He indicated in his inaugural message that he regarded the present system of institutional control as top-heavy.

WOULD BARE SECRETS OF UTILITY TAXES

FOR USE IN RATE REVISION

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 20.—Under a bill introduced today by Senator Downing and Assemblyman Bloch, Democratic leaders, the confidential records in the State Tax Department of the assessed valuations of all public utility corporations would be open for the inspection of the Public Service Commission. The Tax Department also would be compelled to turn all information of this character over to the Public Service Commission so it could be used in the fixing of rates, fares and charges.

Since 1921, when amendments were made to the Public Service Commission law, the utility board has been fixing the rates, charges and fares of public utility corporations, according to Senator Downing and Assemblyman Bloch, upon the reproduction valuation of the properties instead of upon the assessed valuations.

Allows Revision of Rates.

"The whole rate-making scheme," said a joint statement issued by the legislators, "has been based upon reproduction valuation and the Public Service Commission has never been able to get at the inside figures upon which gas, electric, telephone and other utility corporations actually operate and manipulate. These figures are filed with the State Tax Commission but are confidential records and the Public Service Commission has no access to them."

Under the amendment made to the Public Service Commission law in 1921, rates and charges of public utilities could be raised or lowered, regardless of any local contractual agreement between the utility corporation and the municipality.

"Ever since then," said the statement, "there has been a raising of rates, fares and charges."

The measure would permit the Public Service Commission to reopen all cases in which it has fixed fares, rates or charges since 1921, and if an examination of the assessed valuations of the properties of utility corporations discloses a discrepancy between the basic value accepted by the commission, the commission could make a new rate based on the assessed valuation.

Both houses held brief sessions today. The Senate unanimously confirmed the appointment by Governor Smith of Frank H. Warder of New York as State Superintendent of Banks in place of George V. McLaughlin, now New York City's Police Commissioner. A score of reappointments of members of State Park Commissions, made by the Governor on Monday night, were confirmed.

Wants Ice a Public Utility.

Ice would be made a public utility and manufacturers and distributers would have to be licensed by the Public Service Commission under a bill introduced by Assemblyman Conroy, Manhattan Democrat.

Under a measure sponsored by Assemblyman Fisher, Republican, of Lewis County, the automobile license of every person convicted of illegal transportation of liquor, would be revoked and no license could be issued to such person for five years.

Assemblyman Hackenburg, Democrat, of Manhattan, reintroduced his bill of last year providing for the creation of an advisory commission of twenty-seven members, to be appointed by the Governor, to prescribe rules and regulations in the enforcement of the Conservation law. Members of the council would serve without pay.

Under a bill introduced by Assemblyman Nugent, Democrat, of Manhattan, the Port Authority would be authorized to construct a tunnel or bridge, or both, under or across the Hudson River from points between Canal Street and 185th Street, Manhattan, to points opposite in New Jersey. The bill calls for an appropriation of $150,000 to start preliminary work.

The Senate adopted a measure extending to March the time within which a legislative committee appointed at the last session may report on suburban traffic conditions in and around New York City.

Senator Nathan Straus Jr., Manhattan, Democrat, presented his bill of last year calling for State ratification of the Federal Child Labor amendment. The measure was defeated at the 1925 session.

Brooklyn Medical Society to Admit Laymen As Aid in War on Quacks and Bad Methods

The Kings County Medical Society, now in the one hundredth and fourth year of its existence, has decided to break a precedent by allowing laymen to become associate members. They will be permitted to attend and take part in all the regular meetings and discussions of the organization, but will have no voice in the administration.

This was announced as a result of a meeting Tuesday night of the society at 1,313 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn. Dr. Charles A. Gordon, Chairman of a committee to revise the constitution and by-laws, proposed the amendment at that time. It provoked scattering opposition at first, several doctors contending that the standard of merit of the society might be lowered and that laymen might make commercial capital of their connection.

Dr. Gordon, Dr. Frank Jennings and others, however, argued that the plan would create friends of medical progress and enable the public to help organized medicine attack unqualified practitioners and harmful methods. The amendment as finally adopted by overwhelming vote read: "Associate members shall be persons interested in science or in the service to the public of this society, or members of professions allied to medicine."

The Medical Society of the State of New York, parent body of the Kings County Medical Society, must give its approval before the change becomes effective. Similar provision for associate members was said by officials to be operative in the Philadelphia County Medical Society, but otherwise it is believed to be unique in the East.

The Medical Society of the County of New York does not intend to admit laymen as associate members, according to the Secretary, Dr. Daniel S. Dougherty, of 111 West Eighty-fifth Street. He said last night that no such move had been contemplated.

New officers of the Kings Medical Society elected at the meeting Tuesday were Dr. O. Paul Humpstone, President; Thurston S. Welton, Vice President; Thomas M. Brennan, Secretary; James Steele, Associate Secretary; Charles E. Goodrich, Treasurer; George A. Merrill, Associate Treasurer; William Browning, Directing Librarian; Jaques C. Rushmore, Associate Directing Librarian.

GROWTH OF QUEENS IS HAILED AT DINNER

INDUSTRIES INCREASE 50%

More Bridges and Tunnels and Terminal at Sunnyside Are Needed, Says Leader

The rapid development of Queens was told by Frank F. Adel, President of the Chamber of Commerce of Queens, at the fifteenth annual dinner of the organization last night in the Hotel Commodore. More than 1,000 members attended.

Plans for buildings worth nearly $200,000,000, erected or to be erected in that borough, he said, were filed last year. The number of industrial plants increased 50 per cent.

The borough is entitled, he said, to that consideration which will bind it together with Manhattan by the necessary number of bridges and tunnels and make the two boroughs a "more cohesive whole."

He advocated the development of transit so that the unimproved sections of the borough may be utilized, and the extension of rapid transit easterly to the city limits and southerly to and through the Rockaways. A terminal in the Sunnyside yard of the Long Island Railroad should be established with all convenient speed, he said, primarily for the use of the people of Queens, and tied up with the proposed subway system.

The Queensboro bridge, said Mr. Adel, now handles more than 60,000 vehicles a day, far in excess of what it was designed to carry.

Congressman Charles Aubrey Eaton of New Jersey spoke on "A New Organ of World Progress." He characterized industry as the chief organ of civilized progress.

Congressman Eaton contrasted the poverty and suffering which he found recently in England and the Continent when he was abroad last Summer. He said that, in his opinion, one of the principal reasons for the prosperity which America enjoys is that labor in America is satisfied with conditions here. The standard of living in this country, he declared, is higher than in any other country and workingmen receive better treatment.

PINCHOT BILL PIGEONHOLED.

Mines Committee Against Declaring Coal Industry a Utility.

Special to The New York Times.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 20.—The House Mines and Mining Committee took quick action today on the two anthracite bills of Governor Pinchot, pigeonholing indefintely the bill which makes the industry a public utility and deciding to report out with a negative recommendation the measure which provides for State compacts to regulate retail prices.

The opposition to the bills was chiefly that coal is not a commodity in the sense that water and gas are and that it would be unconstitutional to place anthracite in the same category. It was also held that to allow other States to aid in fixing prices would be unfair.

HOUSE COMMITTEE TO PUSH COAL BILLS

Agitation for Legislation to Check Strikes May Bring Action Next Week.

SENATORS DISCUSS CRISIS

Borah and Copeland Declare Congress Must Act—Reed Charges Dealers Profiteer Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Agitation throughout the country for enactment by Congress of legislation to prevent recurring strikes in the anthracite region of Pennsylvania has resulted in a decision by the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce to give early consideration to this question and indications are that it will take it up next week, pending bills empowering the President to take over the mines, and administer them, whenever an emergency exists or threatens.

The coal situation was discussed in the Senate today, Senator Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania, reading a letter from a Pittsburgh coal company saying that dealers were making exorbitant profits. Senator Copeland of New York suggested that the time had come when Congress should pass legislation dealing with conditions growing out of the shortage.

Senator Reed said that Senator Copeland should criticize the dealer in New York, who, he said, was charging a profit of $10 a ton.

Senator Copeland declared that President Coolidge should call the operators and miners to the White House, as Theodore Roosevelt did on one occasion.

"The Senator knows perfectly well," said Senator Reed, "that this strike cannot be settled without increasing wages, and if he should bring about an increase the Senator from New York would be the first to complain."

Senator Borah said that while the President had no power, there certainly must be lodged power somewhere to settle a problem that affects the health and lives of the people.

"I think it the fault," he said, "is in Congress."

Senator Reed has taken the floor to reply to a speech by Senator Copeland, who had printed in the Congressional Record a letter from a man in Richmondville, N. Y., saying that coal was retailing at $17 a ton. Mr. Reed read from a letter from B. H. Canon of the Clinton Block Coal Company, Pittsburgh, as follows:

"We do not understand this price and think the bituminous operators of Central and Western Pennsylvania are being indirectly accused of profiteering." The letter also said that nut and egg coal, the principal substitutes for anthracite, can be purchased in the Pittsburgh district for $3 a ton at the mines, while the freight rate to Richmondville by one road is $3.47 and by another $3.62.

After a call on President Coolidge today, John Hays Hammond, Chairman of the Federal Coal Commission, expressed the belief that, regardless of anything the Pennsylvania Legislature might do in respect to the strike, Congress should enact legislation to aid the Government to cope with future emergencies.

Mr. Hammond, however, agrees with the President that neither the Executive nor Congress should make any move now that would tend to embarrass Governor Pinchot or the Pennsylvania Legislature in the present endeavor to solve the anthracite problem.

DORAN FINDS SMILES NOW RULE IN BRITAIN

Publisher Arrives on Homeric—Clothier Declares London Men Copy Paris Styles.

George Doran, the publisher, who has been abroad six weeks in Rome, Paris and London, returned yesterday on the Homeric of the White Star Line. He said that he had never seen such a quick change in the temperament of a people as had taken place in England since his last visit six months ago.

"At that time they were all dismal and pessimistic as to the future," said Mr. Doran, "but this time I found smiling countenances everywhere, and they forgot to talk to me about the dole and the income tax."

Mr. Doran said he had obtained the publishing rights to several books in England, including H. G. Wells's "The World of William Clissole," to be ready in the Fall, which the author told him would be his greatest work; "Wanderings in Russia," by E. V. Lucas, and "Six Months in China Behind Closed Doors," by A. R. Range.

Sir Charles Sackville-West, Governor of the Island of Guernsey in the English Channel, whose inhabitants are free of taxes, arrived yesterday on the Homeric with Lady Sackville-West, who comes to discuss with New York theatrical producers the production of a play she recently adapted from "Hidden Forces," by Louis Couperous, the Dutch novelist.

James E. Polits, clothing buyer, who returned on the Homeric, brought word that the men who know in London were following the Paris fashions for male attire, instead of those of Bond Street. Sack coats must Spring, he said, will be one inch longer, and the trousers will be cut seventeen inches round the bottom without cuffs. Men may wear gray and black check trousers with morning coats instead of stripes in the Spring if they have them. Spats are still popular, he said.

DROPS PROTEST ON COL. HASKELL

The American Defense Society Officer Is Satisfied He Is Not Soviet Sympathizer.

ACTED ON OWN INITIATIVE

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 20.—The nomination of Lieut. Col. William N. Haskell to be Major General in command of the State National Guard will be confirmed by the Senate without much delay, it was learned tonight after word had been received at the Capitol that the American Defense Society had withdrawn its attack on him as a sympathizer with Soviet Russia.

Legislative leaders feel assured that there was no basis for the suggestion and the demand for an investigation of the officer's record. It is probable that the Senate Finance Committee will report the nomination favorably early next week.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Secretary Hoover tonight challenged the assertion that Lieut. Col. William N. Haskell was sympathetic toward the Russian Soviet form of government. When the letter of Richard A. Charles, Executive Secretary of the New York Defense Society, protesting against the appointment of the officer was called to the attention of Mr. Hoover, he authorized this statement:

"Colonel Haskell was never pro-Bolshevistic. In fact, he was absolutely the contrary. He is as good an American as walks, and has been a most distinguished public servant."

Charles Withdraws Demand.

Saying that he was "satisfied" with the statement of Lieut. Col. William N. Haskell on Monday, Richard A. Charles, executive secretary of the American Defense Society, Inc., yesterday withdrew his demand for a legislative inquiry into the officer's alleged sympathy with the Russian Soviet Government.

In a second letter addressed to Lieut. Gov. Seymour Lowman, sent to Albany yesterday, Mr. Charles stated that an inquiry was no longer necessary, as Lieut. Col. Haskell had made his position "as definite and convincing as could be desired."

Meanwhile the man selected by Governor Smith to command the State's National Guard, on duty at Governors Island, was being showered with telegrams, letters and telephone calls of congratulation on his selection as Major General. The messages came not only from high army officials and personal friends but from Government leaders, bank presidents, business men and from the National Guard officers who had unsuccessfully sought the appointment.

At the headquarters of the Defense Society, 154 Nassau Street, Mr. Charles declared he had nothing to retract.

He said he had taken action merely as a private individual, without the consent or knowledge of the trustees of the American Defense Society. "There was no time to call a meeting between Monday morning and Monday evening," he explained.

Elon Huntington Hooker, Chairman of the board, could not be reached last night, but Benjamin L. Allen, treasurer of the society, said that he had had no knowledge of Mr. Charles's letter.

Mr. Charles denied that National Guard politics or the claims of Lieut. Col. Haskell's rivals had prompted his action.

Letter Clears Incident.

Hon. Seymour Lowman, Lieutenant Governor New York State, Albany, N. Y.

Dear Sir: In this morning's papers Colonel Haskell answers and makes clear in forceful terms his attitude as regards all the allegations made against him which we called to your attention in our letter of Jan. 19, 1926. This would seem to answer without the need of investigation all questions as to Colonel Haskell's position, and is as definite and convincing as could be desired.

We regret exceedingly that Colonel Haskell in his written and in his spoken word has not heretofore as clearly defined his position. Inasmuch as the Colonel's attitude has been made of record and the allegations answered, we see no good purpose served by formal inquiry that could arrive at no more convincing conclusion.

As you thought it proper to release our letter to the press, and as this matter has been made public, in justice to Colonel Haskell and ourselves, we are giving a copy of this letter to the press.

Yours very respectfully,
THE AMERICAN DEFENSE SOCIETY.
Richard A. Charles, Executive Secy.

At Governors Island yesterday Lieut. Col. Haskell was inclined to treat the whole matter as "just dead" and a closed incident. "No one will pay any more attention to it," he said. "I am glad that the Secretary of the American Defense Society was man enough to come out and admit his mistake. Mr. Charles apparently misunderstood his responsibilities."

WALKER ASKS SUGGESTIONS

All Should Aid, Regardless of Politics, He Tells Yorkville Chamber.

Mayor Walker made a brief address at the twelfth annual dinner of the Yorkville Chamber of Commerce at New York Turn Hall last night, following several other dinner engagements and urged the members to present their local needs through this organization to the City Hall.

"These local bodies are very helpful in reporting local needs to headquarters," said the Mayor," but the Administration must analyze the various demands for local improvements according to necessity rather than the vociferousness of the appeal."

Captain William H. Stayton, Chairman of the National Commission against Prohibition also spoke. Charles F. Eberhart presided.

SEEK VOTE ON COURT; FOES ATTACK DAWES

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

outside of the merits or demerits of the World Court proposal, on the ground that dilatory tactics are unfair. But more potent than either of these is the prospect that, in the present temper of their adversaries, the Senate's limited closure rule will be applied, and the resolution will be acted upon within a few days thereafter.

Out of talks today between Senate leaders of both groups there came the suggestion that an agreement should be reached by unanimous consent that the World Court resolution should be voted on ten days after the tax reduction bill was passed by the Senate. The groundwork of the suggestion was a willingness expressed in open Senate by Senator Simmons, senior Democratic member of the Finance Committee, to vote on the tax bill on Feb. 10. Yesterday Senator Borah said in open Senate that he would favor voting on the World Court measure on Feb. 10.

This afternoon the anti-court group held a conference in Senator Borah's office to discuss the situation. That meeting resulted in a decision to propose an agreement that there should be a vote on the World Court at some date subsequent to the passage of the tax bill by the Senate.

Senator Borah, spokesman for the group, was reticent as to the terms of the proposal, but indicated that it embraced a time element, although not a definite date for a vote, and expressed the opinion that it would lead to an agreement with the pro-court majority for a vote on the World Court after the tax bill had been passed. To a question, he said he did not believe the pro-court contingent had the two-thirds necessary to adopt closure, "but they may have some time."

Fear to Invoke Closure.

The pro-court leaders assert that a two-thirds majority for closure is in sight, but they hesitate to invoke the closure rule, partly for fear of failure. Some of their number will assent to closure only as a last resort.

The agreement which Senator Borah and his followers will propose to the World Court leaders can be arranged by unanimous consent of the Senate.

Senator Cole Blease, who declared the other day that he would fight any effort to curtail debate on the World Court if he had to stay in his place until his term expired—in 1932—"without a bite to eat, a drop to drink, or wink of sleep," changed his mind behind the closed doors of Senator Borah's office, where the anti-Court conference was held. He will not object to the unanimous consent proposal, it is disclosed.

In addition to Senators Blease and Borah, those who attended the conference of antis were Senators Moses, Reed and Williams of Missouri; Shipstead, Frazier, La Follette, Brookhart and Nye. There is no certainty that their proposal will be accepted by the pro-Court majority, but the possibility exists of working out a compromise that will insure a vote at a reasonably early date.

The pro-Court Senators are suspicious that any agreement to postpone voting on the World Court until the tax bill is passed will cause the radical element to prolong the tax bill debate. They want a definite date fixed for voting on the World Court and refusal to agree to that by the antis may bring the closure threat to a head.

Reed Cites Senatorial Courtesy.

When Senator Reed of Missouri rose today to respond to Vice President Dawes' radio speech, he explained that he allowed the Carnegie magazine article to be read yesterday because he was physically unable to go on with his anti-World Court speech, and it was a usual courtesy to a Senator who was not well to take that course. Then, while those on the floor and in the galleries leaned forward, he went on:

"The Vice President on last evening delivered himself over the radio. I do not intend to attack the Vice President from this floor. He has no opportunity to reply, and when I see fit to attack a man in debate I always want to do it where he can answer. It would, in my opinion, be indecent to attack him from the floor and I leave to his sense of decency whether it was decent for him to have attacked me over the radio last night when I was not present. That, of course, is a matter of taste. Every man has his code of honor and his code of ethics and we must all decide those questions for ourselves."

Dawes Says He Meant Another.

Vice President Dawes interrupted to say:

"If the Senator from Missouri will permit the Chair to make a brief statement, as a matter of fact I had reference to an article which was read at the request of the Senator from New York, and did not have in mind at all the article which was read at the request of the Senator from Missouri."

"Then, Mr. President," responded Senator Reed, "you have been very indifferently and improperly reported by all the newspapers, for I read in the press of this morning a statement which contains my name. I am glad, however, to have the Vice President make the statement."

Senator Copeland was up, evidently agitated.

"Just one moment," said Senator Reed, "what I wanted to call attention to, and which it is proper I should call attention to, is a statement of facts made to the country."

He then read a newspaper version of Vice President Dawes's radio speech as follows:

"I am speaking to an intelligent audience. You understand what it means to have individuals stop the wheels from turning. There are 110,000,000 people vitally interested in the tax bill, and when such a piece of legislation is before a great body like the United States Senate you should not permit a man to go up there and read magazine articles and newspaper articles or something else irrelevant.

Denies Holding Up Tax Bill.

"That," continued Senator Reed, "is practically an assertion that the tax bill is before the Senate and that it was held up by the reading of the article which I sent to the desk. That statement of facts I cannot allow to go unchallenged. The tax bill was not before the Senate. The tax bill was not reported to the Senate until this morning. The tax bill was not held up one second by the reading of that article, or one second by anything I have said or done. It would be well for the supercritics of this country to know a little about what they are talking about before they fulminate on the air—a habit which seems to have become fastened upon some of them."

Senator Reed declared he wanted to see a tax bill passed and that those who favor it would be willing to lay aside the World Court proposition this morning to proceed to the reading of the revenue measure. He offered to give up the floor.

"You who are for the tax bill," he added, "you people who want to lift the burdens from the taxpayer, have but to rise in your places at this moment and accept my proposition—and I pause for a reply."

"No reply having been made, the distinguished champion of the measure sitting here (Senator Smoot) as mum as the proverbial oyster, but with a much more intelligent expression of countenance, I charge that the responsibility for delaying the tax bill is upon those who will jeopardize the passage of that great measure in time to relieve the people.

"And it is not upon those of us who say that we have done without a League court ever since Adam was a boy, that this particular court has been in existence a good while, that we have struggled along without it, and that we could still postpone entering this foreign court to submit America's interests to a body of foreigners long enough to relieve the American people without doing any great violence to this nation's future."

Turning to Mr. Dawes again, Mr. Reed said:

"If we want time to debate this measure—and, Mr. President, we propose to occupy all the time necessary, and no more than is necessary—we will debate it."

Copeland Assails Dawes.

When Senator Copeland was recognized, he said:

"Mr. President, I listened to a speech made by the Vice President in my city, in which he made what was plain to be an attack on the dignity of the Senate. In his remarks he held up the Senate to ridicule, and he was making what, in effect, seemed like a deliberate effort to undermine the influence and the usefulness of this body. This morning we read that the Vice President is continuing the same sort of attack upon the Senate.

"I have no disposition to enter into any debate, either with the Vice President of the United States or anybody else, as to my right and duty as a Senator, but I do resent the inaccurate statement of the Vice President made this morning in reply to the Senator from Missouri."

A little later Vice President Dawes gave to newspaper men his apology to Senator Copeland. It read:

"I owe Senator Copeland an apology. He has not attempted to obstruct the progress of the Senate in the World Court debate.

"My references in my short extemporary speech made last night over the radio were to certain kinds of tactics used at times during the World Court debate, and not to yesterday's proceedings alone. The newspaper report of it must have been suggested by the written introductory speech of General James B. Harboard, referring specifically to yesterday's proceedings."

Reed Criticises Bankers.

When the radio incident was over Senator Reed finished his anti-World Court speech. He spoke of "the money and organization of international bankers and financiers" back of the League Court movement, said that J. P. Morgan & Co. advanced billions of dollars at high interest to the Allies before the United States entered the World War, and attacked Edward Bok as an influence for the Court. Mr. Bok, he said, told in "his own self-laudatory autobiography" how he made part of his fortune publishing a woman's magazine and disclosed "how artfully he managed his lady clientele."

Senators Borah and Moses were involved in the heated colloquy later in the day between Senators Lenroot and Johnson. Senator Lenroot got from Senator Borah an endorsement of Senator Johnson's contention yesterday that adherence to the World Court would involve this country in sanctions or primitive measures by the League of Nations.

"The Senator from Idaho," said Mr. Lenroot, "would be unwilling to have any World Court unless it be provided that the nations could never enforce it judgments."

"Absolutely," answered Senator Borah. "When you put force behind these judgments the Court becomes an instrument of war instead of an instrument of peace."

"If we are looking for the way to peace," Senator Lenroot retorted, "it will not be found along the path followed by the gentleman from Idaho."

Senators Lenroot and Johnson walked up and down as, in loud voices, they contradicted each other as to the functions of the World Court.

Then Senator Moses, answering the charge that the antis were wasting time, declared that speeches by pro-Court Senators filled 68½ pages of the Congressional Record, while those of the antis covered only 40½ pages. He denied dilatory tactics.

"I am ready to begin to vote today," he said.

"Vote! Vote!" cried several Senators. But there was no vote. There is no telling when a vote will come.

McCORMICK SAILS TO JOIN WIFE IN PARIS

Leaves on Deutschland, Refusing to Comment—Walska Left on Saturday.

Harold F. McCormick, Chairman of the International Harvester Company of Chicago, who left the French liner Paris ten minutes before sailing time last Saturday, departed at midnight on the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland to join his wife, Ganna Walska, the opera singer, in Paris. He left the Hotel Plaza shortly after 10 o'clock in a taxicab with his baggage and drove to the pier at the foot of West Forty-sixth Street. He declined to make any comment.

To friends who saw him before he left the hotel, Mr. McCormick said he was going to join his wife and was looking forward to meeting her.

Ten minutes before the Paris sailed for Havre last Saturday Mr. McCormick dashed down the gangway and almost ran off the pier, taking his trunk and valise with him, which had not been put on the ship with the thirteen other pieces of baggage.

When stopped by the reporters near the entrance to the pier, Mr. McCormick said he was not sailing but would sail soon. Mrs. McCormick also said the same thing when told that her husband had left the pier. "Of course he is not sailing. He is crossing over next week to meet me in Paris," she said.

On Tuesday Paul Cravath, a lawyer, gave out a statement for Mr. McCormick because of the rumors that the couple had quarreled on the Paris. Mr. Cravath said he knew personally that there was no truth in the rumors, and that Mr. McCormick had turned back for private reasons and would sail in a few days.

DURANT IN HOSPITAL, TURNS STOCK TREND

one, Mr. Durant held his phone open while his secretary talked to the various brokers who attend to his business. Their messages were relayed by the secretary to Mr. Durant, who in turn sent back his buying orders.

At the market's close he was still "bidding them up." Cast Iron Pipe advanced from 18⅝ to 19⅜; Baldwin Locomotive from 123 to 126; Independent Oil and Gas from 26⅝ to 29⅜, and Humble Oil from 92 to 95⅜.

Of course all of the buying in these issues did not come from Mr. Durant. Much of it came from the "bear crowd," which turned tail and ran when the word was spread about the Street that "Durant is back." There was good buying, too, from the "Durant following," which follows the wiry little speculator in every move he makes in the stock market.

Mr. Durant expects to leave the hospital for his home and business the first of next week. In the meantime his physician has no objection to his using the telephone, so long as the patient does not excite himself.

Daily Style Hint For Well-Dressed New Yorkers

NEW YORK, January 21.—In England they term it the jerkin. In America it is known as the wind-breaker. No garment is as spruce and sportsmanlike for winter pastimes in the open.

You will greatly fancy this wind-breaker made of soft, warm cheviot with suede leather sleeves and snug chamois lining.

$112,031 COLLECTED FOR POLICE HOSPITAL

loan was that?" was another question.

"I am not in a position to discuss that either," said the Commissioner.

"Later I expect to know all about that, as well as other things in connection with this fund."

"Who received the office salaries?"

"I don't know," said the Commissioner, "nor am I in a position to talk about the payments on the hospital site nor the item of $33,000 in connection with the settlement of the law suit."

Two Suits Were Threatened.

It developed, however, that there were actually two threatened lawsuits involved in the payment of the $33,000. Robert W. Bernard, partner of John Hilton Wayland in a law firm at 185 Broadway, admitted his firm was counsel for William Ziegler of the Hotel Bossert, in Brooklyn, who had contracted to sell a parcel of property on the hospital site for $135,000.

An option for $7,000 was taken on the property and when the transaction was not completed suit was brought by Mr. Ziegler. It was settled by the payment of $12,000 more from the hospital fund.

In the second suit $10,000 was paid to the estate of John R. Hughes in settlement after a $10,000 option had lapsed. An offer of $110,000 had been made to Mr. Hughes, who died before the transaction had been completed. Suit was brought by Hunter L. Delatour of 218 Montague Street for the widow.

There was another report that the item in the list of disbursements "interest on loan," referred to a loan of $25,000 which the Police Hospital Fund had received when the scheme first was inaugurated in November, 1919, from the Police Relief Fund, Inc., which subsequently took over the police vacation camp during the Enright Administration, at Tannersville, N. Y. This loan, it was understood, was paid back to the relief fund, but no information could be obtained about it yesterday.

Force Surprised at Amount.

The report of the accountants on the Police Hospital Fund to the effect that $112,000 had been obtained was a source of surprise to members of the force. Up to the time Commissioner McLaughlin made the amount public the general impression in the force was that not more than $50,000 had been gathered. Acting Captain Mangin had previously told Commissioner McLaughlin that he personally had turned over to Mr. Enright, as Police Commissioner, $40,000 in checks which he had received from bankers and others in the city. Mangin also told Mr. McLaughlin that Mr. Enright had commissioned him to solicit money in this manner for the fund.

The Lieutenant also said it was his understanding that an additional $9,000 had been gathered through other channels and Mr. Day, at about the same time, said it was his recollection that but $40,000 had been paid to owners of property on the proposed hospital site in settlement of the options instead of the $73,000 which the accountant's report indicated had been paid from the fund in this manner.

In a statement issued last Sunday by Mr. Enright in connection with the funds for various purposes created during his Administration, he said:

"The Police Hospital Fund, amounting to upward of $50,000, was raised in 1920 and turned over to an organization known as the Police Hospital, Inc., of which General Coleman du Pont is President and Louis G. Kaufman, President of the Chatham and Phenix Bank, is Treasurer. Owing to the financial depression which was precipitated in 1920, just as the Police Hospital Fund campaign was under way, it was necessary to postpone further activities and to arrange to dispose of the land purchased or obtained under options previously entered into, and the liquidation of the obligations embraced in these options practically exhausted this fund."

Mr. Kaufman said last evening he had furnished to Commissioner McLaughlin the analysis of the audit of the Police Hospital Fund by accountants employed by the trustees of the fund in 1922.

"Whatever disbursements were made in connection with the fund were ordered by the trustees of the fund," Mr. Kaufman explained. "I really can't recall the names of all the trustees, but I remember that R. A. C. Smith and T. Coleman du Pont were among them.

"I gave little or no attention to the fund," continued Mr. Kaufman. "It was handled by a Mr. Wallace, one of my assistants at the bank. When I learned that Commissioner McLaughlin had ordered an inquiry made into the status of the fund, in order to place before him any information that he might desire, I had the accountants who examined the records of the fund in 1922 send me a copy of the audit, and I sent this to the Police Commissioner."

A List of Subscribers.

The drive for funds was in progress three weeks in February, 1920, when it became known that Mr. Enright had ordered it dropped. Acting Captain Mangin in that time had visited many persons in the financial district and obtained contributions or promises of financial support. There was a report at the time that arrangements were being made to take up Mangin's work through a committee of citizens of which Mr. du Pont, who later became a Special Deputy Police Commissioner, was expected to be named Chairman.

Coincident with this report the following list of subscribers to the fund was made public:

William K. Vanderbilt	$100,000
American Biscuit Company	15,000
Sinclair Oil Company	10,000
Harry Payne Whitney	10,000
Liggett Drug Company	5,000
United Cigar Stores Company	5,000
Chauncey M. Depew	5,000
Willys Automobile Company	5,000
Metropolitan Tobacco Company	5,000
	$160,000

It is known that Commissioner McLaughlin's investigators are seeking information as to whether any of these were among those who actually subscribed to the fund.

TROTSKY HAS FAILED TO REGAIN POWER

STALIN IS THE STRONG MAN

Likened to Charles Murphy, He Keeps in Background and Lets Others Have Spotlights.

HELPS TO DEFEAT TROTSKY

And Then Smashes the War Minister's Enemies Without Letting Him Regain Prestige.

By WALTER DURANTY.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—What is the position of Trotsky in the new Russian line-up? That is the first question put in Europe to any one from Russia. A large part of the British press says flatly that the recent reshuffle of the Communist Party and the Soviet Government leadership is a victory for the ex-war lord, who has "come back" more powerful than ever.

This is a mistake. Trotsky is no longer the most popular personality in the Soviet Union, as a year ago he was virtually but not actually shelved, and he failed to receive the important post his friends confidently anticipated a month ago.

To understand the Russian situation three points must be considered separately—one, the Communist Party as supreme power behind the Soviet Government; two, the Soviet Government in relation to internal affairs; three, the Soviet Government in relation to foreign affairs.

From the recent Communist Party convention one fact sharply emerges, the supremacy of Stalin, whom Lenin's mantle fits better each day. When Lenin died Stalin's position in the Communist Party was analogous to that of Charles Murphy after the retirement of Croker from the Tammany leadership. Like Murphy, Stalin is not a picturesque figure, preferring the background to the spotlight. What is more, even Lenin was nominally only first among equals. To win a tenth of his popularity seemed hopeless.

Stalin Keeps the Real Power.

Stalin began by abandoning to Rykoff and Kameneff Lenin's two most important posts in the Soviet Government, as distinct from the Communist Party—President of the Council of Commissars and President of the Council of Labor and Defense. This he did because he realized that the leadership of the Communist Party was far more important.

The first anniversary of Lenin's death hardly came round before Trotsky, who had seemed to tower above Stalin and the rest of the Communist Party leaders, was apparently disgraced and almost exiled to the Caucasus. Trotsky made the mistake of seeing too far ahead and acting too precipitately. He realized that Lenin's New Economic Policy—That is, the trend from militant communism to State capitalism — had not gone far enough; that if the peasants, upon whom in the last instance rests the whole economic structure of Russia, were to be kept loyal to the Soviet Government still further capitalist methods must be introduced.

The Communist Party "purists," Zinovieff, Bukharin, Kameneff, shrieked in horrified opposition. In a bitter controversy, in which personal attacks were made, Trotsky was defeated. But many of his ideas were subsequently adopted and the remorseless current of life swept on stronger than the Communist theory.

State Capitalism Established.

By the time the recent party convention opened in the middle of December it was not only evident that State capitalism was established in principle, but that it must be extended still more along capitalist lines. Again the "Old Guard" of the party raised its voice in alarm and warning. But this time Stalin did not back them but let them hammer themselves to pieces against the stark realism of facts. By a rare but not unconstitutional occurrence they allowed the present minority resolution to go to the convention. They secured 59 votes from 665 delegates.

Meanwhile Trotsky had been summoned back in the Summer from the Caucasus and given an administrative position of secondary importance. He attended the recent party convention, but took no part in the discussions. Apart from the satisfaction of seeing his own foresight justified, he simply is marking time.

There followed a reshuffle in the Soviet Government. Kameneff lost the Presidency of the Council of Labor and Defense, which passed to Rykoff, who thus assumes in full the position of Lenin in the Government.

Much more significant was the appointment of two comparatively new figures, Quibeshieff and Rutsutak, as his lieutenants. Both are strong figures in the Communist Party, both are devoted supporters of Stalin, both are committed to the realist policy of understanding the needs of the peasants and the necessity of satisfying those needs as far as possible.

New Men Are "Moderates."

As Commissar for the peasants and workers, Quibeshieff has been chiefly instrumental in transforming Krassin's Foreign Trade Monopoly Bureau from a bottleneck, through which it was attempted to pass the whole foreign trade of Russia, into a control bureau to supervise foreign sales and purchases by employing qualified business experts for the departments concerned.

As Commissar of Railroads Rudzutak had learned the practical realities of grain and goods transport in relation to the vast peasant population. The replacement of Finance Minister Sokolnikoff, who also followed the minority in the party convention, by his "moderate" subordinate, Brukhanoff, is another step in the same direction. For the time being at least the internal policy of the Soviet Government is definitely capitalistic—State capitalism, but capitalism nevertheless.

The defeat of Zinovieff is likely to have an equally marked if perhaps less quickly evident effect on the Soviet Government's foreign relations. Hitherto Zinovieff, as one of the most powerful members of the Communist Party, was able to swing foreign policy more on Communist international than on Russian national lines.

Naturally enough his Communist "missionaries" abroad and members of Communist parties in foreign countries gave very different reports from those of the Soviet Foreign Office and its diplomatic representatives accredited to foreign capitals.

Here the all important factor of the peasants enters again. If their needs in manufactured foods cheap in price and plentiful in quantity are to be met, foreign credits are necessary. Had Zinovieff's Communist International brought about a world revolution it might have been another story. But the Bolsheviki now admit "temporary" stabilization of world capitalism.

Pennsylvania Pardon Board Hears Appeal For Cavalier Boy Who Killed Grandmother

Special to The New York Times.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 20.—The case of William C. Cavalier, who in 1924 at the age of 14 murdered his grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Cavalier, that he might obtain money to go to a motion picture show, was held under advisement today by the State Board of Pardons.

A decision may be reached in a few days. The board announced its action was the result of the absence of Lieut. Gov. Davis, Chairman of the board, who is attending a National Guard convention at Jacksonville. He is expected home at the end of the week.

The three members who heard the appeal today to commute the death sentence to life imprisonment were Attorney General Woodruff, Secretary of the Commonwealth King and Secretary of Internal Affairs Woodward.

The boy's mother, the jury that convicted him, the Child Welfare Bureau of the State of New York and the citizens of Schuykill County joined in asking the State Pardon Board for clemency, that the youth might be given what was characterized "the first chance of his life."

Against all the appeals for mercy, the District Attorney of Schuykill County, Cyrus Palmer, held out for "justice" in a murder which he termed "passing atrociousness, peculiarly vicious and cold bloodedness to the extreme."

The boy was represented by Assemblyman C. W. Staudenmeier and P. B. Roads.

CROMWELL ENDOWS MEMORIAL IN PARIS

Will Build a Crypt for American Aviators Who Died With Lafayette Escadrille.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—William Nelson Cromwell, international lawyer, of New York and Paris, has permanently endowed the recently organized "Lafayette Escadrille Foundation," which is to maintain in perpetuity one of the most impressive memorials to war heroes in France.

A sixty-acre park adjoining Saint Cloud, just outside Paris, has been acquired by the Lafayette Escadrille Association and work has already commenced on an arch of triumph, seventy feet in height, flanked by colonnades, with a total area of 200 feet in the rear, in which will be a crypt containing the tombs of sixty-five American pilots who gave their lives to the Allies' cause.

On the stone façades of the monument will be inscribed the names not only of the dead, but also those of 150 surviving aviators.

The insignia of the various escadrilles, both French and American, wherein the Lafayette flying corps fought, will form the decoration under the arch. The monument will rest in an open glade, with a magnificent forest in the background and a small lake in front. It is hoped to hold the dedication services on Armistice Day of this year.

The cost of the monument will be $125,000, and the site, on the route from Paris to Versailles, was chosen because it is most frequented by American tourists and easily reached from Paris. It is hoped to make it the outstanding memorial of the war.

SALM SUED IN VIENNA.

Count to Be Questioned Here Concerning an Inventor's Charges.

VIENNA, Jan. 20.—A suit for $1,500 has been started here against Count Ludwig Salm-Hoogstraten by former Lieutenant Colonel Ritter von Schildenfeldt, who alleges that the Count failed to carry out a promise to finance an invention of his improving a typewriter.

The courts ordered that Count Salm be questioned at his present address in New York by the Austrian Consul in that city.

Hermann B. Goodstein, attorney here for Count Salm, denied yesterday that the latter had made any such arrangements as Colonel Schildenfeldt alleges. Two years ago, he said, the Count agreed to purchase a patent from Colonel Schildenfeldt for $1,000, but the patent was never produced and so the Count refused to pay. The case came up in the Viennese courts, he went on, but an attempt to recover damages from the Count failed.

At the Austrian Consulate General it was said that that office knew nothing of the affair.

BIG ISSUES TO CAUSE ARMS PARLEY DELAY

European Participants Have a Host of Problems That Will Prolong Sessions.

FIRST TO SETTLE SECURITY

Preparatory Meeting in Which We Join May Wait Until Late March or April.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—Approval by the House of Representatives of the appropriation to cover the expenses of the American delegation to the preparatory disarmament conference which is scheduled to meet at Geneva on Feb. 15, directs attention more closely to the work cut out for that meeting.

American public opinion is due to be disillusioned if it drifts into the belief that the group of men to meet in Geneva can arrange quickly a meeting of all nations to limit their armaments. As a matter of fact, the diplomats who will meet in Geneva will find before them the most difficulty and most entangled issue any diplomats ever met to discuss.

Now the meeting in Geneva in February is not the meeting to set the date and place for the general arms conference. The purpose of the meeting is to organize a preparatory commission, which is to meet for some weeks the first time, and to meet subsequently as it may be called upon, until the situation has been reached where the disarmament conference may be called with some chance of success, which chance the arms conference called now could not have.

The big idea in the heads of the European diplomats who go to Geneva will be, not disarmament, but that national security which they regard as the predominant issue, and of which the reduction of armies would be the result.

Want Security Against Neighbors.

The French want security against Germany and Germany wants security against France and Poland. Poland wants security against Germany and Russia. Rumania wants security against Russia and Bulgaria, while Bulgaria wants security against the Rumanians and the Greeks. The Greeks want security against the Turks and Serbs, while the Serbs want security against Italy. Austria wants security against Hungary, and Hungary wants security against her neighbors.

Everybody in Europe wants security. The only way they think they now have of obtaining it is by their armies. If they get security any other way, they will discuss reducing the means by which they consider they now have it.

Among the postulates set down is one that population should be taken into consideration, because the nation with a big population has a better chance to make a big war-time army and that, therefore, the nation with a smaller population should have a greater standing force. One would only have to follow that reasoning along to give Austria and Belgium the biggest armies in Europe.

The economic resources of a nation have been put forward as another thing to be considered in fairly fixing its standing military forces. It has been asked that a distinction be made between defensive and offensive military arms and also that geographical position be considered a determining factor. Then many nations call for full discussion of the relations to the security they may or may not get from the regional compacts, like those of Locarno, and the limitation of armaments.

Rumania Suspects Russia.

Take Rumania. If she cuts her army, she wants Russia's army cut and she wants it to stay cut. She wants a promise that the other nations will help her if Russia attacks Bessarabia. Germany wants France's army cut to 100,000 or less, while the French have scarcely enough troops to deal with the Riffians and Syrians.

All other nations want to know about England's and France's colonial armies which can be transported to Europe and England, and France wants no interference in her colonial business.

English diplomats made quite plain when they rejected the Geneva protocol that they could not go into any system of cutting off trade and economic relations with an offending nation if the result would be to drive that trade into American channels. So Washington will surely be asked for a statement of its attitude on joining the economic sanctions.

Doubtless we will also be asked what will be our attitude if one of our ships were halted by a League blockade put onto an offending country. Indeed, this issue was considered when the Council of the League was considering the sanctions to apply in the recent Greco-Bulgar dispute.

Postponement of Meeting Certain.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Jan. 20.—Postponement of the first meeting of the Preparatory Commission for Disarmament, which was fixed by the League Council for Feb. 15, is now certain. The new date will be decided on by Austin Chamberlain and Premier Briand upon the former's visit to Paris in two weeks' time, but there is reason to believe that the delay will not exceed five weeks.

While the inspiration for the delay originated in London and Paris, other nations participating agree that a postponement of several weeks would be advisable, not only will this permit Germany to sit in the commission as a full member of the League, but it will give Russia time to regulate her differences with Switzerland and to make up her mind to participate in the disarmament work.

There is a feeling of the greatest optimism regarding the regulation of the Russo-Swiss quarrel. The Soviets are less exigent than ever before and Switzerland is eager to do everything compatible with national dignity to heal the breach.

As far as separation of the military and naval questions for discussion at separate conferences is concerned, America should not be too optimistic. According to the theses adopted by the League Assembly, these questions are inseparable. A nation's ability to make war or defend itself depends on both land and naval forces. Great Britain, for instance, does not need so big an army as France because she has a powerful navy.

Except for Great Britain and Japan, the nations of the world do not care what the United States does about its navy. The nations, however, do fear the added strength which a navy gives Britain and Japan, and it is considered perfectly natural that they should oppose American efforts to fix a standard for naval reduction which does not take into account their fears and gives them nothing to play against the navies that they fear.

DAVIS URGES SPEED IN AIR LEGISLATION

Secretary of War Says Definite Policy Would Aid the Army Morale.

OPPOSES UNIFIED PLAN

Military and Naval Branches Have Separate Missions, He Tells the House Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Settlement of the aircraft controversy was urged before the House Military Affairs Committee today by Dwight F. Davis, Secretary of War, who appeared in support of the Administration bill carrying into operation the report of the Morrow Aircraft Board as it affects the army air service.

After reading a statement to the committee and in reply to questions on the importance of reaching some conclusion of the matter, Mr. Davis said:

"I hope Congress will settle this question one way or another this year. It will do more for the morale than anything else."

Enlargement of the Council of National Defense was advocated by Secretary Davis. He also stated that the question of bringing together the war and navy departments naturally appeals to the business men of the country, who follow principles of consolidation for the sake of getting economy.

Conditions affecting the two departments are not, he argued, on a parallel basis, and added that they have separate missions to perform, and that if they were brought together in a single department, the argument for consolidation might be extended on down to the railroads and everything else that goes into the national defense in time of war.

"The national defense," he said, "is a question of all the various elements that go into making war."

Mr. Davis added that the Council of National Defense ought to include the Secretary of the Treasury because of the question of finances that enters into war; and the Secretary of State, who deals with questions of diplomacy. He said it was not realized by the public to just what extent there was coordination of activities at present. Not long ago, he said, instructions were issued for the use of joint facilities in the matter of equipment to prevent unnecessary duplication in the Air Services.

Mr. Davis said the principle of coordination was being followed in the chemical warfare and other services, such as ordnance and planning divisions, and he had suggested to his associates that they undertake to bring about closer coordination in times of peace.

PUT FORD AMONG WORLD'S 3 GREATEST

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—King George, the Prince of Wales and Henry Ford are the three greatest men in the world, according to a majority of New Zealand schoolboys sounded by the Y. M. C. A. as a part of its world inquiry into what its youth is thinking about.

The name of President Coolidge also was mentioned.

Some Japanese schoolboys cited Abraham Lincoln, Woodrow Wilson and George Washington in answer to the question "What three great men have exerted the greatest influence in the world?"

Curiously enough, 400 of the 600 Japanese placed Christ first and Buddha second, although Japan is a Buddhist country.

Confucius, Napoleon, Wija Tinno, Kaiser Wilhelm and Thomas A. Edison ranked next in order of importance.

The Japanese youths, with generosity, favored the white race in answer to a question as to whether it was superior to the yellow or black.

Three of them, asked to state how they wished to work for their country during the next decade, answered that they intended to spend the time preparing for a Japanese-American war.

A large number of Japanese boys urged a greater social mingling of the sexes, but added the significant qualification "without the bad influence which has recently come from the West."

A New Zealand boy, asked whether God had any favorite nation, answered "England, because it says so in the Bible."

To the question "How do boys treat foreigners?" came these thought-provoking replies:

"With little respect."

"Treat them rough."

"We look upon a Chinaman with scorn and other people with curiosity."

Another boy who showed no intention elsewhere of being humorous was asked "what besides war might develop the qualities which come out in war?"

HITS AT MEDICAL COUNCIL.

G. B. Shaw Not Mollified by Dr. Axham's Reinstatement as Physician

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—George Bernard Shaw acidly criticised the Medical Council again today when told that the Royal College of Physicians at Edinburgh had reinstated on the list of graduates the name of Dr. Axham.

"I presume the decision will give personal satisfaction to Dr. Axham," said Mr. Shaw, "but I do not know why he is anxious to get on the register. It is hardly an honor nowadays. If Axham is pleased I am pleased.

"I am concerned more with the public aspect of the question, the constitution of the General Medical Council. The thing that matters is the control of the medical profession over all our lives. I suppose everybody will say it is all right, now that Dr. Axham has been put back on the register. It is by no means all right. The real question is that the whole control of the business is in the hands of a trade union."

KELLOGG HITS BACK AT MEXICO'S DENIAL

of 1917 which has been the subject of frequent protests by this Government.

While Mexico had never formally signed any agreement, or had ever formally pledged herself, in writing, not to give retroactive effect to the much discussed article, it was emphasized today that verbal assurances had been definitely given in the course of the Payne-Warren negotiations of 1923, upon which the American Government based its recognition of the Obregon Government.

The oil law has been published in the Mexican official gazette, while the land law, although approved by the Mexican Congress, has not yet been printed in the official journal, which is the last step but one before it becomes operative.

As a final step President Calles is required to issue regulations concerning the enforcement of the legislation before it can be definitely put into effect. These have not been promulgated with respect to either law and it has been the hope here that a way might be still found by the Mexican Government to eliminate retroactive application of the new laws by means of these regulations.

Kellogg Sends Data to Senate.

In response to the La Follette resolution in the Senate for information regarding any agreements which might have preceded the recognition of Mexico, the State Department today forwarded the minutes of the Joint American-Mexican Commission, which met in Mexico City in 1923. These minutes, which are all the data the department has, have been published, as have been those of the debt funding negotiations conducted by an international banking group.

The State Department said that there were no secret understandings in the matter of recognition.

Sheffield Gets Mexican Reply.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 20 (AP).—The American Embassy this afternoon received a note from the Mexican Foreign Office replying to Ambassador Sheffield's recent note, protesting against the retroactive provisions of two new Mexican laws known as the Petroleum and Anti-Alien Land law.

The embassy declined to reveal the contents of the Mexican note or to make any statement for the present.

Several additional foreign oil companies have filed applications for injunctions against the retroactive provisions of the new petroleum law. All together there have been fifty-eight applications made for injunctions thus far.

QUOTES PETROLEUM LAW.

Guy Stevens Says Mexican Act Destroys Private Titles.

Guy Stevens, director of the Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico, which represents American and other foreign oil companies interested in Mexico, said yesterday that in view of the apparent misunderstanding of the scope of the Mexican Foreign Office statement published yesterday it seemed desirable to point out that the statement refers exclusively to the enactment known as the Alien Land law, which was finally passed by the Congress about a month ago, but has not as yet been officially published.

No reference, according to Mr. Stevens, is made in the statement to the enactment known as the Petroleum law, which was officially promulgated Dec. 31, 1925.

"The Petroleum law declares the ownership of all petroleum deposits, without exception, to be vested exclusively in the nation," said Mr. Stevens. "All private titles are destroyed, and all rights heretofore acquired in petroleum lands are confiscated.

"Articles 14 and 15 of the law, which purport to 'confirm' previously acquired rights in certain limited classes of lands, merely have the effect of giving to some owners of such rights a preference for one year to obtain concessions subject to the terms of the new law. Other owners of previously acquired rights have not even such a preference.

"Foreign corporations may not obtain petroleum concessions under the law. Foreign individuals may obtain them only after agreeing not to seek the protection of their own Governments in respect to anything that may arise in connection with their investments or operations under such concessions."

BROKAW

Overcoats Are Now Reduced $5, $10, $15, $20

THESE few words of cheer are directed to men who have never worn a Brokaw overcoat.

To such deluded mortals we propose this little adventure.

Draw up a chair next to the fire. Light your pipe and meditate soulfully on that pet coat which you cherished for so many years.

The coat that you picked up in London for a mere song, that wore for so many years, that everyone liked so much.

KEEP on thinking about it until you recall all its virtues, all the beauty of its colorings, all the staunchness of its fabrics.

Then come to Brokaw.

Compare your most prized coat with our everyday ones.

Be as critical as you like.

Within five—possible ten—minutes after you enter the store, you will rank Brokaw clothing with the finest of your experience.

You will be openly enthusiastic over its smartness, its sturdiness, its altogether distinguished appearance.

Engineer Forecasts Autos to Travel 100 Miles on a Gallon of Gasoline.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 20.—Matters of major importance came tumbling over one another today at the convention of the American Petroleum Institute in session here.

Early in the day J. Edgar Pew, President of the institute, took the floor and announced that the organization has employed Charles Evans Hughes, former Secretary of State, to represent the institute in matters before the Federal Oil Conservation Board. He read a formal letter of acceptance from Mr. Hughes.

President Pew also read a letter from H. J. Halle, President of the Universal Oil Products Company of Chicago, in which the company announced that it would give $250,000 for the furtherance of research work in connection with the development, use and conservation of petroleum.

The announcement that Mr. Hughes had been engaged, as read by President Pew, was in part as follows:

"The Board of Directors of the American Petroleum Institute announce that Charles Evans Hughes has been retained by the institute to represent it in matters before the Federal Oil Conservation Board.

"The purpose of engaging the services of Mr. Hughes may best be stated by Mr. Hughes's own words, where he says that he accepts 'with the understanding that it is desired that there shall be a cordial and thoroughgoing cooperation with the Federal Oil Conservation Board in order to aid the development of the facts and the appropriate examination of the problems of the industry in the light of both private and public interest.'

Standardization Under Discussion.

The general subjects discussed at the group meetings included the standardization of oil and field equipment, motor fuel and motor lubrication, uniform methods of accounting, natural gasoline, and fire prevention and protection in the petroleum industry.

Natural gasoline was discussed at the joint meeting of members of the institute and the Association of Natural Gasoline Manufacturers, conducted under the direction of Harry J. Bauer of the Pacific Gasoline Company.

Natural gasoline, once known as "casing head" and regarded as a waste product, is now reclaiming 1,000,000,000 barrels of fuel oil per year that formerly went to waste, it was pointed out by E. L. Peck, President of the Association of Natural Gasoline Products, who gave the principal address.

Harry J. Bauer of the Pacific Gasoline Company presided over the discussion on the floor, which was led by S. B. Mosier of the Signal Gasoline Company of California.

Fire prevention and protection in the petroleum industry formed the subject for a number of papers read by the members of the industrial group. G. O. Wilson, of the Standard Oil Company of California, told what has been accomplished by the use of steam. Charles M. Haupt, of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, said that the records of the institute show "that the number of fires in above ground storage tanks is extraordinarily small and that fire spread and consequent damage to adjoining property, where reasonable precautions are observed, are practically negible."

J. A. Watterson of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana told of what has been done to furnish protection against electric currents and static electricity. His investigations went to show that the number of tank fires originating in static is much smaller than has been generally believed.

Foresee Decreased Production.

In a telegram from New York to the institute published in its official bulletin today, Paul Shoup of the Associated Oil Company and the Southern Pacific Company, deplored waste and unnecessary competition and predicted further mergers of capital and decreased production in California.

Following the same channel, Fayette B. Dowe, traffic expert and associate counsel of the institute, told the members that they are losing money.

Automobile motor development within the next five years that will double the gasoline mileage now enjoyed by motorists was predicted by A. Ludlow Clayden, Philadelphia, chief engineer of gas-engine research for the Sun Oil Company.

The average American motorist will drive his automobile from seventy-five to one hundred miles on 25 cents' worth of gasoline within the next decade, according to Mr. Clayden. Within five years automobiles will be operated from forty to fifty miles on a gallon of gasoline, he said.

ADDS TO PETROLEUM FUND.

Universal Oil Products Company Gives $250,000 for Research.

Announcement was made here yesterday that John D. Rockefeller's gift of $250,000 to the American Petroleum Institute for "the initiation of a program of scientific research in petroleum" had been supplemented by a gift of $250,000 by Hiram J. Halle, President of the Universal Oil Products Company, and his associates.

Mr. Halle's and his associates' gift, it was said, was made last week at a meeting of the institute's directors at Los Angeles. The gift, like Mr. Rockefeller's, was made to cover a five years' study of the scientific problems and possibilities of petroleum which must be made available to those engaged in the industry.

"We have had plans in preparation for the establishment of scholarships in universities and colleges in the United States and foreign countries for the study and development of the pure science of this important subject," said Mr. Halle in a letter to the directors. "We now feel that concentration of this work under one directing body, and for the free use of the industry, is likely to more quickly advance and more efficiently accomplish the desired results."

$4,000,000 by the increased alcohol tax during 1926, while Mr. Smoot contended that it would not be effective until 1927. Senator Smoot also questioned the accuracy of calculations by Mr. Simmons dealing with the admissions tax.

Senator Simmons criticised the Finance Committee for increasing the corporation tax above the present 12½ per cent. He said he favored obtaining the added revenue, not by increase of this tax, but by applying his scheme of changing the sinking fund payments on the public debt. He declared he still believes his program involving the sinking fund was the best, and he discussed the matter with Secretary Mellon this morning. He would not talk about his conference.

Prediction was made by Democratic House leaders that the estate tax repeal would not be approved by that body and that the Senate would recede and leave the estate taxes as the House framed them. There was a suggestion today that Senator Jones of New Mexico would move to substitute an inheritance tax for the estate tax when the bill came before the Senate.

BUSINESS MEN OPTIMISTIC.

Report No Slackening of Trade Because of Tax Uncertainty.

A survey conducted in banks and business houses yesterday indicated that current business is not being affected by the tax situation in Congress and the uncertainty over the rates that finally will be adopted. Business in general is taking an optimistic view of the effects of the measure to be enacted. The tendency to change the original proposals, as in the corporation tax, for instance, leaving merchants uncertain as to the amounts they must allow for taxes in arranging for new business, is causing some annoyance, but the situation has not reached the stage of holding up of contracts or slowing down of trade.

Regarding the corporation tax, now apparently slated to be 13½ per cent. in place of the present 12½ per cent., most business tax experts predict favorable results, since the advance in the rate will be offset by the abolishment of the capital stock tax. Several business houses already have tax experts compute the amount they would have to pay under the old basis of 12½ per cent. tax in addition to the capital stock tax, and the proposed new basis of a straight 13½ per cent. tax on the earnings of corporations. Actual figures, it was reported, showed little difference. In most of the cases handled, it was said, a slightly higher amount would be paid in taxes under the new than under the old system, but the margin was so small that it would hardly figure as a factor in determining prices.

Competition was another factor declared to be acting against a slowing up of business because of the tax situation in Congress. Most lines of business, it was said, were going after new orders so intensively at present that a possible difference of one-fourth of 1 per cent. or 1 per cent. in the tax for the year would not check efforts toward the lending of desirable contracts. If a miscalculation should be made in individual cases, business houses would rely on the general business development of the year to make up for occasional losses. It is believed, also, that business in general, and competent tax experts in particular, have a fairly accurate idea of what the tax bill may be expected to be in its final form. It is pointed out that in tax legislation it is usual for various proposals to be put forward in the way of trading material, and after all sides have been heard an equitable compromise usually is reached.

60 MILES IN BUSES TO PUTNAM DINNER

County's Chamber of Commerce Broadcasts Its Attractions From a Banquet Here.

FISH ASKS GASOLINE TAX

Representative Would Have it Pay for New State Roads — Coler and Craig Eulogize County.

Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., speaking last night at the first dinner of the new Putnam County Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel Roosevelt, urged a State tax on gasoline to pay for a system of new and larger State roads, including a 100-foot highway from here to Albany.

Congressman Fish said Putnam County needed such an organization as the Chamber of Commerce to prevent encroachments upon it from Westchester and the Greater City, and to frustrate the proposal of Governor Smith that in the interests of economy some of the smaller counties be merged with the larger ones.

"If Governor Smith really believes in such a measure he can begin right at home," said Mr. Fish, "and consolidate the counties of the Greater City, thereby eliminating a great source of waste and extravagance in government."

Former Controller Charles L. Craig was introduced by the toastmaster, former State Senator James E. Towner, President of the Chamber, as "loved for the enemies he has made." Mr. Craig spoke of the natural beauty and advantages of Putnam County, and predicted a rise in its real estate. Welfare Commissioner Bird S. Coler, like Mr. Craig a Summer resident of Putnam County, also predicted an early rise in real estate there.

The dinner, to which most of those present came more than sixty miles by motor bus and returned the same way to their homes, was held here to give wide publicity to the county's advantages. The speeches were broadcast. County Judge J. Bennett Southard of Putnam, William F. Bleakely, Mrs. Jessie F. Attwater and Leslie Sutherland, Vice President of the Third Avenue railroad, were other speakers. Some notables of Putnam County who were present included Rhinelander Waldo, Fifth Deputy Police Commissioner Philip D. Hoyt and H. H. Vreeland, former President of the Metropolitan Street Railroad.

doorway as they were escaping, after having shoved a girl and a man, clerks in the bank, into the cellar.

Three were subsequently convicted of murder in the first degree for their share in the shooting. Ross was convicted on Oct. 11, 1924, and sentenced to death by Judge Lewis J. Smith in Mineola. Slattery was convicted on Nov. 24 and sentenced a week later. Klavans, the last of the three, was not found guilty until Feb. 21 of last year, after a jury disagreement had made a second trial necessary.

Sing Sing Still Without Executioner.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, Jan. 20.—With Governor Smith's refusal to save Ambrose J. Ross from the electric chair and his execution set for tomorrow night, Sing Sing is still without an official executioner.

"I have not done a thing about picking an executioner," said Warden Lawes tonight. "I will talk to four or five applicants who have a knowledge of electricity and will make a decision in the next twenty-four hours. I do not think we will make public the identity of the new executioner, whoever he is, and he will be instructed that he is not to seek publicity."

In view of Governor Smith's decision, Warden Lawes himself, should he be unable to decide on a successor to the State executioner, John Hulbert, who resigned last week, will be obliged to send the death current through Ross's body.

There is confusion unprecedented at Sing Sing on the eve of an execution. Warden Lawes has been under a great strain for a week because of the critical illness of his wife, who was operated upon in the Post-Graduate Hospital in Manhattan.

Thomas McInerney, principal keeper, who ordinarily has charge of the execution squad, is in Ossining Hospital recovering from an operation.

TRUSTEES TO DECIDE ON CATHEDRAL ART

Committee to Consider the Wishes of Americans to Execute All of It.

FOREIGNERS NOT BARRED

Cram Declares, However, He Hopes to Find Native Sculptors Equal to the Task.

The fact that American artists and architects have been discussing with keen interest the question whether foreign artists should be employed on the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, in view of its supposed national character, has been called to the attention of Bishop William T. Manning, it was learned yesterday. The Bishop is reported to have said that the subject was under inquiry by a committee of the trustees of the cathedral.

Several leading American sculptors, it was said, have been holding in check a group of American artists who have been agitating in favor of holding meetings and adopting resolutions opposing the employment of foreign sculptors or other artists on the cathedral. Those who have discouraged this movement have argued that American artists would be seriously misunderstood if they made any public protest; that they would be ridiculed as disappointed job-seekers and as jealous or disgruntled artists.

A leading American architect, however, took it on himself to present the artist's side to Bishop Manning, arguing that the cathedral had been put forth as a great national monument; that it was to be representative of America and American art, and that centuries hence it would be studied on the assumption that it was American art of the twentieth century. Bishop Manning, it was said, listened to this and promised that this viewpoint would receive sympathetic consideration from a committee of trustees.

English Sculptor at Work.

So far only one foreign artist has been employed, an English sculptor, who is making eight figures for the baptistry.

Ralph Adams Cram, architect of the cathedral, said last night over the telephone from his home at Sudbury, Mass., that he proposed to use several American sculptors on the cathedral if they could do the work, but that he would do his best to try to bar any American artist who objected to the employment of English, French, Italian or Spanish artists who were wanted by the architect or trustees.

Another point was raised yesterday by several New York sculptors and architects who discussed the question guardedly. This was that American artists had been asked to subscribe $150,000 for a Cathedral Bay representing the fine arts. To the American sculptors have been allotted the task of raising $10,000. This fund, it was said, has been lagging.

The head of one great artistic organization, who would not not permit his name to be quoted, said that there was some dissatisfaction on this score from American sculptors who thought they had been slighted. He said that American sculptors were generally conceded today to rank with those of any nation, and were hurt at the employment of sculptors from abroad. He said also that, while American artists would have no grounds for complaint if a private work were involved, they felt entitled to express themselves regarding the Cathedral, since their contributions have been sought specifically on the ground that the Cathedral of St. John the Divine was to be a great national work of art.

When reports of the dissatisfaction on the part of certain artists was conveyed over the telephone to Mr. Cram last night, he said:

"I have already taken steps with the trustees of the Cathedral to obtain money to pay a dozen American sculptors for the purpose of finding out the kind of work that they would do. I propose to use just as many American sculptors on the Cathedral as prove their ability to do the kind of work that we want.

Wants American Sculptors.

"It is my desire to have every good sculptor that can work in accordance with the style of the Cathedral and the thing the Cathedral has to express. It is my desire to give American sculptors every possible chance to do the work, but if any American sculptors take any position against the employment of fine artists of other countries, in order that they may get the work themselves, I will do everything in my power to stop any such sculptor from getting any work on the cathedral. I want every American sculptor that can do the work. But neither the trustees nor I will be dictated to by any artist or any sculptor whatever.

"I began this thing, working for the sculptors. At present I have two New York sculptors doing work for me on another church. I want both of those men to work on the Cathedral and they know it.

"I asked two New York sculptors to do the work in the Baptistery which is now being done by the Englishman. They told me they could not do it for two or three years, because their time was engaged for other future work. That ruled them out. One Englishman is now doing eight small statues in the Baptistery.

"Several American sculptors that I have approached have refused to work on the Cathedral because they were not trained for that style of sculpture. They don't know anything about it and they admit it. Their training has been in the ateliers of Europe along classical lines. They understood nude figures and not draped figures. In the Cathedral, as you can easily see, the opportunity for nude figures is strictly circumscribed.

"I have in mind four or five men among the well-known sculptors of New York and Boston whose work I am anxious to have in the Cathedral. But if any one of them, or any sculpture society, or any other set of people try to dictate to me or insist that no Englishman, Italian, Frenchman or Spaniard be employed on the Cathedral, I cease to have the slightest interest in them.

"If they will leave us alone, they will find that there is opportunity for every good sculptor in the United States who wants to do that kind of work. This English sculptor is an afterthought who came over after we had failed to get New York men who would do the work. His work is simply magnificent—some of the finest work that I have ever seen.

"The work that the Englishman is doing is in the Baptistery on a special gift to the Cathedral. Nobody yet has been engaged to do any work on the nave or the west front of the Cathedral itself."

PAUL JONES LETTERS FOUND IN MOSCOW

Newly Discovered Documents Reveal the Intrigues Against Him.

PROMISED 'GREATER GLORY'

Felt Certain That Spoils From Arabia Would Yield Great Profits to the Empire.

MOSCOW, Jan. 20.—Interesting letters by Admiral John Paul Jones relating to his service against the Turks in the navy of Catherine the Great have come to light in the Russian archives.

After his dismissal from Catherine's service John Paul Jones wrote on May 31, 1790, to Desiemolin, Catherine's Envoy Extraordinary to France, proposing that he lead a Russian expedition, disguised under the American flag, to levy contribution on Arabia as a part of the Turkish Empire which had just been defeated by Russia. This letter, written in French, which was found in the correspondence of General Potemkin, Catherine's chief Minister, is translated as follows:

"Sir:

"I congratulate myself that the journal of operations under my command around Ochakoff, containing verified documents which I submitted to your Excellency, proved to your satisfaction that my conduct justified the favorable reports which you were kind enough to convey to St. Petersburg Palace.

"Despite all intrigue and slander resorted to by my enemies and ungrateful opponents in the effort to destroy me in Russia and belittle my important services rendered to the empire; despite their intrigue which deprived me of command in the Baltic to which I was assigned by the Empress, placing me for long outside of military competition—all that notwithstanding, my personal devotion to her Majesty and my well wishes for her empire are undiminished.

"On July 6 of last year I handed her Majesty's Minister the herewith enclosed note which took up my time even during my persecution. Had this note being accepted, the Russian flag would have gained new laurels and the empire new advantages.

"Today I have the honor to submit to your Excellency another project, and since this plan can hurt no one I flatter myself with the hope that you will do me the kindness of conveying this directly to her Imperial Majesty.

"I propose to levy a contribution on Arabia, since that land is a part of the Turkish Empire. I have already studied this matter and have reason to believe that the contribution this land can yield will considerably exceed that already realized by the empire, showing that the project cannot fail to crown the flag with greater glory and prove very disadvantageous to the empire's enemies.

Promises a Speedy War.

"Religious secrecy is imperative to carry this project through. To disguise this enterprise it would be discreet to start from Europe, turn the Cape of Good Hope and sail further under the American flag, I having such a right in the capacity of an American officer and citizen. If the Empress approves this plan, dictated by devotion to her service, I ask for the enterprise only two boats with fifty cannon, two frigates and carte blanche. The boats' arms must be disguised, since the plan calls for simulating a commercial enterprise. The boats must carry merchandise and incidentally Madeira wines, which, in Great India, can be exchanged for provisions.

"War preparations will commence only a few days' sail from Arabian shores. I think it would be best to arm in French ports, where one can buy and equip boats very reasonably.

"The letter with which her Danish Majesty honored me two years ago proves to what extent I regard the rights of neutral flags, and the letter received last Winter from my old brother in arms distinguished in the American War guarantees my faithfulness to the Empress, this despite considerable unpleasantness experienced in her empire and the usual tendency of human nature to avenge insult.

"It seems that I deserve her imperial Majesty's confidence for which I strive, and if she grants me that confidence, it depends upon her to solve the contribution problem, and that part of the contribution which she will find expedition to retain, and she will order me to account to her only. I will gladly submit to orders should her Majesty will to partly change my plan. I will merely add, should the Empress accept my project, no time should be lost in its execution.

"Moved by proof of your friendship with which you rewarded me, I remain, with sincere esteem.

"Your very devoted and obedient servant, PAUL JONES.

"P. S.—I think the only objection to the Empress may have against my plan is the expense of armament which must be advanced before the benefit may be reaped. Therefore, I beg her Majesty to advance any sum which I will expend with the greatest economy compatible with my means. Naturally, it would be necessary to appropriate at least half of the contribution to encourage officers and crew, but I am absolutely confident that the contribution will more than cover the expenditures.

Asks for His Year's Pay.

"When her Majesty decided to give me a two-year leave she gratefully informed me she would keep me on the payroll throughout my absence. I would therefore ask your Excellency to remit my pay for the current year ending July. They assure me I am entitled to Croix St. Gregory, second degree, and promotion to Vice Admiral since July 17, 1788, for defeating Captain Pasha in Liman, where I commanded and was the only responsible leader. Nevertheless, I was the only one not promoted. Still I always count on the Empress's justice and magnanimity."

In another letter Jones gives up command of the Russian fleet in the Black Sea after Catherine's favorite, Potemkin, had failed to appreciate his victory over the Turks. In this letter, dated Oct. 31, 1788, Jones wrote to Potemkin:

"Complying with your order, I have surrendered command of the squadron to his Excellency Rear Admiral Mordvinoff. I am very flattered that her Majesty still grants me her attention, but shall ever regret the misfortune of having lost your grace. I will not affirm any difficulty in finding an abler naval officer than myself, realizing that this is quite possible; but I dare say you will never find a man with a heart filled with deeper devotion and desire to execute his duties. I forgive my enemies surrounding you who have dealt me this heavy blow; but if there is a just God, they will find it difficult to thus act. I wish you success, full success in your military operations and everlasting happiness for all your life.

"Your Highness's very devoted and humble servant,

"PAUL JONES."

Writing in English to Admiral Rikens on June 15, 1788, Jones said:

"Am again unwell. Had many disagreeable incidents since my last letter and from data enclosed you will see there are plenty of reasons for ill feeling. You will undoubtedly find expedient sending these letters to Duke Potemkin in order to get positive orders and avoid a hasty step."

The final paragraph to this letter was written in French which is translated as follows:

"Please offer my apologies to his Highness for not writing since the 11th. Had nothing to forward except a report that a strong military unit had left Ochakoff heading north. I am sending this report by express."

Highly Recommended in 1778.

Other letters were found pertaining to the employment of Jones in the service of Catherine. Under the date of Feb. 16, 1778, Count Biesborodko wrote to Desmolin, the Russian Ambassador to France, as follows:

"I submitted to the Empress your letter of February third, in which you wrote about inducing the famous Paul Jones to enter her Majesty's service. The reputation gained by that officer in the last American war has long since earned her Majesty's admiration. She gladly accepts his proposal. She is confident that the bravery and rare talents of this famous seaman may in all respects enhance the excellence of the Russian armed forces over the Ottoman."

Touching a request by Jones to be appointed Vice Admiral, Biesborodko asked the Ambassador to inform Jones of a rule requiring that Russian Vice Admirals pass on candidates for that rank. Jones was offered a rank of Rear Admiral, equivalent to that of Major General in the Army.

Victim of a Prince's Treachery.

He went to Paris as the American agent on prise money disputes between the American and French Navies, and while there received the offer of commission in the navy of the Empress Catherine, who was then at war with the Turks. Jones was made a Rear Admiral and sent to join the Russian Black Sea fleet.

On June 7, 1788, Jones attacked the Turkish fleet near Liman, in the Black Sea, and drove them into confusion. The Prince of Nassau Siegen, who was equal in rank with Jones, ran away from the battle, but when the Turks were defeated he rushed off a dispatch to Potemkin telling of a glorious victory and taking all the credit for it. In his report to the Empress, Potemkin said that Jones, Alexiano and other officers had acted courageously but that "Nassau has distinguished himself as a hero and in justice this victory belongs to him."

On June 16 Jones again defeated the Turkish fleet. The Prince of Nassau Selgen again fled from the battle. He returned when it was over. Finding several Turkish ships which Jones had captured, the Prince attacked these abandoned prizes of war, burned them up and again wrote a glowing account of the victory and of his own heroism. He claimed that he had burned six and captured two ships of the line.

Jones made a modest report of the engagement, which was unsatisfactory to Potemkin, because the Russian Court and people were delighted with the sensational exploit described by Nassau and the plain report of Jones would have caused a serious anticlimax.

As to later actions in the Black Sea, Potemkin became annoyed because Turkish ships escaped through the Russian formation.

A treacherous intrigue by Russian officers under Jones and an angry message from Jones to Potemkin ended the career of Jones in the Russian Navy. Under the pretext of transferring him to the Baltic, he was removed from his Black Sea command and he saw no further service in the Russian Navy.

Jones was born in Kirkcudbrightshire, Scotland, in 1747. His name was originally John Paul, and he added the "Jones," taking the name of a Virginia benefactor years later.

In his twelfth year he was apprenticed to a merchant of Whitehaven who was in the American trade, and soon thereafter he sailed to Virginia, where his brother was a planter. For a time he lived in Fredericksburg, and later he was mate on a ship engaged in the slave trade.

Jones entered the American Navy in the Revolution, in which his exploits are classics of naval history. The climax of his career was the victory of the Bon Homme Richard over the Serapis. The Serapis struck her colors after three hours of desperate fighting. This victory came just in time, for the Bon Homme Richard was sinking when it won the fight. Jones had to transfer his men to the Serapis and two hours later the Bon Homme Richard was at the bottom of the sea.

After his dismissal from the Russian Navy Jones went to Paris, where he died in 1792. His body was discovered in France by General Horace Porter in 1905, brought home the following year and buried at Annapolis.

SOVIET ULTIMATUM DELIVERED TO CHINA

Talk of a Possible Conflict Developing From Clash Due to Chinese Soldiers' Acts.

TOKIO, Jan. 20.—Russia will send the Red Army into Manchuria unless China complies with the Soviet demands regarding a settlement of the conflict between Russian officials of the Chinese Eastern Railway and Chinese soldiers over the latter's seizing of trains and paralyzing of traffic between Changchun and Harbin, it was stated at the Russian Embassy today.

The situation in Harbin, which grew out of the refusal of Russian officials to transport Chinese troops free, is growing more serious, threatening to spread from a local squabble to an international crisis, and containing the germs of a Russo-Manchurian war. The Embassy's statement said:

"Russia will take drastic steps to enforce her treaty rights if necessary. Protests have been filed in Peking and Mukden against the illegal acts of soldiers, demanding the immediate release of trains, the freedom of railway officials who have been held captive and recognition of the clauses in the Sino-Russian and Russian-Chang Tso-lin treaties regarding railway control.

"China has been informed that Russia holds her entirely responsible for the losses and damages occasioned, and expects compensation.

"The Soviet hopes the question will be settled peacefully soon, but if China procrastinates or refuses the Russian demands, the Soviet Government is prepared to utilize the Red Army, meeting troops with troops.

"The Japanese Government is watching the situation with concern, as a Russian attck from Manchuria could not be viewed but with great alarm because of the danger of Japan becoming embroiled where her Manchurian interests, and even Korean, would be involved."

The possibilities growing out of this railway incident may be the first step toward a Russo-Japanese war for oriental supremacy, which has been predicted by Count Soyejima and others.

The Soviet Embassy today received a cable from Soviet Consul Granit in Harbin, giving details of the situation. It is alleged that the Chinese soldiers' acts were subsequently supported by their commanders in direct violation of the treaties.

Conferences have been held in Harbin between Chinese commanders and Russians, seeking a peaceful solution, but both sides blame the other and nothing has been accomplished save the threat of Russians to resort to the strength of the Red Army and the Chinese actually ordering reinforcements.

Consequently, all rail traffic is paralyzed, the mail being sent by truck between Changchun and Harbin through bandit-infested country.

Consul Granit cables that since the Chinese seized the trains on Jan. 16 in the Russian station in Changchun they have forced the engineers at the point of the bayonet to drive two trains over the line with signals set against trains coming the other way, held captive a number of railway employes, taken possession of all switches, attacked station agents and attempted to attack the home of Ivanov, the Russian manager of the railway.

No casualties have been reported.

The embassy says that the Russians are ready to take any necessary steps to retain control of the railway, which is an avenue of attack against Serbia, which is why the Soviets insisted, when negotiating the Peking-Mukden treaties, upon obtaining control until Chines should become strong enough so that Japan and others could not use the railway as a means of attacking Russia.

PEKING, Jan. 20.—The occurrences on the Chinese Eastern Railway have rather a particular interest at the present moment, especially as Chang Tso-lin is moving against the Kuominchun from the north while Wu Pei-fu is reported to be preparing for an attack on the second Kuominchun in Honan.

The point is: Have the Bolsheviki on the Chinese Eastern Railway suddenly deprived the Chinese soldiers of their cherished privilege of riding free with the object of provoking a quarrel with Chang Tso-lin at the exact moment he and others are planning to break up the Kuominchun combination under which Bolshevist propaganda flourishes?

If the Bolsheviki bring in Red troops to protect their railway rights as they were protected under the old regime so Chang Tso-lin will have another war on his hands and will have no time to attend to the Kuominchun. Thus at the expense of a direct encounter with Chang, Moscow would have saved her Kuominchun friends.

DISPUTED 'SARGENT' MAY BE REMOVED

DECISION EXPECTED TODAY

Meanwhile Water Color Said to Be Work of Boldini is Viewed by Crowds at Metropolitan.

When the gong sounded at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon as a signal for the closing of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the "Sketch of an Italian Model With Cope" was still hanging in the John Singer Sargent Memorial Exhibition, although it is said to be the work of Giovanni Boldini bearing a forged Sargent signature.

This water color was a subject of great interest to hundreds of visitors at the imposing Sargent exhibition all day. Scores studied the signature, which is said to be a forgery, and noted the signs of erasure and scraping in one portion of the margin from which the original Boldini signature is said to have been scraped.

Harry F. Bigelow, a trustee of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and owner of the sketch, said over the telephone last night that he had received an indecisive report on the subject from the Metropolitan Museum, but that he had become inclined to think that the Sargent signature was a forgery. He denied a report which was issued in this city that he had asked the Metropolitan Museum to withdraw the sketch.

"That is not true," he said. "I have not asked to have it withdrawn. Over the telephone I asked what they thought of the doubts which had been cast on it. I was told that they had not yet come to any conclusion regarding it. Tomorrow I expect to hear from them definitely.

"From reading the article in THE TIMES, I am beginning to think that the signature was forged. It struck me as all right at the time that I bought it. It seemed to be the Sargent signature, but I have not compared it with other signatures of his.

Sold in Good Faith.

"If it proves to be a Boldini with a Sargent signature, I expect to hear from Kennedy & Co., who sold it to me. I have no doubt that they sold it in good faith, and if they made a mistake, it is not surprising, since the work has been passed as Sargent's by two museums and by many experts on the work of Sargent.

"The sketch was hung at the Sargent exhibition at the museum in Boston and seen by a large number of people who know Sargent's work intimately. A representative of the Metropolitan Museum of Art saw it there and chose it among the pieces that he particularly wished to have exhibited at the Sargent exhibition at the Metropolitan. In addition to that, it was featured in the catalogue of the Metropolitan Museum."

The work that is now said to have deceived two of America's greatest art museums and a large number of Sargent experts is alleged to have sold at public auction in New York City less than two years ago for $1. It was explained that it sold for so little because the attention of bidders was specifically drawn to the signature and to the evidences that a previous signature had been erased.

"I have no reason to doubt that the water color is a genuine Sargent. It has been impeached by one anonymous individual. If we accepted all charges of this kind, three-fourths of the masterpieces would be thrown out of the museum.

"It is very difficult to give absolute proof of the authenticity of the work of a dead man, especially an early work of this kind, and it is very difficult to disprove its authenticity. The statement that the signature is not like Sargent's ordinary signature does not mean anything. A man's signature early in his life may be very different from that which he used late in his life. No two Whistler signatures are very much alike.

"On the other hand, if good reasons are shown why it is not a Sargent, or if Mr. Bigelow comes to the conclusion that it is not a genuine Sargent, we will take it back. We bought the picture for a high price from an out-of-town dealer of excellent repute. We showed it to three New York dealers whose judgment on Sargents is of the best, and they all passed it as a Sargent. This is the only case of the kind that has risen in the history of the firm, with one exception. One purchaser some years ago became dubious about a Rembrandt. We gave him his money back. It was submitted to many experts and affirmed to be a Rembrandt without a doubt. It was sold for twice the figure which the dissatisfied purchaser paid for it and now hangs in a famous gallery."

Boldini, who is said to be the true author of the work, is an Italian painter, a contemporary of Sargent's and a great artist. Boldini's repute, however, is slight when compared to that of Sargent, who is almost universally regarded as the greatest painter of his time. As a Boldini the water color might be worth $50, $100 or $150, while as a Sargent it probably would command a price of several thousand dollars. The curiosity about this particular case is that if Sargent's name was forged, the forger had bad luck, although the forgery prospered, for the forger got only $1 for a painting worth $100 or more, whereas the painting passed from hand to hand until it was accepted as genuine and in little less than a year was elevated to the rank of an important Sargent water color.

Assistant Curator Joseph Breck of the Metropolitan issued a statement yesterday to the effect that the doubts raised against the sketch were under consideration. Later an announcement was made that the sketch had been withdrawn at the request of the owner. This was denied by Mr. Bigelow, and the sketch was still hanging on the wall when the museum closed.

TICONDEROGA WANTS BRIDGE

Residents Present Their Request at Albany for Champlain Span.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 20.—Residents of Ticonderoga appeared before a meeting of the New York-Vermont Lake Champlain Bridge Commission at a meeting in the Capitol today and urged that the proposed bridge across Lake Champlain be erected between Ticonderoga and the Vermont side. Five sites for the new bridge are being considered, but the commission as yet has made no choice.

Declaring that Ticonderoga was the logical place for the bridge, on account of east and west traffic to the Summer resorts of New England and the Adirondacks, the residents of that place left the meeting feeling that they had convinced the commission. J. Thurman Keogh, Secretary of the Ticonderoga Chamber of Commerce, was their spokesman.

All the sites will be examined by a joint engineering corps of the two States before any definite recommendation is made to the Legislatures of the two States.

CALLS TRADE ACCORD BASIS OF WORLD PEACE

Head of World Advertising Body Says Nations Live by Business, Not Politics.

C. K. Woodbridge, President of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World and also President of the Dictaphone Corporation, at a luncheon at the Advertising Club of New York yesterday, said that "a common understanding among business men of the nations will do more for peace than all the leagues, courts and combinations of politicians the governments can devise."

"For," he continued, "nations live by doing business, not politics. This association is just one factor in world business relations whose aim it is to foster and promote the place of advertising in commerce and trade and to dignify the purpose of advertising in the public mind."

The luncheon marked the formal beginning of an international campaign by the association to increase its membership. Mr. Woodbridge's speech was broadcast over WEAF to meetings of advertising clubs in different parts of the country. Paul Cherrington of the J. Walter Thompson Agency, presided and Charles C. Green, President of the Advertising Club of New York, introduced Mr. Woodbridge. Jesse H. Neal, Secretary-Treasurer, spoke on the work of the National Better Business Bureaus, Inc., a function of which is to prevent fraud and inaccuracies in advertising.

Mr. Woodbridge announced that Francis H. Sisson, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, has accepted the General Chairmanship of the campaign.

PLUCK OF WOMAN FOILS GEM THIEVES

Tells Three to Shoot When They Threaten Her With Pistols and Calls the Police.

TAILOR'S SHOP STORMED

Customers Hear of Robbery and Rush to Get Clothing—Two Men Taken in Taxi Chase.

The three thieves who took $100 from the apartment of William Valerius at 915 West End Avenue early Monday and locked Valerius, his wife and his son, and a hallman in a clothes closet, are believed by the police to have treated another family in a similar manner and to have been frustrated in a third attempted robbery that morning by the coolness of Mrs. Dorothy Lewis of 320 West Eighty-ninth Street.

Detectives of the West 100th Street Police Station, who have been on the trail of the three men, they said, refused to give the name or address of the second family said to have been locked in a closet, but admitted that it had been done near the Valerius home and that the description of the robbers indicated they were the same three.

The attempt to rob Mrs. Lewis's apartment, where she lives with her daughter, Doris, was made about thirty minutes before the Valerius apartment was entered, detectives said. They believed the three men, two of whom are said to have worn masks while the third was intoxicated, made a tour of the section in an automobile. The amount of the loot is unknown.

Watchman Tells of Thieves.

Christopher Kenny, 56 years old, night watchman in the building in which Mrs. Lewis lives, said some one knocked at the front door at 2:30 o'clock Monday morning. He answered and found a man waving a telegram. When Kenny opened the door, he said, three pistols were pointed at him and he was ordered to take the robbers to the "Groves" apartment.

Kenny told the police that when he informed the men there was no family named Groves in the building, he was ordered to take them "to anybody with jewels."

Kenny admitted he took the men to the seventh floor, where they rang the doorbells of several apartments. No one answered promptly, so, according to the watchman, they went to the fifth floor, where they rang Mrs. Lewis's bell. She opened the door as far as the chain lock would permit, but did not take the chain off the door. Then, Kenny said, the drunken robber said:

"Open her up, lady, or we'll shoot."

"Go ahead and shoot," said Mrs. Lewis, according to Kenny, "I'm going to call the police."

Doctor's Office Rifled.

These armed robbers raided the offices of the Equity Loan Association on the second floor of 110 East Fourth Street last midnight, cowed the Treasurer, Max Schulman, and six men and a woman who were making payments, stripped them of their valuables and rifled the safe. They escaped with about $5,000, most of which was cash.

When three men, believed to have been drug addicts in search of narcotics, called at the home of Dr. Isidor Scher at 206 East Fifteenth Street about 11 P. M., Bessie Buskie, nurse of the doctor's two young daughters, asleep upstairs, told them the doctor and his wife were out. The men said they would wait, and when the nurse walked into the waiting room with them she was seized suddenly from behind. A rag saturated with ether was placed over her nose and mouth and she became unconscious. When she revived half an hour later and called the police, the men were gone, but the office was in great disorder. The police were unable to learn what had been stolen.

Two alleged taxicab bandits were arrested in hallways in West Thirty-sixth Street early yesterday after an automobile chase that ended with a fusillade of pistol shots.

The men arrested said they were James McAvoy, 24 years old, of 200 West Fifty-first Street and Thomas Flynn, 22 years old, of 430 West Thirty-sixth Street. They were held without bail by Magistrate Richard F. McInerney in Jefferson Market Court for the Grand Jury.

Tailor's Shop Stormed.

More than fifty customers of Max Zwicker, a tailor and presser at 868 Tiffany Avenue, the Bronx, called on him yesterday when they heard he had been robbed. Each of the callers had left a suit or a dress to be pressed. Several policemen from the Simpson Street Station were called to keep order.

In some manner the police learned, they said, that Harry Hindlehardt, 19 years old, and Louis Porcelli, 24 years old, who live in a furnished room at 907 Whitlock Avenue, the Bronx, had some connection with the robbery. They arrested the young men. Kindlehardt, they declared, confessed, implicated Porcelli and told where the clothing had been hidden.

Later the excited owners of the fifty-seven suits and dresses were taken into the cellar of the Whitlock Avenue address, where their property was found buried and well pressed in a hole in the floor.

While John Rosenberg, proprietor of a tailor shop in the basement of 207 West Fifty-sixth Street, was answering a telephone call which he believed was a ruse, two robbers entered the shop last night. One intruder menaced him with a pistol and the other with a blackjack. They tied Rosenberg to a chair, took $100 from his pockets and fled. When the tailor freed himself he called the West Forty-seventh Street Station. Inspector John D. Coughlin, commander of the Detective Bureau, who was at the station house at the time, took charge of the investigation.

LEGINSKA MISSING AGAIN.

Pianist Disappears While Audience Awaits Her in Evansville.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 20 (AP).—Ethel Leginska, English pianist, failed to appear for a scheduled concert here tonight under circumstances much the same as those under which she absented herself from a similar engagement at Carnegie Hall in New York last Spring.

Y. R. MacMillan of New York, her manager, had not been able to locate her several hours after the audience had dispersed. She was said to have left her hotel early in the evening.

The pianist showed her first symptoms of a recurring Gotham temperament when she arrived here late this afternoon.

"I don't want to ride in your old yellow cabs," she said. "I won't play the piano tonight. I want my symphony orchestra."

"I don't like this old barn. I won't play the piano in this old building," she proclaimed, when she went to the hall to practice.

of the obligations bequeathed to her by the last war."

President Coolidge in replying said:

"The traditional relations of amity that have always existed between the two countries have been a source of utmost satisfaction to the Government and people of America and I am confident that this spirit of amity will be maintained and, if possible, further strengthened during your residence in the United States.

"I recall with pleasure your recent visit to Washington when the negotiations for the funding of the French debt were commenced. It is my earnest hope that a fair and honorable adjustment of this problem will be reached in the near future. There should be no insuperable difficulty in arriving at such an adjustment since you have only now reiterated the fidelity of your Government to the sanctity of contract and since you know the spirit of loyal friendship in which the American Debt Funding Commission is prepared to discuss the matter.

"I ask that you convey to his Excellency the President of the French Republic and to the French Government and people my best wishes for the happiness and prosperity of the great nation which has stood undismayed through trials that would have shaken the courage of a country less indomitable which has surmounted untold difficulties and today is giving proof of its desire for peace through reason and justice rather than through force.

"In this common will for peace I foresee long years of continued and intimate cooperation. You may rest assured that the officials of this Government will accord you the most cordial and sympathetic cooperation in the discharge of your important duties as Ambassador of the French Republic."

EXTRA POLICE GUARD FIFTH AVENUE NOW

ORDERED BY McLAUGHLIN

Commissioner Attends Trials of More Policemen—Gives One Another Chance.

An extra squad of motorcycle patrolmen has been assigned to duty in the midtown section of Fifth Avenue to give added protection to business establishments against hold-up men. This extra patrol force was decided on as a result of Commissioner McLaughlin's investigation of the recent theft of $100,000 in uncut diamonds from two men in Forty-eighth Street near Fifth Avenue, in which the robbers escaped in an automobile in view of a detective and five patrolmen, who could not commandeer automobiles in time to catch up with them.

The Commissioner yesterday would not reveal the number of new men assigned nor the exact section of Fifth Avenue to be patrolled by them, explaining that to do so would interfere considerably with the operation of the force in coping with criminals.

Mr. McLaughlin took a hand in the trials of two patrolmen in Police Headquarters yesterday, but, unlike his action of the day before in Brooklyn, he did not impose summary punishment.

Patrolman Herman Hettekoven of the Traffic Division, accused of intoxication, admitted that he had taken "a few drinks for a cold" on Dec. 14 last. He added that he had gone to the home of an aunt to sleep and had not been awakened in time to report for duty.

"Don't make any more excuses," broke in Commissioner McLaughlin. "You are getting yourself in deeper all the time. I am undecided whether to keep you in the department or not."

When Captain John J. Seery told the Commissioner that Hettekoven until recently had been a good policeman, but had apparently taken to drink and probably could be redeemed to good standing on the force, Mr. McLaughlin said:

"Officer, I'll give you one last chance. Go back to duty. I'll fix the penalty for this offense later."

Later the Commissioner announced that 600 trials of members of the force on charges formulated before he became head of the department would be disposed of by Deputy Commissioners John A. Leach and Edward D. Kelly and himself within a short time. The cases have been divided into three calendars, and the trials will begin this morning.

Acquitted of Murder at Party.

After deliberating seven hours a jury in the Richmond County Court last night acquitted Lorenzo Sposo of Port Richmond, S. I., of first degree murder. The defendant had been charged with the shooting of Antonio De Vito, a shoemaker of New Dorp, at a party on Feb. 15, 1924. The evidence produced by the prosecution was circumstantial.

BRIAND LOOKS ON IN FIGHT OVER TAXES

Takes No Sides, Though Chamber Committee Rejects His Finance Minister's Plans.

WILL LET CHAMBER DECIDE

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—Finance Minister Doumer's energetic protest against the "amateur" taxation schemes of the Finance Commission has caused considerable tension among the Chamber parties. Premier Briand, as usual, is saying nothing, while every one is asking which he will support—his Minister or the commission.

No encouragement was given to him by the Executive Committees of the Radical Party and the Radical Socialist Party, which held a long meeting tonight, presided over by M. Herriot. The latter asserted that his party remained loyal to its election promises of 1924 and was more than ever convinced of the necessity of the closest cooperation with the Left groups of the Chamber. He denied that his party was playing politics in face of a national crisis and added that his followers were convinced that their principles conformed to the needs of the moment.

Finally a resolution was passed which in effect approves the Finance Commission's rejection of M. Doumer's bill and approves the substitute measure proposed.

Like an old doctor of long experience, the Premier seems wiser than to take sides yet in advocation of remedies for the invalid franc. He prefers to wait a little, and when the remedies have been fully discussed to base his opinions on the needs of the situation. If he is convinced, and the Chamber is convinced, that the commission's plans will secure the balancing of the budget he will encourage their adoption. If he is convinced during the debate that they will not, as M. Doumer says they will not, he will most probably intervene with warm support of his Finance Minister.

But all through he will play safe with the Chamber, because he has this card up his sleeve—that the Senate will deal with the commission's bill strictly on its merits, and if it proves insufficient or burdensome on the wrong people the elder house, to which M. Doumer belongs, can be surely counted on to amend it so radically that it will be sent down again to the Chamber in a state which will be almost unrecognizable. It is then that Premier Briand seems to be calculating to wage his battle.

Today the Socialist section of the commission tried to get the Premier to come again before them and explain his wishes, but M. Briand refused—on the ground that he was no technician and that this was a technical problem—and the commission did not insist. The commission spent two sessions, and a third, which seems likely to last most of the night, in amending the measure, with more tinkering with increases in indirect and special taxes so as to try to make up the deficits which M. Doumer warned them yesterday his expert staff at the Treasury had found to be inevitable.

These tinkering tactics have, however, done the scheme no good, at least politically, as Deputies who do not vote unquestioningly their party ticket have begun to wonder if the commission's bill is quite so wonderful as the majority members say it is, and if so why it needs readjustment before the first breath of criticism.

All the week the Left Deputies have been prophesying the debate for Friday, but it is already apparent that it cannot take place before the beginning or middle of next week. Between now and then considerable changes may take place, but the prospects are that the Government will meanwhile remain united and leave the decision to the Chamber.

Today protests began to multiply from commercial and financial organizations all over the country against the incidence of the proposed taxation which, it is urged, falls again on the class which already is most severely taxed. All the evils of the export of capital and evasion are prophesied if the bill is adopted.

Thus the struggle is still where it always has been since this chamber was elected of who is to be made to pay. The only step forward which has been accomplished is that every one has decided that some one must pay. It will be for the Chamber to decide who.

Replying to a written question by a Deputy, the Finance Minister said today that the total circulation of National Defense bonds on Oct. 31, the latest date at which figures were available, was 46,609,000,000 francs and that facilities for public purchase had in no way been stopped. Short-term Treasury bonds in circulation Dec. 15 totaled 21,977,000,000, dated three to ten years, and 2,881,000,000 ordinary Treasury bonds, which also were permanently on sale.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Suburban respectability received a blow from an unexpected source when Canon Simpson of Saint Paul's, who once dared to criticise Cecil Rhodes from his pulpit, severely scored it in a speech today at Cricklewood.

"Your new London suburbs," said the Canon "with the houses looking all alike are very dull and gloomy places, especially as there are no public houses to gelide the traveler on his way.

"There is something repellent about these respectable suburbs with their signs, 'No Circulars, No Hawkers, No Bottles.'

"Whenever I am invited to Church I ask for the name of t hnearest public house to guide me there, but the modern suburbanite can get what he wants without a public house and they seem to be dying out.

"I love the story of Saint Paul on his visit to Rome being met by the Brethren of the Church at The Three Taverns,' just outside the city, which I take it was a sort of 'Elephant and Castle.'"

The Elephant and Castle is a public house (a saloon—what the English call a "pub") which has given its name to one of the busiest traffic centres in South London.

Replying to the Canon, a suburban official defends "Suburbia." He declares that much suburban land is owned and developed by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners and "if there is any criticism to be made the Canon knows where to direct it."

LLOYD GEORGE HITS LABOR PARTY HARD

PARLEY MUST WORK ALONE

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Former Premier Lloyd George, speaking tonight at Carnarvon, declared in vigorous language that he would never cooperate with the Labor Party. The only role for the Liberals was to work alone to perfect their program of reforms as far as possible and to seek to acquire such influence as may be the determining factor in politics, which influence might even mold the course of events.

He seemed to entertain no hopes that the Liberals could for many years obtain office again and he uttered but one sentence that suggested he regretted the lonely furrow he has marked out for his party.

"I would only like to add one word of caution. As long as men and women, whose main purpose is amelioration of the conditions of the people, spend their energies in making war on each other, so long will those conditions endure."

The ex-Premier was addressing his constituents, and great interest was taken in his speech. It was known he would discuss the relations of the Liberals undertaken to give them hearty parwould announce an agreement between them. If few expected him to take this step, which before long might have brought him to the front opposition bench between Ramsay MacDonald and Philip Snowden, it would have been no surprise if he had held out the olive branch to them and had undertaken to give them hearty Parliamentary support.

Many rumors are flying about since Parliament adjourned of how Lloyd George was negotiating behind the scenes with the Labor leaders. His land reform scheme was presented as an admirable introduction to the Socialist Party, and the very vehemence with which Snowden has repudiated all idea of an alliance with the Liberals is taken as proof that he, at least, had been pressed more strongly toward a "Lib-Lab" coalition than he had wished.

Some extremist Socialist publications have even been accepting Lloyd George's nominal adhesion to their party as an imminent danger to Red orthodoxy and the more ordinary newspapers have been continually hinting at the significance of the secret negotiations.

Now Lloyd George has used sufficiently inflamatory language with regard to Labor to burn his boats to ashes. Referring to the political crisis of 1924, when the policy of the Liberals made Labor's advance to power inevitable, he said:

"A repetition of 1924 is inconceivable. Let us admit it. That experiment was a bad political blunder."

He spoke of the way in which he had appealed to the Labor Government to cooperate with the Liberal Party and went on:

"You know how that appeal was received. You know the insolence and the humiliations to which the Liberals were subjected by the very men who owed power to their support. Some of these men lost their heads completely over their unexpected good fortune, as ill-balanced men are apt to do. They requited Liberal support by doing their best to exterminate the Liberal Party at the last election.

"Labor candidates were put up in constituencies where they knew they had no chance of winning, for the sole purpose of defeating old members who had given Labor its first chance of office.

"As you are aware, I never had a Labor candidate put up against me in this constituency until after I had given the vote which put Labor in office. I cannot perceive any change in that attitude up to the present. I have, therefore, only one further comment to make about that 1924 episode, that as far as I am concerned it is 'never again.'"

"Liberalism can only cooperate with another party on conditions which are consistent with the self-respect of the party which has such a long tradition of noble and honorable service to this great country."

Then Lloyd George discussed the prospects after the next election. He saw that probably no party would have a clear majority and pointed out that whichever was in office must seek aid from the other group. As for the Socialist chances he said: "No political prophet on any account would predict that the Socialist party will acquire an absolute majority for many elections to come. Continental experience has proven that there is a rigid limit to the growth of Socialism, beyond which it is unable to spread."

In these conditions he believed it unwise of the Liberal party at this moment to negotiate an alliance with another party, but thought it should seek to establish a powerful position for itself in the country, with a large representation in the next Parliament. Then if could cooperate with anybody it wished.

AMERICANS CITE FRENCH TAX TREATY

Point to 1853 Convention as Bar to High Levy on Alien Incomes.

RECIPROCITY IS PROVIDED

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—The opinion is expressed here that treaty relations between France and the United States would prevent putting into operation the proposal which has been approved by the Finance Committee of the Chamber of Deputies subjecting foreigners holding property in France to payment of French income tax on their whole revenue.

This would, if enforced, seriously affect rich Americans owning villas at French resorts and French country homes, of whom there are quite a number.

The Consular Convention, made 1853, provides for reciprocal tax treatment of each other's citizens by France and the United States. Since America does not demand of non-resident aliens the payment on more income than is earned in the United States, it seems apparent that the French are not free to tax on his full income the American millionaire who owns a villa at Deauville or Cannes.

Last December the French Parliament passed a law by the terms of which foreigners purchasing property in France must pay a surtax of 30 per cent. on the value of the property. After representations by the American Government, based on the 1853 agreement, the Quai D'Orsay notified Ambassador Herrick recently that the new law, being contrary to the Consular Convention, would not be enforced against Americans buying estates in France.

Provisions of 1853 Compact.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The only provision in the Franco-American Consular Convention of 1853 bearing on reciprocal tax treatment of each other's citizens is Article VIII, which reads:

"In all the States of the Union, whose existing laws permit it, so long and to the same extent as the said laws shall remain in force, Frenchmen shall enjoy the right of possessing personal and real property by the same title and in the same manner as the citizens of the United States. They shall be free to dispose of it as they may please, either gratuitously or for valuable received, by donation, testament or otherwise, just as those citizens themselves; and in no case shall they be subjected to taxes on transfer, inheritance or any others different from those paid by the latter, or to taxes which shall not be equally imposed.

"As to the States of the Union, by whose existing laws aliens are not permitted to hold real estate, the President engages to recommend to them the passage of such laws as may be necessary for the purpose of conferring this right.

"In like manner, but with the reservation of the ulterior right of establishing reciprocity in regard to possession and inheritance, the Government of France accords to the citizens of the United States the same rights within its territory in respect to real and personal property, and to inheritance, as are enjoyed there by its own citizens."

END 80-HOUR FLIGHT TODAY.

French Airmen Will Reach Paris After Round Trip to Teheran.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—Another notable French aviation achievement will be added to the already long list when three army airmen, Captain Girier and Lieutenants Charles and Rabatel reach Paris tomorrow at noon after a flight of 8,290 miles from Paris to Teheran and return.

Just eighty hours of actual flying time has been consumed by the aviators, who are flying in three separate machines. Preparations to welcome them at Villacoubly Field were made for today, but a dense fog forced the aviators to descend in the valley of the Loire, two hundred miles from their goal.

Not a single mishap or mechanical trouble has marred the flight, although the airmen have encountered the worst kind of weather all along the route. They have flown from thunderstorms into gales and from gales into snowstorms, hail and rain, and at times their machines were so severely buffeted that they appeared like chips of straw in the wind.

ASKS STOKES TO PAY $8,125,000 IN SUIT

CHESTER CONCESSION ECHO

Claims aggregating $8,125,000 against William E. D. Stokes, his son, W. E. D. Stokes Jr., his attorney, A. H. Gleason, and E. E. C. Kennedy and C. A. Barnard arising out of the conduct of the persons named with respect to the concessions obtained by Admiral Colby M. Chester from the Turkish Government were set forth in papers filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by the Ottoman American Development Company, owner of the Chester concessions. The papers were filed by Osborne & Ettinger, attorneys, as an answer to a suit by Mr. Stokes to recover $5,350 on notes made by the Ottoman American Development Company to Stokes, for which 14,000 shares of stock in the corporation were given as security.

The answer asks that Mr. Stokes be compelled to surrender the notes sued on. The corporation alleges that Mr. Stokes, his son and his attorney brought the suit on the notes maliciously and pursuant to wrongful schemes by which the Stokeses have "unlawfully" possessed themselves of property of the defendant valued at more than $10,000,000. It is alleged that for years Mr. Stokes schemed to get control of the defendant corporation and its predecessor, the Ottoman American Exploration Company, without paying any or an adequate consideration.

The defendant alleges that the corporation was organized in April, 1922, to succeed the Ottoman American Exploration Company and take over the concessions obtained by Admiral Chester from the Turkish Government between 1909 and 1911. It is asserted that in 1921 Mr. Stokes agreed with Admiral Chester to purchase an interest of 60 per cent. in the exploration company for $100,000, or to organize the defendant corporation and provide $500,000 as working capital to develop the project.

Stokes Was Kept Informed.

It is alleged that Stokes failed to perform his agreement, but assigned his rights to Henry Woodhouse, an associate of Admiral Chester, although retaining an interest in the outcome, and because he asserted that he was moved by patriotic motives, he was kept informed as to the affairs of the corporation.

It is said that on March 15, 1922, a contract was made with the Turkish Government by which the latter guaranteed to purchase agricultural machinery over a period of six years amounting to $7,000,000, and giving a profit of $1,050,000 to the corporation.

The answer asserts that Stokes volunteered to have his son negotiate with manufacturers in this country for the purchase of the machinery, and, relying on his expressions of good faith, the corporation permitted him to do so.

The answer says that on March 14, 1923, Admiral Chester was elected President, and Henry Woodhouse Vice President, Managing Director and Secretary. It is asserted that on Sept. 4, 1923, Stokes and Kennedy went into a joint venture in which the defendant corporation was not interested, and Kennedy went to Turkey to contract for the erection of public buildings in Angora. It is asserted that Mr. Stokes offered to permit Kennedy to represent the Chester company without compensation for the purpose of seeking an extension of time to carry out the terms of an option to build a railroad in that country. It is said that although Admiral Chester objected, Barnard procured a limited power of attorney from the corporation, which he gave to Kennedy.

Capital Stock Increased.

The corporation alleges further that Barnard represented that it would be necessary to increase the capital stock from 5,000 to 50,000 shares and that was done. In December, 1923, it is asserted, Mr. Stokes notified the officers of the corporation that he had cables from Kennedy saying that he had arranged with a reliable financial group to purchase the Chester concessions for $25,000,000, of which 40 per cent. was to go to the defendant corporation, but that the sums for financing the arrangement were necessary. It was then agreed, it is asserted, that Mr. Stokes would send the required funds, and the notes aggregating $5,350, secured by 14,000 shares of stock, were given to Mr. Stokes on account of these advances.

The answer alleges that Stokes's representations were false, that no financing had been arranged for and that the defendant corporation got no benefit from the $5,350 alleged to have been sent to Kennedy. For that reason it is declared that the notes are void and the stock should be returned.

A counterclaim for $1,400,000 is made as the value of the 1,400 shares of stock, and a second claim of $1,700,000 for the loss of profits on the sale of agricultural machinery and for failure to supply $500,000 capital. A third claim for $5,000,000 is based on allegations that Stokes and the others named caused an announcement to be made that the Chester claims had been sold to a group of British capitalists, which caused it to be generally understood that "the control of the defendant company had changed nationality and it was no longer an American enterprise, and its property rights were no longer entitled to protection from the United States Government," which caused damage to the defendant corporation of the amount sued for.

MRS. TAPPIN WINS DIVORCE FROM BROKER

She Gets $7,500 a Year Alimony —Court Praises Her Devotion to Family.

A divorce decree and alimony of $7,500 a year were granted yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Tierney to Mrs. Elise Tappin, wife of Lindley Tappin, member of the New York Stock Exchange and of the firm of J. M. Ansley & Co.

Mr. Tappin did not defend the allegations of misconduct made by his wife. Mrs. Tappin asked for $11,000 annual alimony, and later, when the attorneys tried to effect a compromise, she agreed to accept $5,500, saying that although she needed at least $11,000 to live on she would be willing to put her personal income of $2,000 yearly to that end. She also asked for $3,000 for her son, a sophomore at Princeton, but Mr. Tappin agreed to provide for him separately.

"The evidence satisfied me that the defendant's income for 1925 was at least $35,000," said Justice Tierney. "The parties lived a life of comparative luxury. She came into a bequest of some $60,000, a large portion of which she gave him to save his credit when he was in financial default. It was never returned to her. This enabled him to carry on his business, which, if it had not been provided, might have resulted in financial destruction.

"Her appearance on the witness stand made a strong impression of a high sense of honor and the history of her married life showed a devotion to her husband and family."

Mrs. Sarah Schermerhorn, who was divorced by Shephard Gandy Schermerhorn, shipping man, was named corespondent in the case.

DUPUYS GIVE YALE $35,000.

Memorial Fund Will Assist Self-Supporting Students.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert DuPuy of New York City have given to Yale in memory of their sons, Wilfred and Charles M. DuPuy, two funds totaling $35,000 which will be used directly or indirectly to assist self-supporting students, according to a university announcement made today.

The income of a $25,000 fund will provide additional scholarships in the freshman year. The university announcement stated that this gift was most timely, since 950 men, or one-third of the student body, were now working their way through, and receiving $271,303 a year in loans, scholarships, and fellowships.

The interest on a $10,000 fund will be devoted to the payment of the hospital and infirmary bills of self-supporting students and to the support of the Department of University Health which has charge of physical welfare of the students. It is thought that many self-supporting students have in the past been compelled to undergo a severe strain to earn money to pay unforseen medical expenses, a situation which will be materially relieved by the DuPuy funds.

The Mid-Winter Sale of HATHAWAY FURNITURE

Even More Than in Former Years, It Justifies Its Reputation as the Season's Outstanding Event

THE present situation permits, indeed compels, us to announce the most spectacular sale in our history.

The year just closed has been the most active the business has ever known. Throughout 1925 the scope of Hathaway Furniture was steadily broadened to keep pace with the fast-increasing patronage. New patterns were added in rapid succession. Others will soon be ready to appear on our floors.

Must Be Sold at Once

EVEN the capacity of eight spacious floors and a vast warehouse has its limits. To provide space for incoming Furniture, it will not be enough to reduce our present stock of duplicates. Many groups and separate pieces must be eliminated entirely.

Priced With This One Idea

THERE has been no thought of moderation, no reservations or exceptions in determining the price reductions. Everything in the store, even the Furniture most recently arrived, is included. At such prices, early sales of many patterns are inevitable. We suggest that you do not delay your call.

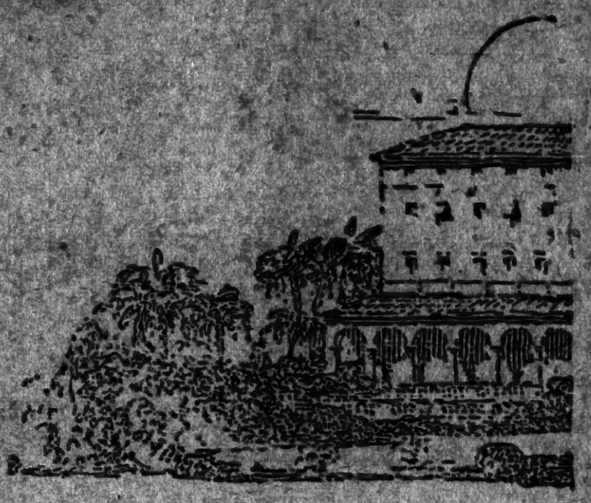
The FLORANADA CLUB—

A Biarritz in the building



Small, smart, exquisite ... whose founders

Amply financed · Ideally located on the East Coast with ocean frontage · The winter home you have dreamed of · · The investment you have sought

Today—peopled by an army of workmen, in preparation for magnificent roadways marking the home sites for residences, large and small, casinos, clubs, for gorgeous hotels, with gardens, pools and waterways.

For society—the same society that decreed the rise and success of Europe's famous watering place—Biarritz—has decided to have its new playground in Florida.

On the last, large tract of land with actual ocean frontage just where the Gulf Stream comes within three miles of the shore, this wonderful resort is rising—Floranada Club! Started by some of America's and Europe's most influential men and women, socially and financially, this new community is strategically placed, for the famous Dixie Highway and the East Coast Canal pass through Floranada Club. The Florida East Coast Railroad skirts it. It is next to the rapidly growing city of Fort Lauderdale with one of the finest natural harbors on the East Coast.

An exclusive, smart, small development where background counts as much as money—where there is room for modest capital

It came into being because a small group of people of wealth and influence with congenial tastes and common interests decided to create an ideal community in Florida for themselves, their friends and associates. Their capital has financed Floranada Club and here they will build their homes.

Floranada Club is located midway between Palm Beach and Miami next to Fort Lauderdale with its wonderful natural harbor. It has a magnificent bathing beach warmed by the Gulf Stream which is here within three miles of the coast.

Some people are planning splendid estates, but in Floranada the majority of winter residents will doubtless prefer the lesser responsibilities of small, artistic homes. Plots are being planned to sell from $4,000 upwards and on convenient terms of payment. Every possible assistance will be available to those desiring to build,—not only in the planning of their homes but in their construction and financing. It is proposed that each house, however simple, shall be an artistic gem and according to its owner's fancy can face the ocean, the East Coast waterway, or be sheltered in groves of pines.

All buildings must be approved by the Floranada Board of Architects and must conform in color and design to the Mediterranean-Caribbean type of architecture, which experience has proved will alone produce perfect harmony of surroundings in Florida's semi-tropical environment.

The young King of Greece has approved the plans for his new home in Floranada.

The Countess of Lauderdale will build there.

Mrs. Horace E. Dodge is planning a magnificent home.

Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury intends to build a charming house for her daughter.

Mrs. Alexander W. Biddle, of Philadelphia, has bought a building plot and designs are being prepared for her small and perfect home.

Mr. Harry S. Black, of the famous Plaza Hotel system, has approved Cass Gilbert's plans for Floranada's new Plaza—a Plaza so wonderful that even Florida, the land of palatial hotels, will thrill with pride. This year Floranada is acreage; next year will find it a Cosmopolitan Paradise.

What made values at Palm Beach—the fact that people of social prominence built there. Impeccable social and financial powers are creating Floranada.

Already steamships are plying between Floranada and northern ports bringing construction materials for homes, casinos, clubs. Society does not care to wait.

The last great buying opportunity

Floranada Club is the last chance and the great chance in Florida's homemaking. Never again will land on the famous East Coast, with superb water frontage, sell for present Floranada prices—considerably under the market. For all the rest of the stretch of seventy miles where the Gulf Stream makes Florida air and water most delightful, one must pay top prices. It is most profitable to buy real estate before great improvements are completed.

Each original purchaser of Floranada Club property may become a life member of one of the golf clubs, the yacht club and the Casino. This membership is not transferable save by a special act of the board of governors.

First choice

Floranada Club's opening day is February 3, 1926. You have time for investigation, for visiting the property itself, for securing ample satisfaction as to its thorough soundness.

Application for purchase of plots on the club property can be made through any recognized real estate broker or through the company's agents at any of its offices.

Reservations will be accepted at first prices up to the opening day.

BOOK PRICES LOW, PUBLISHER INSISTS

Macrae Says Cost of Preparing Volumes Has More Than Doubled Since War.

WANTS POSTAL RATES CUT

He Urges Change in Law to Permit Sellers to Confer on Trade Statistics.

John Macrae, President of the National Association of Book Publishers, speaking on Tuesday at the seventh annual meeting of the organization, denied recent charges that the prices of books were too high and said that book prices in relation to costs were too low.

"During the past year," said Mr. Macrae, who is also President of E. P. Dutton & Co., publishers, "there have been many unjust and ignorant attacks on the present price of books. It can be accurately stated that it costs a publisher from two to three times as much to publish a book as in pre-war times, depending on the size and format of the book. We publishers know from actual facts books are too low in price for the best interests and general health of our business. I feel that it will be good business for our members to establish proper statistical and accounting methods so that we can have true facts as to costs and other matters. Such statistical facts will help you to see the picture, and, when needed, they can be of advantage to the general trade."

Wants Standards Kept Up.

Mr. Macrae urged the publishers to maintain their standards in the publication of good books, excellently printed and bound. He said the movement for stabilising and expanding the publishing business has just begun, with an increasing opportunity for organization and cooperation in distribution not only in the United States but abroad, and urged the promotion of "the sphere and the prosperity of the bookseller," upon whom, he said, the growth of the publishing business depended.

"Looking into the future," he continued, "I am hopeful that ways and means may be found which will safeguard the public and yet will permit publishers and booksellers to work together in a lawful way for the better distribution of books to the general public. I regret that our national laws prevent publishers and booksellers in their national organization from properly conferring together for the better and wider distribution of books. It occurs to me that the booksellers, the librarians and the authors can properly use their influence to have our laws so modified as to enable publishers and booksellers lawfully to confer together for the good of their trades. We congratulate and felicitate the American Booksellers' Association, under the able leadership of their President, Mr. Walter V. McKee, over the accomplishment and success of their organization during the past year.

"The ever-widening need of books as tools is bringing into the field new kinds of books which, naturally, come to the general publishers. These books are valuable to the public and can become profitable to the publishers. Such books are a problem to the publishers, as his natural outlet, the bookseller, does not or cannot stock these books, and so the publisher is reaching out by special effort to sell these books by direct-selling methods. This direct-selling method will have to be worked out by the publisher in a way to cause no harm to the bookseller and yet still sell his special books.

Calls Postal Rates Too High.

"The postal rates on books are unjustly high. We have during the year made a strong appeal to Congress that books be given the same rate of postage as that accorded to magazines and periodicals, and we are hopeful that Congress will give heed to our appeal that books are tools of education and accord them the same postal rates given to magazines."

Edouard Lindeman, Professor of Social Psychology at the New York School of Social Research, delivered at the meeting an address in which he deplored the publication of abridged and condensed "penny classics" which, he said, gave people a wrong conception of what literature really was, just as "simplified" abridgments of scientific works were usually misleading.

Mr. Macrae was re-elected President of the National Association of Book Publishers. The other officers are John W. Hitman, D. Laurence Chambers and Alfred R. McIntyre, Vice Presidents; George L. Wheelock, Treasurer, and Frederick G. Melcher, Secretary. The directors elected until January, 1930, are Frederick A. Stokes, Arthur H. Scribner, Charles C. Shoemaker, H. R. Clow and Alfred R. McIntyre.

SCHOOLS NEED STATE AID.

Legislators Think State Should Contribute $15,000,000 More.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 20.—Some cities can be saved from a lowering of their public education standards only through a material increase in the already large contribution made by the State Government toward the support of the common schools or by raising from 2 to 3 per cent. the assessed valuation of taxable realty in cities with a population of 100,000 or more.

This conclusion was reached at a meeting held yesterday by a subcommittee of the Committee on School Finances, which was appointed by Governor Smith last year and is headed by Colonel Michael Friedsam of New York City. At the meeting of the subcommittee the members discussed with legislative leaders and officials of the State Department of Education ways and means to avert such a calamity.

Approximately $40,000,000 was contributed by the State for the current fiscal year toward the equalization of teachers' salaries in the elementary schools.

An increase of about $11,000,000 was provided for by the Legislature last year which will become payable during the first half of the present year. It was suggested at the conference that the State grant be increased by from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000, according to requirements, for the coming year.

Tentatively it was proposed that the amount might be fixed at $15,000,000. It was stated that with an increase of that size New York City, which has fared rather poorly in State aid, would receive an additional $7,000,000 to help pay salaries for teachers in the elementary schools.

FIGHT FOR CONTROL OF TARIFF LEAGUE

WANT COMMITTEE TO RULE

Opponents Charge That Movement Is Backed By Professional Lobbyists at Washington.

It was learned yesterday that two factions are seeking to obtain control of the American Protective Tariff League at the annual meeting to be held at noon today at its national headquarters, 33 East Tenth Street. One, headed by W. Warren Barbour, the President, will endeavor to have all of the league's activities placed in the hands of an Advisory Committee, which Mr. Barbour appointed Oct. 6 last. The program of Mr. Barbour's supporters, it was said last night, includes the ousting from office of Wilbur F. Wakeman, Secretary and Treasurer, who has been connected with the league since 1889.

Opposed to this program are members of the present Executive Committee, Board of Managers and members at large, who declare that Mr. Wakeman has been largely responsible for making the league what it is today. They say that the movement to dismiss him is backed by professional lobbyists at Washington who hope to be able to use the organization for their own purposes.

The strength of the respective factions will not be known, it was said, until the vote is taken. Both sides have been making strenuous efforts to obtain proxies from a membership scattered all over the country. A supporter of Mr. Barbour said last night that enough proxies had been obtained to insure Mr. Wakeman's deposition. Mr. Barbour, who is President of the Linen Thread Company, 98 Franklin Street, declined yesterday to discuss today's meeting.

The Advisory Committee.

The Advisory Committee named by him and which he will seek to have placed in control of the league is made up, besides himself, of Chester A. Braman, Edward L. Goodrich, Mr. Wakeman, Joseph R. Grundy, William P. Bowman, A. Cressy Morrison, John F. Zoller, Eugene Chrystal, James B. Reynolds, Martin Cantine and William Burgess.

Supporters of Mr. Wakeman said last night that Reynolds, Cantine and Burgess were lobbyists and "outsiders" who have not hitherto been connected with the league. Morrison, Zoller and Chrystal are agents of members. The remaining committeemen are either members or officers at present.

When the Advisory Committee is not in session its full power is delegated to a subcommittee made up of Messrs. Barbour, Braman, Morrison and Burgess. Immediately after its appointment in October the Advisory Committee named as its representatives for supervision of the league George F. Lamb of the customs law firm of Devries, Doherty, Davis and Lamb, and Arthur H. Kelley, formerly connected with the United States Tariff Commission and now associated with New York University.

Recommended by McKinley.

Supporters of Mr. Wakeman said last night that he had been originally recommended to the league by President McKinley and that he was one of the foremost tariff experts in the country. During Mr. Wakeman's association with the league it has expended approximately $1,000,000.

"Naturally, the policy of protection is not accepted unanimously in this country," said Mr. Wakeman last night, "but we have had a unique record in that we have been called upon by friends and foes every year of our existence for information and statistics.

"During the last Presidential election the tariff question was not prominent, and the cause of protection is now suffering because of it. A hard campaign is ahead of us for successors to more than twenty-five protection Republican Senators who will be elected next November."

ADVERTISES OMISSION FROM PHONE DIRECTORY

"The telephone company never makes mistakes, but just the same they omitted from 40 per cent. of the Winter Manhattan telephone directories my telephone number, Cortlandt 0744, Joseph P. Day, Inc., 67 Liberty Street."

The above advertisement, which appeared in last evening's papers, was the culmination of a long-drawn-out controversy between the officials of the New York Telephone Company and Joseph P. Day, the keynote of which was "How did it happen?"

Mr. Day, on his part, could not conceive such a mistake being made and was insistent in his demands that the telephone company take some drastic action to rectify the mistake. The telephone company officials were profusely apologetic, but absolutely denied the charge of infallibility made by Mr. Day.

After several meetings, Mr. Day suggested that the telephone company pay for a series of advertisements explaining to the general public that Joseph P. Day's name and business address had been omitted from 40 per cent. of the Winter directories. The advertisements were prepared by Mr. Day and submitted to the company, but apparently the officials did not appreciate Mr. Day's suggestion, for they never appeared in print.

Fearing that the general public and especially those interested in buying suburban lots might lose track of him, Mr. Day took the matter in his own hands yesterday and ordered the advertisements printed at his own expense.

An official of the New York Telephone Company, when his attention was called to Mr. Day's advertisement, said: "We are not infallible and unfortunately we make mistakes just the same as other people."

HAPPIEST CRIPPLE IN WORLD

'Cousin Pauline' Broadcasts and Becomes Philanthropist's Protege.

Although "Cousin Pauline" is a cripple, she declared yesterday she was the happiest girl in the world. For she had become the protégée of "Uncle Robert," a philanthropist known for his interest in crippled children, and had the opportunity of broadcasting over WHN.

It was "Cousin Pauline's" idea that she was upon earth as a reminder to those who were not afflicted. Perhaps she had heard of Dickens's Tiny Tim, for she ended her first engagement as a radio talker with "God bless every one." She also exhibited specimens of her crocheting to school children at WHN studio. As her hands are withered, she does the crocheting with the aid of her tongue.

Following "Cousin Pauline" on the program, an orchestra from P. S. 69 broadcast three selections.

ASKS CLEMENCY FOR SON.

The Rev. J. M. Thompson Pleads With President Coolidge.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP).—A personal plea for executive clemency for his son, Lieutenant John S. Thompson, now under death sentence, was made to President Coolidge today by the Rev. J. Milton Thompson of Far Rockaway, N. Y.

Lieutenant Thompson was convicted by court-martial at Manila of murdering Miss Audrey Burleigh of Memphis, Tenn., last September. The documents are now in the hands of President Coolidge for approval or disapproval, and the minister, learning the decision was near, made the trip here from New York to see ka lesser punishment.

Dr. Creedon Gets Health Post.

Health Commissioner Harris announced yesterday that he had named Dr. E. L. Creedon as Acting Director of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases. Up to the time of his appointment as Health Commissioner, Dr. Harris was director of this bureau. Dr. Creeden has been connected with the Health Department for twenty years. He was a clinic physician and a medical inspector until 1918, when he became an instructor in the army tuberculosis school at New Haven, Conn. After the war he was assigned to the Otisville Tuberculosis Sanitarium, and for the last year has been Borough Chief for Manhattan in the Health Department.

TELLS OF $3,085,000 ASTOR HOME OFFER

Winter Agreed to Resell Fifth Av. Property Which He Traded Later, Realty Man Says.

SUING FOR A COMMISSION

Claim Made for $30,850 for Obtaining a Purchaser, Although Deal Was Dropped.

An assertion that Benjamin Winter, real estate man, who purchased the Vincent Astor residence at Sixty-fifth Street and Fifth Avenue and exchanged it recently for the Temple Emanu-El property at Forty-third Street and Fifth Avenue, had agreed to resell the Astor property last August for $3,085,000, is contained in papers filed in the Supreme Court yesterday in a suit by Morris Berman against Mr. Winter to recover a commission of $30,850.

The suit was begun in Westchester County and was transferred to New York by order of Justice Taylor on the application of Mr. Winter. The latter said that all his witnesses live in this county and all the transactions in connection with the attempted sale of the property took place here, and it would be a hardship to compel him to go to Westchester for the trial. Berman is suing on an assigned claim of a real estate broker of the same name, and brought the action in Westchester County because he lives there. In transferring the case to New York Justice Taylor said that if claims were to be assigned to a resident of Westchester County in order to have a speedy trial there, the calendars in that county would soon become as congested as in the counties of New York City.

An affidavit of Mr. Berman said that the negotiations for the sale of the Astor property to Harris H. Uris and his associates took place in his office, and that it was agreed that $100,000 would be deposited in escrow with the contract for the sale of the property. It was also urged, he said, that if Mr. Uris decided on the following Monday not to complete the negotiations, the check would be returned and the transaction abandoned. He said that Mr. Uris notified his attorney on the day in question that he would not complete the purchase, and the check was returned to him.

The complaint alleges that the assignor obtained Mr. Uris as a purchaser of the Astor property, and that the plaintiff is entitled to the regular commission on the transaction.

Mr. Winter said last night of his residence at 276 Riverside Drive, that he had discussed with Harris H. Uris the proposed sale of the Astor residence last Summer, but that negotiations never reached the stage where an actual sale of the property might be considered pending. There was no "meeting of the minds," Mr. Winter said.

LISTS FRANCE FIRST IN AIR.

Air Ministry Puts America Second With Thirty-three Records.

PARIS, Jan. 20 (AP).—A chart published today by the Air Ministry gives France first place among nations of the world in aviation, giving to Frenchman forty-five world's records against thirty-three for Americans. Italy is placed third with twenty-four records, while Denmark and Holland are tied for fourth place with two each.

The Air Ministry's figures indicate that in 1926 the United States led the world with fifty-three aviation records, France being second with twenty-seven.

ACQUIT GERMAN OFFICERS.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 20.—The Bavarian courts today acquitted ex-Lieutenant George Poelsing and Sergeant Major Erich Pruefert of murder, for their part in the execution of twelve alleged radical agitators in Perlacher, near Munich, seven years ago.

The evidence showed that soldiers were ordered to arrest the radicals and bring the prisoners to Munich, where they were confined in a huge beer hall. The next day they were lined up and shot at the orders of Pruefert, who claimed the orders were issued by higher officers.

In summing up the case, the judge took into consideration conditions existing in Bavaria in 1919, when the "reds" were particularly active and stringent measures were necessary to keep down riots and revolution. On account of the nervous strain imposed on the soldiers by long hours of service, the shooting, which was admittedly an unauthorized act, was extenuated.

The prosecution recommended twelve years imprisonment for both of the accused, but the judges pronounced a verdict of acquittal.

LONG ISLAND SHIFT OF STATION DENIED

RESIDENTS FIGHT PROPOSAL

Many Attend Hearing—Company Fails to Make Out Case, Major Mathews Holds.

After a hearing which attracted several hundred residents of Auburndale, in the Flushing section of Long Island, the Transit Commission, through Major Philip Mathews, its chief executive officer, indicated yesterday that it would deny the application of the Long Island Railroad for permission to shift its Auburndale station from its present site to a point about 1,500 feet east, near the Whitestone Road, or Cross Island Boulevard.

After conferring with Commissioner LeRoy T. Harkness, who listened to the evidence as Major Mathews presided, the latter announced that, in his opinion, the company had failed to make out a case, and that he would so report to the commission.

The temper of the large audience, as frankly manifested, was almost unanimously against the proposed change. C. D. Baker, General Manager of the Long Island Railroad, testified that the proposed change would be beneficial and more convenient, as it would bring the station close to the boulevard. He was cross-examined by Maurice F. Hotchner, counsel for an association of Long Island commuters, who asked him if his opinion would be influenced if it were shown that 90 per cent. of the residents of the section were opposed to a removal of the station. Mr. Baker replied that he thought the proposed change would be "for the best interests of all concerned."

Mr. Hotchner then called for a show of hands and of the more than 200 persons present only three favored the change. Commissioner Harkness asked Mr. Baker how long the proposed change had been under consideration and the witness replied, "About a year."

"What brought it up then?" asked Commissioner Harkness.

Mr. Baker said the company had received an offer of a tract of land for a station at the proposed location.

"Who offered you this land?" asked the Commissioner.

Mr. Baker said he did not know, whereupon the audience broke into loud laughter.

"The reason I asked the question," said the Commissioner, "is that such an offer would indicate that some special interest would be benefited by a change in the station location."

At the suggestion of Mr. Hotchner, Mr. Baker agreed to supply the commission with copies of all correspondence bearing upon the offer of property to the company at the proposed location.

Petitions signed by 650 citizens of the Auburndale section, protesting against any change, were presented. Mr. Hotchner declared there were 375 homes near the present station and only about 70 in the neighborhood of the proposed station. He asked Mr. Baker if it would alter his opinion if that fact were established. The witness replied in the negative, and the audience again indulged in loud laughter.

TRANSIT BOARDS MEET WALKER AGAIN TODAY

Discussion Begun Last Week on Relief in Subways Will Be Continued.

Mayor Walker this afternoon will hold the second of a series of joint conferences with the members of the State Transit Commission and of the City Board of Transportation to devise means for early relief, in so far as possibl, from present conditions of subway congestion.

The initial conference was held in the Mayor's office a week ago. Harmonious relations were then assured and steps were taken for the presentation later of some concrete scheme to alleviate some of the worst phases of the present situation. There were present last Thursday, in addition to the Mayor, Controller Charles W. Berry, Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee; for the Transit Commission, Chairman George McAneny and Commissioners LeRoy T. Harkness and General John F. O'Ryan, and for the Board of Transportation, Chairman John H. Delaney and Commissioners Daniel L. Ryan and William A. De-Ford.

To friends who expressed surprise and regret that Chairman Delaney was unable to attend a dinner on Tuesday evening at which he had been scheduled to speak on the same platform with General O'Ryan and others, Mr. Delaney explained yesterday that he was in conference with Board of Transportation engineers on important new subway matters until too late in the evening to attend the dinner.

BOY HIT BY TRUCK DIES 'GAME' TO THE END

On Operating Table, He Asks Policeman Whether He Is Showing His Courage.

James O'Connor, 14 years old, a schoolboy, of 435 West Fifty-sixth Street, prided himself on being "game" yesterday before he died on an operating table at Roosevelt Hospital of injuries he had received a short time before when he was run over by a motor truck at Amsterdam Avenue and Sixty-first Street. Patrolman John Leahy of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station told of the boy's courage, after the driver of the truck, Daniel O'Callaghan, 35 years old, of 1,443 Amsterdam Avenue, an employe of the Sheffield Farms Dairy Company had been remanded in the West Side Court for examination today in the Homicide Court.

The patrolman said that when Dr. Bell of the hospital staff was about to apply anesthetics before the operation on young O'Connor, the boy, who had suffered in silence, said to him: "Am I a game kid, officer?"

"I told him," continued Leahy, 'You are the gamest little fellow I ever saw.'"

Leahy added that after the boy had been run over by the truck and had been taken to a drug store, he eagerly answered the patrolman's questions about his identity and tried hard to retain consciousness. When the patrolman called a taxicab and took him to the hospital the little fellow mumbled his appreciation of Leahy's kindness.

Angeline Roseline, 9 years old, of 425 West Thirty-first Street, was probably fatally injured yesterday when she was struck by a taxicab in the street in front of her home. She was taken to the French Hospital by the chauffeur, Max Zaken of 814 East 150th Street, the Bronx.

Zaken was arrested on a technical charge of felonious assault.

DIES IN FOURTH ATTEMPT.

Woman Saved Thrice by Same Policeman, but He Failed Yesterday.

Three times in the last year Mrs. Anna Jaffe, 35 years old, had tried to kill herself in her home at 3,031 West Twenty-third Street, Brooklyn, and three times the same policeman was instrumental in saving her life, but when she made her fourth attempt yesterday by inhaling gas and cutting her throat with a razor she succeeded despite the attempt of the same policeman to save her.

Mrs. Jaffe had borne seven children and all but one of them, Anna, 18 months old, died. Her husband was playing with Anna in a front room when she walked into the bathroom turned on the gas and cut her throat. When the husband heard her moans he called in Patrolman Robert Green.

Mrs. Jaffe died a short time after reaching the Coney Island Hospital.

WOMEN DEMAND WORKERS' SAFETY

MORE FEDERAL AID URGED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Social and health problems of women workers in industry were discussed at today's sessions of the Women's Industrial Conference.

Speaking on the topic "Industrial Hygiene," Dr. Alice Hamilton of the Harvard Medical School, declared that the United States Public Health Service was "starved," in that it lacked a sufficient budget to accomplish essential experimental and research work.

Dr. Hamilton contended that there were new industrial perils appearing, which were extremely dangerous to the health of the workers, and that tests should be made continually to determine their effects. She said that the Public Health Service should do this work, and advised the working people to demand the enlargement of the service so that it could successfully undertake the task which she contended was not now being handled by any one.

Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, spoke of the scope of the work of the service, and then asked Dr. L. R. Thompson to answer for him questions about statistical work.

Dr. Thompson said that of all the diseases studied, the mortality was higher for women than for men, except in the case of pneumonia. No explanation had been found, he said, for the higher percentage among men in the latter.

The trend of the forum discussion following the speeches was to prove the unreliability of statistics in making definite deductions.

Miss Mary Van Kleeck of the Russell Sage Foundation spoke at the evening session in support of "protective" legislation, maintaining that employment and working conditions for women had steadily improved during the past fifty years of their protection by law. She cited legislation in New York State which she regarded as characteristic of other States.

Speakers for the Woman's Party, who opposed this sort of legislation, were Miss Josephine Casey of Chicago, a strong advocate for organization of women into trade unions as a solution of their industrial problems, and Miss Gail Laughlin of California.

Miss Casey declared that the women trade unions of protective, partly, as a result of protective legislation "wished on them."

Miss Laughlin said that the "genesis of this so-called protective legislation was in the minds of men not wishing women as their competitors."

SHERIFF FREES BOY WHEN MOTHER WEEPS

Pays Fine of Lad Who Says He Is 14, but Enlisted as 18 in Guard —He Refused to Drill.

Ralph Morris of 1,529 Hoe Avenue, the Bronx, is tired of military life. He joined the 258th Infantry, N. Y. N. G., last Summer and went to camp with them. Recently, however, he has been remiss in attending drills. He was court martialed, found guilty of being "A. W. O. L." and fined $15 and costs, amounting in all to $18.75. He continued his attitude of studied aloofness, and Tuesday landed in the Bronx County Jail to serve his fine out at the rate of $1 a day.

Ralph insisted he had been unfairly treated. He said that he was only 14 years old, and his mother agreed with him. Colonel Elmore F. Austin, commanding the regiment, pointed out that he enlisted as eighteen last Summer, that his mother knew of the enlistment and allowed him to go to camp and drills without a protest, and that he "looked to be 21."

"You bring me his birth certificate," Colonel Austin told Mrs. Morris yesterday, "and we will see that he is discharged if he is under age."

The mother left, Colonel Austin said, and promised to return in an hour with the certificate. The Colonel waited in his office all day but she did not return. She appealed to Sheriff Lester W. Patterson, who was an officer in the 106th Infantry in the World War.

"I couldn't have that mother crying around here," the Sheriff said afterward, "and so I paid the $18.75 myself and let him go home."

"Well," Colonel Austin said when he heard of the Sheriff's benefaction, "the boy's mother hasn't appeared with the birth certificate, and Morris is still in the National Guard. He'd better show up at drill next Tuesday night or this business will begin all over again."

DISMISSES CLAIMS ON KAROLYI FUND

Morris L. Ernst of 7 Dey Street, of counsel for Count Michael Karolyi of Hungary, announced yesterday that Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, Washington, had signed a final decree dismissing the claims of four American Hungarians against the $16,000 Karolyi fund, which has been held by the Alien Property Custodian since the war.

Count Karolyi collected the money in 1914 to finance his social reform program in Hungary, including land reform, woman suffrage and the secret ballot. After the Alien Property Custodian seized the money it was claimed by the Hungarian Government, but this claim was denied by the courts.

Mr. Ernst said he would file an application for the return of $10,000 of the $16,000 to Count Karolyi, and that he expected to get it immediately under the law passed by Congress authorizing the return of alien property up to $10,000. The remaining $6,000 will remain in the custody of the Alien Property Custodian until Congress decides what to do about property in excess of $10,000.

$5,000 BAIL FOR MOTORMAN.

B. M. T. Furnishes It for Driver Accused in Bridge Crash.

Within an hour after his discharge from Bellevue Hospital John Simmer, motorman of the train which crashed into another on Williamsburg Bridge Monday morning, was arraigned in the Homicide Court yesterday morning.

On the application of Assistant District Attorney McGowan the motorman was held in $5,000 bail for examination on Jan. 27. Simmer was not represented by counsel and he offered no objection to the amount of bail. He wore the motorman's uniform which he was wearing at the time of the accident. He lives at 1,341 Flushing Avenue, Brooklyn. Bail was furnished by a representative of the B. M. T. The deaths of both Ruth Soefer, 5 years old, of 30 Sumner Avenue, and Harry Sternberg, 60, of 963 Bedford Avenue, are cited in the complaint against the motorman.

DEMPSEY IS READY TO FIGHT TUNNEY

Champion Agrees to Defend His World's Title in Jersey City, Probably Aug. 12.

RICKARD PROMOTES DEAL

Articles Not Yet Signed, but Negotiations Apparently Have Been Completed.

WILLS BOUT SEEMS OFF

Battle in Michigan or Elsewhere Scouted—Dempsey and Tunney, Both in Miami, Willing.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Jack Dempsey will defend his world's heavyweight title against Gene Tunney, Greenwich Village idol, in a bout in Promoter Tex Rickard's famous Thirty Acres, in Jersey City, next Summer. The fight will be held in August, probably on Aug. 12, unless Dempsey finds in the meantime that he needs additional time in which to train. The men will fight on a percentage arrangement, it is understood.

As yet no articles have been signed for the match, so far as could be learned yesterday. Promoter Rickard, however, is understood to have carried to a successful completion negotiations which have occupied his attention for several months, and the actual signing is expected to be a mere formality. Dempsey and Tunney, it has also been learned from a reliable source, have accepted the promoter's terms.

Billy Gibson, manager of Tunney, paid a visit to this city yesterday, leaving Tunney in Miami, where Dempsey was also reported to be yesterday. Gibson's visit was in connection with the proposed bout. He may have signed yesterday. He was supposed to have departed last night.

Rickard Silent on Match.

Rickard would not discuss the matter. He refused even to be drawn into a talk on the subject, declaring when interviewers sought to verify a published report of the near completion of the bout arrangements, that he knew nothing of the matter and that he would make a statement at the proper time. It is expected, however, that in a few days Rickard will officially announce the match after obtaining the signatures of Dempsey and Tunney to contracts.

The proposed Dempsey-Tunney match will be the only one for the champion next year, according to present plans of the champion as revealed by one close to him. The titleholder will not be ready to fight until August, obviating the possibility of the frequently reported match in July. The plans for a Dempsey-Harry Wills match in Chicago, Los Angeles or any other centre appear now, as they always have to those familiar with conditions, negligible. Dempsey certainly will not be able to undertake two matches next year. Two such enterprises could not reasonably be expected to be profitable. Yesterday's developments practically establish the much-talked-about signing at Niles, Mich., as a gesture. There is little probability of anything ever coming of this project, despite protestations of Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons to the contrary.

O'Rourke Makes an Offer.

Meanwhile Tom O'Rourke, veteran fight manager and promoter, announced yesterday he was in the field as a bidder for a bout between Dempsey and Wills, declaring he was prepared to offer Dempsey $500,000 to accept a match with the negro heavyweight, which O'Rourke plans to hold in Greenwich or Port Chester, Conn. O'Rourke said he had responsible backing for the project and would undertake the building of an arena with a seating capacity of 100,000, to be used not alone for a Dempsey-Wills fight, but for other important sport enterprises as well.

What attitude the State Athletic Commission will take on the subject of a Dempsey-Tunney match is problematical. The commission has placed Dempsey on the ineligible list for his refusal to accept a bout with Wills, and Dempsey still is ineligible. The commission's rules forbid a licensed promoter in this State from carrying on negotiations with an ineligible boxer. Whether the rule can be applied to a promoter licensed here but negotiating for a bout in a different State, is open to discussion. It is felt that Rickard can safely negotiate with Dempsey for a bout in New Jersey without jeopardizing his license as a promoter in this State.

Dempsey Not Surprised.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 20 (AP).—Neither Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, nor Gene Tunney, light-heavyweight contender and aspirant for the former's crown, expressed surprise here today when informed that a tentative agreement for a title match between them had been reached.

"I have received so many offers to meet Tunney that I am mixed a bit on the dates," said Dempsey, "but so far as I can recall, this is the first intimation that the match might be staged at Boyle's thirty acres."

Tunney said that he had not yet been advised by his manager, Billy Gibson, that a tentative agreement had been reached with Tex Rickard to promote the championship bout.

Dempsey said that he considered Tunney the logical contender for the crown worn by himself, stating that he did not believe any promoter would be willing to assume the financial risk of a bout between himself and Harry Wills, negro heavyweight challenger.

Governor to Rule on Dempsey.

FORT MYERS, Fla., Jan. 20 (AP).—Governor Martin here today said he would decide Friday whether he will grant permission for Jack Dempsey to appear in a ring at Miami for an exhibition bout with one of his sparring partners.

During the Administration of Governor Carey Hardee two years ago an executive ruling was handed down against the appearance of first-class boxers in Florida.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20.—Captain Johnny Hawkins, intercollegiate 440-yard champion, and his Princeton swimming mates defeated the University of Pennsylvania team, 46 to 16, here tonight.

The Tiger natators had things all their own way. Hawkins won the 100 and 440 yard swims in easy fashion. Princeton shut out Pennsylvania without a first place, taking all seven events and placing men in second place in three numbers.

Just to make the evening a successful one in all angles, the visiting Tiger water polo team, led by Henry Matelene, trounced the Red and Blue by a 68—16 score. Matelene scored 63 of the points.

The summaries:

FORDHAM TO PLAY W. AND J. ELEVEN

Teams to Clash at Polo Grounds Oct. 23—Boston College Back on the Maroon Card.

One of the hardest campaigns arranged for a Fordham football team in recent years will be undertaken by the Maroon during the 1926 Fall season. Eight games, all but one of which are to be played in New York, were announced yesterday by Graduate Manager and Coach Frank Gargan as the list of games comprising the schedule for next season. Washington and Jefferson is the only team appearing on the slate which is a new opponent for Fordham.

By meeting the Generals at the Polo Grounds Oct. 23, Fordham will step into new football company. The Maroon will take the place of Lafayette in W. and J.'s annual New York game.

After a year's absence Fordham will again go back to Boston for its yearly Columbus Day game with Boston College at Braves Field.

New York University, which was numbered among Fordham's victims last Autumn in the Violet's first year of Meehan coached football, will be seen in action with the Maroon on Oct. 30.

The schedule:

Oct. 2, Mount St. Mary's at Fordham Field; 9, Manhattan College at Fordham Field; 16, Boston College at Braves Field, Boston; 23, Washington and Jefferson at Polo Grounds; 30, New York University at New York.

Nov. 6, Holy Cross at Worcester; 12, C. C. N. Y. at Lewisohn Stadium; 20, Georgetown at Polo Grounds.

XAVIER QUINTET WINNER.

The St. Francis Xavier Prep basketball team defeated the Brooklyn Prep quintet, 25 to 18, in a hard-fought game on the Brooklyn Prep court yesterday. Keber, captain and right forward of the St. Francis team, accounted for sixteen points, getting five field and six foul goals.

The line-up:

ST. FRANCIS (25).		B'KLYN PREP. (18).
Reed	F.	Mullaney
Keber	F.	Garcia
Ryan	C.	Flynn
Cusack	L.G.	Cox
Kennedy	R.G.	McGrath

Goals from field—Keber (5), Reed (2), Ryan (2), Cox (3), Mullaney (2), McGrath. Goals from foul—Keber (6), Ryan, Mullaney (2), Flynn (2), Garcia, Baumin.

BOXING BOUTS TONIGHT.

Madison Square Garden—Finals in Metropolitan A. A. U. championship tournament.

10,000 IN GARDEN FOR AMATEUR BOUTS

GRANDEO AMONG VICTORS

Former Champion Stops Hollander in 112-Pound Class—Sidney Reisler Also Wins.

A new high water mark in attendance in local amateur boxing was reached last night in Madison Square Garden, where a crowd of more than 10,000 fight fans gathered for the preliminaries in the Metropolitan A. A. U. annual championship tournament, which is to conclude with the finals tonight.

Every seat on the floor was occupied by a gathering in which women were more conspicuous than they ever have been at amateur tournaments, or at professional fights for that matter. Every box seat was occupied in the arena and the end sections were filled almost to capacity.

No other amateur tournament in local history has attracted a gathering quite as large as this. In fact, there have been many professional ring carnivals in the old Garden as well as the new which have attracted fewer persons than saw last night's program.

Lively Evening Forecast.

A lively evening was forecast in the opening bouts, the classes in the 112-pound class. In this division eight bouts were held and three of them ended in knockouts. William Grandeo, flyweight champion of 1924, was one of the lads to win by a K. O. He drew Ben Hollander, Clark House A. A., as his first opponent of the tournament and administered such a severe drubbing to his rival that Referee Casper Kirschner halted hostilities after about two minutes of the first round.

Sidney Reisler, Glencoe A. C., knocked out John Lynch, Paulist A. C., in the fourth round of a contest which went an extra session when the judges disagreed at the end of the customary three rounds. The other knockout was scored by Tony Abrusci, Louis Ruffalo A. A., who disposed of Frank Philbin, Paulist A. C., in three rounds.

Tom Tritta, St. Anselm's A. C., and Pete Porcaro, southpaw, of St. Bartholomew's Club, were the winners in two heavyweight bouts. Tritta, a good prospect, but who yet needs plenty of schooling, won the decision over H. I. Polstein, unattached, in three exciting rounds, while Porcaro knocked out George Lawson in 2 minutes 5 seconds of the second round after three times flooring the Ascension Parish House lad.

Bout Ends in 22 Seconds.

The quickest knockout of the night came in the third heavyweight bout when Lawrence Creighton, unattached, negro boxer, disposed of George Grau, Pastime A. C., in 22 seconds of the first round, twice knocking Grau down before Referee Al Goldberg stopped the bout.

Ed Tiernan, St. Bartholomew's Club, defending champion in the 147-pound class, started successfully on the defense of his crown, although his work in his initial bout lacked the impressive element expected. Tiernan gained the decision over Juan Sabatil, Knights of St. Antony, in three rounds of unexciting milling.

The summaries:

112-Pound Class.

James Ruffalo, Louis Ruffalo, A. A., knocked out Nils Frederickson, Swedish-American A. C., one round.

Jimmy McNamara, Ozanam Association 2, defeated Jimmy Carlo, Bronx Union Y. M. C. A., three rounds, judges' decision.

160-Pound Class.

Heavyweight Class.

Pete Porcaro, St. Bartholomew's Club, knocked out George Lawson, Ascension Parish House, two rounds.

Lawrence Creighton, unattached, knocked out George Grau, Pastime A. C., one round.

SAVAGE DOWNS N. Y. AGGIES.

New York School Wins, 41-27, by Second-Half Rally.

Special to The New York Times.

McNamara-Horan Win Berlin 6-Day Race; Germans Offer $25 for Gallery Seats

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 20.—By calling upon every ounce of latent powers they possessed, the American team of Reggie McNamara and Harry Horan took six of the twenty-four sprints in the last hour of the Berlin fifteenth annual six-day bicycle race tonight and thereby captured first honors. The German-Italian team of Rieger and Giorgetti finished second and Hahn and Tietz, Germans, third.

From the beginning the race has been the most exciting Berlin ever has witnessed, with the American and Rieger-Giorgetti teams alternately holding first place. At 6 o'clock tonight the two teams tied with 294 points each, but in the last five hours the Americans forged ahead, placing in fifteen sprints and bringing up their total to 320 points, as against 308 for the second team. The total distance covered was 3,700 kilometers.

The immense Sport Palast, holding 10,000 persons, was filled every hour of the day and night during the past six days despite the high prices of tickets. Tonight thousands were begging ticket scalpers to part with their wares at $25 for upper gallery seats. Prices at the box office ranged from $1 to $15 daily, bringing in to the Sport Palace sums which sound like figures of inflation days.

PENN FIVE DOWNS YALE BY 20 TO 17

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 20.—Yale dropped its fourth Intercollegiate League basketball game of the season tonight, the Penn five, which defeated the Bull Dog in Philadelphia two weeks ago, tonight repeating its victory by outscoring its rivals in the Yale gymnasium, 20 to 17.

The field goal by Lindsay, which broke the 17-to-17 tie, and the foul goal toss by Captain Davenport which yielded the Ben Franklins their final point, were not registered until the final two minutes of play.

The lead passed nine times during the clash, although the visitors held a slight advantage after the first five minutes. With the count knotted at seven points, a Penn spurt sent the visitors into a 12-to-9 lead at half time.

Goals by Jones and Ward wrested the lead from the Quakers immediately after the second half opened but Lindsay and Goldblatt recovered the lost ground by a dashing reserve offense. Goldblatt was ordered from the floor because of four personal fouls, but his defensive game was the most effective of any player of the two teams. Captain Davenport and Lindsay divided attacking and scoring honors for the winners.

Yale was very weak on free throws, and only three of its efforts found the basket.

Captain Lackey, Yale's regular basket tosser, was injured slightly in the first half and was compelled to retire. The best all-around play was shown by the defensive players, Simmen and Acting Captain Carmody.

Long baskets of individual brilliancy were thrown by Sherr and Ward. The game was delayed because of the failure of the Yale-Penn second team game to close on scheduled time. This contest went to Yale, 22 to 20, when Rosenmann's goal found the basket in the overtime period.

The line-up:

PENN (20).		YALE (17).
Davenport	R.F.	Lackey
Lindsay	L.F.	Breck
Walker	C.	Simmen
Luckaswitz	R.G.	Frankel
Goldblatt	L.G.	Carmody

Substitutions—Penn: Scherr for Walker, Ramage for Goldblatt. Yale: Ward for Lackey, Jones for Breck, Breck for Ward.

TIGER FIVE DEFEATS HAVERFORD, 32-26

But Losers Force Princeton to Extra Period—Loeb and Thomas High Scorers.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan 20.—Haverford's basketball team forced Princeton into an extra period here tonight before the Tigers could win, 32 to 26. Princeton led at half time, 20 to 13, but the visitors' defense tightened in the second half, allowing Princeton only four points before the end of the regulation time.

Captain Carl Loeb of the Tiger five, who played less than half the game, divided scoring honors with Thomas, Haverford forward, each accounting for nine points.

The line-up:

PRINCETON (32).		HAVERFORD (26).
McCabe	L.F.	Maguire
Hendricks	R.F.	Logan
Bryant	C.	Melchior
Hitchcock	L.G.	Mitchell
Loeb	R.G.	Garrett

Goals from field—Princeton: Loeb (4), Bryant (4), Alexander (3), McCabe (2), Kaufman, Gartner. Haverford: Logan (4), Thomas (4), Mitchell (2), Vogel. Goals from foul—Princeton: Loeb 1 out of 1, Gartner 1 out of 1. Haverford: Garrett 2 out of 3, Thomas 1 out of 2, Downward 1 out of 1.

Substitutions—Princeton: Whitsett for McCabe, Rees for Bryant, Kaufman for Alexander, Evans for Loeb, McCullough for Gartner, Frost for Rees, Bryant for Frost, Gartner for Hendricks. Haverford: Thomas for Melchior, Melchior for Maguire, Downward for Logan, Vogel for Garrett, Garrett for Downward, Melchior for Vogel.

WESLEYAN WINS, 49 TO 26.

Five Defeats Conn. Aggies on Home Court, Umpleby Starring.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Jan. 20.—Wesleyan defeated the Connecticut Aggies in basketball tonight, 49 to 26. The half ended with Wesleyan leading, 26 to 12. Umpleby was the star for Wesleyan. Schofield and Eddy played well for the Aggies.

The line-up:

WESLEYAN (49).		CONN. AGGIES (26).
Umpleby	L.F.	Schofield

FORDHAM SWAMPS RUTGERS FIVE, 33-13

LEADS, 16-4, AT THE HALF

New Yorkers' Second Team Rolls Up Big Margin at Start—Rutgers Freshman Win.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Jan. 20.—Rutgers was no match for Fordham at basketball here tonight. Outweighed and outplayed, the lighter Rutgers players lost in a whirlwind game, 33 to 13.

Fordham started its second team, which ran up a lead of eight points before Mark dropped in a free throw for the Scarlet. With the score 10 to 1, the Fordham varsity entered the game and for a time Rutgers braced, but the Fordham regulars gradually drew away and led at half time, 16 to 4.

In the second period Fordham continued its flashy work, giving as fast an exhibition of passing as has been seen on the Rutgers court this year. Manning and Landry starred for the winners, while Falting's all-around game was the redeeming feature of the Rutgers play.

The Rutgers freshmen defeated the Maroon yearlings 25 to 37 in a preliminary game which went into an extra five-minute period.

The line-ups:

FORDHAM (33).		RUTGERS (13).
Landry	R.F.	Mark

NAVY FIVE BEATS GETTYSBURG, 26-23

Gerhardt and Craig Star in Hard-Fought Game on the Annapolis Court.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 20.—Gerhardt, captain of the Gettysburg basketball team, and Craig of the Naval Academy were rivals stars in the game today in which the Navy won by 26 to 22.

Gerhardt scored five field goals and three from the line in as many attempts. Craig scored an equal number of field goals and made good on both of his chances from the line. The Navy started with a second-string team and trailed by 11 to 13 at the end of the first period.

The line-up:

Sigler	R.F.	Tuckey

MISS WILLS DROPS 3 GAMES IN 2 SETS

Beats Miss Saunders of England, but Not Without Trouble—Service Improves.

LENGLEN MATCH IS NEAR

Meeting to Take Place in Either Feb. 1 or 8 Tourneys—American Studies Rival in Action.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CANNES, France, Jan. 20.—The Riviera had its first opportunity of seeing both Miss Helen Wills and Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen in action in consecutive matches in the Metropole lawn tennis tourney this afternoon and seized it with a vengeance. Scores of fashionable persons were unable to gain admission.

The verdict remains that Suzanne will vanquish Helen. The latter lost three games to a young English star today. Miss Wills, however, showed astonishing strength in her returns, and her backhand ones were the subject of general praise. Even a strenuous set doesn't seem to cause Helen to turn a hair or lose the slightest breath while her studied calm continues to be commented on here.

The invader has wound the French colors around her racquet as a compliment, but Mlle. Lenglen has not responded. This afternoon, sitting just outside the court throughout her rival's match, the French star chatted and laughed freely with her friends, scarcely even glancing toward her American rival.

Miss Lenglen and Viasto adopted a pale green and yellow color scheme for their sweaters to go with the green and gold background of the courts and their joint play was delightful. Suzanne is becoming more and more the premiere danseuse and today her heels never touched the ground while the ball was in motion. After leaping high for the ball she touches the earth in a kind of courtesy. Externally the French girl is a picture of nerves, the American girl a picture of health.

Gets First Real Test.

CANNES, France, Jan. 20 (AP).—Miss Helen Wills received her first genuine tennis test of her Riviera season today in her second match of the Metropole tournament. The American woman champion's string of love games, started yesterday in her match against Miss E. M. Green of England, was ended after running to fifteen straight when Miss Mary Saunders, one of England's brightest youthful hopes for world tennis honors, captured the fourth and fifth games in her match against Miss Wills today.

Miss Saunders went so far against the American queen of the courts as to win the fifth game at love, but Miss Wills, always playing well within her best game, won the hard-fought match, 6—2, 6—1.

Miss Saunders, only 19 years old, regarded by British experts as a second Joan Fry, put up a plucky struggle but Miss Wills, apparently inspired by the beautiful weather, played a game much better than that of her match yesterday. She attained great pace, and her drives across court worked beautifully. The weakness she displayed yesterday in repeated double faulting was absent, and only once did she fail to get her service in.

Meanwhile, the great rival of the American girl champion, Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, was having a busy day on the courts.

A meeting between the two is now practically certain to occur during the first fortnight in February, Mlle. Lenglen today said she would certainly play in the singles of either the Nice Lawn Tennis Club tournament, beginning Feb. 1, or the Carlton Hotel tournament here, opening Feb. 8.

Miss Wills is entered in the singles of both these tournaments. Thus the much-heralded match between the American and European champions is now as good as settled unless either should be eliminated before the finals, which all experts agree would create a sensation greater than the match itself.

Drops Five Games in Four Sets.

Mlle. Lenglen's decision to play in the singles next month came after she had emerged victorious in both of the doubles matches in which she engaged today. Paired with Mlle. Viasto, she defeated the Misses M. B. Brown and K. M. Scott of England, 6—0, 6—1, this match following without intermission a victory with Brugnon over Mrs. Calder and A. D. Vickers of England, 6—2, 6—2. Mlle. Lenglen's perfect physical condition was shown by the fact that after a solid hour of play in the warmest sun the Riviera has experienced this year, her respiration was hardly above normal. She will decide definitely which of next month's tournaments to enter during the course of the present week.

While Mlle. Lenglen was playing today, Miss Wills, inconspicuous in a corner of the spectator's stand, watched her and took voluminous notes in a small notebook. There was much to write about, for she saw Suzanne at her best.

"What do you think about her?" Miss Wills was asked after her rival's two matches.

FIRST SET.

									Pts.	G.
Miss Wills	4	1	5	6	3	6	4	4	30	6
Miss Saunders	2	3	4	4	4	3	0	2	22	2

VICTORY FOR HOLY CROSS.

Reilley Scores 10 Field Goals and Purple Five Wins, 41-37.

Special to The New York Times.

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 20.—The Holy Cross basketball team defeated Tufts here tonight, 41 to 37. The visitors put up a stubborn battle all through, keeping the Purple players on edge. Reilly was the high scorer of the game netting twenty points for his team. The half-time whistle found the Purple leading by two points, with the score 18 to 13.

The line-up:

HOLY CROSS (41).		TUFTS (37).
Wise	L.F.	Robinson
Conners	R.W.	Nussbaum

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Jan. 20.—The Collegiate Preparatory School basketball team defeated the Morristown Preparatory School five, 30 to 27, on the court of the Morristown Preparatory School here today.

Miss Wills in Passive Role While Debate on Ball Rages

CANNES, France, Jan. 20 (AP).—When asked for her version of the tennis ball controversy raging along the Riviera, Miss Helen Wills today replied: "What is fair for the other players is fair for me." In the tourney in which the American girl is playing a British ball is being used, while in two other major tourneys to come a different make of ball will be used in each. This constant shifting is causing annoyance among the players, and is working a severe handicap on Miss Wills, who refuses to become involved in the debate.

Crack Orange Forward Swells His Scoring Total to 164—Dake Shines for Losers.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 20.—Syracuse University scored its tenth straight basketball victory at Archbold Gymnasium tonight when, for the second time this season, it defeated Cornell University, 35 to 20. The Orange led at half time, 18 to 9.

Scoring five field goals and six foul points, Vic Hanson, star Syracuse forward, brought his point total for the season up to 164 points. Starring with him tonight was Richtmeyer, who scored two baskets, his first counters of the season. Irving Mendell, star Orange guard, has been lost to the team because of scholastic difficulties.

Dake, centre, shone for Cornell, accounting for eleven points.

The line-up:

SYRACUSE (35).		CORNELL (20).
Hanson	F.	Albee
Carr	F.	Clucas
Richtmeyer	C.	Dake
Lee	L.G.	Devaun
Rakow	R.G.	Moynihan

BUGLE WILL SOUND TODAY AT MIAMI

Biscayne Handicap Is Feature at the Opening of Hialeah Track's Second Year.

PLANT GREATLY IMPROVED

Quality of Horses Ahead of First Season and New Records Are Looked For.

Special to The New York Times.

MIAMI, Jan. 20.—At 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon the bugle will call the horses to the post for the first race of the opening day of the second annual Winter race meeting of the Miami Jockey Club in Hialeah.

For this season the racing material in quantity and quality far surpasses that which appeared last year in the overnight events and the stakes of modest value. This year there are some real stakes, beginning with the Biscayne Handicap, which is the feature of tomorrow's card. Many improvements have been made in the plant as a result of the experiences of the first year and the whole outfit is up to date in every particular.

The track is near perfection and it is predicted that a complete set of new records at all distances will be established early in the meeting. Horses have been working very fast in preparation for the opening day.

Seven Races Each Day.

The meeting will continue for forty-five racing days, coming to a conclusion on Saturday, March 13. There will be seven races each day. Overnight purses run from $1,000 to $2,000, with the added money in the stakes running from $5,000 to $25,000. The latter figure will be for the Miami Cup Handicap, which will be contested on the closing day of the meeting.

For the Biscayne Handicap tomorrow, which is for three-year-olds and upward at six furlongs, with $5,000 added, there were eighty-seven nominations. Eighteen have been named overnight, so it is certain that a representative field will face the barrier. Heading the list in the Everglade Stable's Wise Counselor, which will carry top weight of 125 pounds. As the winner of the first International Race had a mishap in training recently it is a possibility that John Ward may keep him in the barn and depend upon his stable companion, Worthmore. The latter has been allotted 130 pounds.

Worthmore will have stiff competition from E. F. Whitney's Mainmast and Mr. Pepp and G. Frank Croissant's Gibbons and Kentucky Cardinal. Marconi has been working very fast and as he is in at 115 pounds and Old Slip at 114 pounds the Cooper entry is likely to be well backed, as is Anna Marrone II, Boon Companion, Sunsard and Brainstorm among other familiar names among the entries.

Hialeah Purse to Be Run.

The baby racers will make their Florida début in the fourth race, at two furlongs, fourteen having been named. The same number are entered in the Hialeah Purse, a dash of five and one-half furlongs for the three-year-olds. There are enough in the other events to assure interesting competition all through the card.

MAROCZY MEETS DEFEAT.

Hungarian Master Bows to Belhoff in Manhattan Chess Play.

The first real sensation in the annual tournament for the championship of the Manhattan Chess Club came in the fourth round yesterday, when Gena Maroczy, champion of Hungary, suffered defeat at the hands of George J. Belhoff. Maroczy had the white side of a queen's pawn opening and won the exchange, but then committed an oversight which cost him the game after twenty-six moves. Maroczy, who had already drawn two games out of three, has now a 50 per cent. score.

I. Kashdan improved his standing and leads with 3½ after a well-earned victory over A. S. Pinkus. Oscar Tenner and R. L. Bernheim are tied at 2–1.

The summaries:

Boards.	WHITE.	BLACK.
No. 1	Samuels 0	Tenner 1
No. 2	Berman 1	Field 0
No. 3	Maroczy 0	Belhoff 1
No. 4	Pinkus 0	Kashdan 1
No. 5	Sinter 0	Newman 0
No. 6	Halper 0	Bernheim 1
No. 7	Ruppchik	Horowitz 1

The openings: 1, Alekhine's defense (37 moves); 2, Queen's pawn (30 moves); 3, Queen's pawn (30 moves); 4, Queen's gambit declined (33 moves); 5, Queen's pawn (44 moves); 6, Queen's pawn (30 moves); 7, postponed.

Dr. Lasker to Play in Brooklyn.

Dr. Samuel Lasker of Berlin, who arrived here Tuesday, has been engaged by the Brooklyn Chess Club to give the first exhibition of his American tour at its clubrooms, 4 Court Square, Brooklyn, next Saturday night. The former world champion will play simultaneously against thirty opponents.

Pennsylvania Fines Friedman; Fouls to Cost Purse in Future

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20 (AP).—Sailor Friedman, disqualified for fouling Billy Wells, the British welterweight, in their bout here Monday night, today was fined $200 by the State Athletic Commission. The fight was stopped in the sixth round after Friedman had twice been warned. The commission made a ruling that hereafter fouling tactics would draw a fine and forfeiture of purse, instead of suspension.

MET. JOCKEY CLUB DROPS GUARANTEES

Majority of Stakes at Jamaica Spring Meeting Will Carry Added Money.

A majority of the stakes for the Spring meeting of the Metropolitan Jockey Club at the Jamaica course will carry added money instead of a guaranteed value as in the past, it was announced yesterday. This move is in line with that made by the Westchester Racing Association and the Queens County Jockey Club. This means that the guaranteed stake is gradually being discarded by the racing associations in this State as obsolete and that in the near future practically all the stakes will carry added money.

These stakes will close on Feb. 15, with Fred Rehberger, Racing Secretary. For the coming Spring season the Excelsior, Paumonok and Spring Handicaps, as well as the Wood Stakes, all hitherto guaranteed, have added money values. The Excelsior and Paumonok will have $5,000 added each, the Spring will carry $2,500 and the Wood Stakes $7,500 added. The Excelsior last year had a value of $7,500. The Kings County Handicap last year had an added value of $3,500 and will be increased by $1,500.

The stake program arranged for the coming season carries values in excess of $10,000 over any previous season. The fixtures for three-year-olds and upward at a mile and a sixteenth are the Excelsior Handicap, $5,000 added; Kings County Handicap, $5,000 added; Long Beach Handicap, $3,500 added; Garden City Claiming Stakes, $2,000 added. At six furlongs: Paumonok Handicap, $5,000 added; Rainbow Handicap, $2,500 added; Newton Claiming Stakes, $2,000 added, and Olympia Claiming Stakes $2,000.

Exclusively for three-year-olds are the Wood Stakes, having an added value of $7,500, at a mile and seventy yards; the Southampton Handicap, $3,500 added, at a mile and a sixteenth; Spring Handicap, $2,500 added, six furlongs, and the Highland Claiming Stakes, $2,000 added, at six furlongs.

The features for juveniles are six: The Youthful Stakes, value $7,000; the Colorado Stakes, value $6,000; the Rosedale Stakes, value $5,000, for fillies exclusively; the Greenfield Claiming Stakes, $2,000 added; the Montauk Claiming Stakes, $2,000 added, and the Suffolk Claiming Stakes, $2,000 added. All races for two-year-olds are at five furlongs.

BOLTON REGISTERS NEW ORLEANS UPSET

Durnell 3-Year-Old Pays $32 for $2 in Republic—Plain Dealer Is Second.

ABSTRACT WINS BY A NOSE

Outstays Favorite, King Tut, in Fairfield Purse—Colored Gal Leads Juveniles.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 20.—C. E. Durnell's Bolton, bay son of Peter Pan and Whisk By, upset the talent at the Fair Grounds this afternoon when he breezed home to win the Republic Handicap, a mile dash restricted to the three-year-olds. Bolton, which hasn't been in the money at the meeting, was a long shot in a field of six and paid his backers $32 for each $2 ticket in the mutuels. Bourassa was up on the winner, which was in under the feather of 100 pounds and ran the distance in 1:40 4-5 over a fast track.

Success again rode with Willie Garner, who landed two winners—Dustabout in the sixth and Moon Magic in the closing number. He was second twice and twice unplaced. Favorites came home in front in three of the seven events on the afternoon card.

All-named overnight paraded for the afternoon feature, with W. H. Whitehouse's Erie the favorite and J. C. Milam's Prickly Heat a close second choice. There was a good break at the barrier, with Harry Carroll going out to make the early pace. He had enough a quarter of a mile from home, quitting to finish an igneominious last.

Bolton Shows Improvement.

Bolton showed sharp improvement in form. Bourassa had him under wraps not far from the leaders for three-quarters of the distance. On the turn the colt moved up, and came around to take the lead a furlong out and win by three lengths from Frank M. Kelly's Plain Dealer. The latter was right up all the way, showed in front when Harry Carroll quit, and held on to take the place from Prickly Heat by the margin of a neck. Eric was last away, gained some ground and finished fourth, the Greentree Stable's filly, Hell Cat, being outrun.

Abstract proved the winner of the Fairfield Purse. With Red Harvey up he took the lead from King Tut, the favorite, early in the race, had speed enough to show the way throughout and in the stretch drive outstayed King Tut to gain the decision by a nose. King Tut probably would have won had he not gone wide turning into the stretch.

Colored Gal Noses Out Little Eva.

There was another nose finish when the juveniles got in action for their dash of three furlongs. Eleven maidens scurried away from the barrier, first home being W. Keating's aptly-named black filly, Colored Gal, by Von Tromp out of Mammy, with Little Eva second. She was running her second race and as she had shown some fast workouts was made the favorite at a short price.

The summaries:

HAWAIIAN MERMAID SAILS FOR AMERICA

Miss Wehselau to Swim in the National Indoor Championships at St. Augustine.

Miss Mariechen Wehselau of the Outrigger Canoe Club, all-round swimming champion of Hawaii, sailed from Honolulu yesterday, according to cable advices received by the Amateur Athletic Union, to take part in the national indoor aquatic title fixtures slated to be held at St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 9 to 13. Mrs. Fullard Leo, former President of the Hawaiian A. A. U., accompanied Miss Wehselau as chaperon.

Particular interest is attached to the visit of the noted Hawaiian maid, as she is looked upon as one of the few able to threaten the laurels of Miss Ethel Lackie of the Illinois A. C., present holder of the international records for 50 and 100 yards free style.

Miss Wehselau was a close runner-up to Miss Lackie in the Olympic 100-meter championship of 1924 at Paris and in the heats of the title race she hung up an Olympic record of 1:12 1-5. In home waters the Honolulu star has done 50 yards in 0:28 3-5 straightaway, 100 yards in 1:03 in a 75-foot pool and 220 yards in 2:47 over a 30-yard course. A few months ago she defeated Honolulu Miss Eleanor Garratt of San Rafael, Cal., national 50-yard champion, taking her measure at this distance and also at 100 and 220 yards.

Two Yale Freshmen Have Seats Fathers Held As Crew Sets Mark for Early Outdoor Drill

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 20.—The Yale freshman oarsmen set a record today when, for the first time in a decade, they left the George Adee boathouse and took their first outdoor practice on New Haven harbor. Not since the World War have they been able to row in barges before February. But the warm weather of the last week has cleared the river and harbor of ice and allowed the candidates to work two hours under the coaching of George Murphy.

In making up the first freshman eight Murphy placed sons of two of Yale's most famous oarsmen of thirty-five years ago at stroke and No. 6. The exact seats their daddies occupied in 1901 and for three years. Benjamin Brewster of New York City, son of George Brewster, who captained the 1901 crew, had the stroke seat and Ralph D. Paine of Durham, N. H., No. 6. Paine is the son of the novelist who died a year ago. Coach Murphy said tonight that the young men are exceedingly promising oarsmen.

The three boats were made up today as follows:

Bow, Schroeder; No. 2, De Furest; No. 3, Burling; No. 4, Dwinnel; No. 5, Harper; No. 6, Batten; No. 7, Morris; stroke, Wright; coxswain, Hunt.

Miami Golf Match Is Captured by Chase, 6 and 5

CHASE WINS, 6 AND 5, IN MIAMI GOLF PLAY

Medalist Is Out in 33 to Score Brilliant Victory—Ford of New York Scores.

WILFRED OUIMET PUT OUT

Loses to Murray by 2 and 1 After Being Square at 13th—Chase Starts With Eagle.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 20.—Another sparkling round by Lee Chase, former New York State champion, resulted in the defeat of C. A. Roberts of New York in the annual midwinter golf tournament here today. The medal winner triumphed by 6 and 5, turning in a scintillating 33 for the outgoing nine holes.

Joe Ford of the Scottish-American A. C., New York, continued in the tournament by a 3 and 2 victory over H. W. Adelberger of Miami. The big upset of the day was the elimination of Wilfred Ouimet, brother of the former national and amateur champion, by Walter Murray of St. Louis, 2 and 1. Ouimet left many openings, but Murray failed on his approach shots or overputted, and they were all even going to the eleventh. Murray won the next three holes and took the sixteenth and seventeenth with a pair of birdies. He had a card of 40—37.

Chase started his match against Roberts with an eagle 3 on the first hole. He had a birdie 4 on the seventh and a 3 on the eighth, the result of a 15-foot putt. He turned 6 up. He took a 38 coming in, as did Roberts.

The summaries:

British Golf Rivals Meet In Texas After 21 Years

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 20 (AP).—The recent Texas open golf tournament brought together two golfers who had not seen each other since they competed in England twenty-one years ago. Two British youths were engaged then in an eighteen-hole play-off over the Westward Ho! course. They had been reared within a few doors of each other in Liverpool. S. S. Fulford was crowned the winner. Al Hearn congratulated his conqueror and they parted. The winner went into the merchant marine; the loser became a professional. They never saw each other again until last Friday. Fulford had docked his ship at Galveston and came to see the golf event. Hearn, now of Hastings, Neb., was one of those who came here in search of the $6,000 cash prizes.

LYNE'S GOLF RALLY PUTS OUT CHAPMAN

Oakmont Star Is 2 Down at Tenth in Pinehurst Play, but Wins by 2 and 1.

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 20.—R. A. Lyne of Oakmont, former Western Pennsylvania champion, sprang a surprise here today in the second round of the mid-January tournament by eliminating J. D. Chapman of Greenwich, usually unbeatable at Pinehurst. Lyne won by 2 and 1 after being down at the tenth. The Pittsburgh player staged a strong rally on the inward nine, winning the eleventh, twelfth, thirteenth, fifteenth and seventeenth but dropping the fourteenth.

Austin L. Sands of New York, who was a close winner yesterday, was eliminated today by J. Blue of Aberdeen, N. C., by the slender margin of a single putt, 1 up. The scoring was exceptionally good in this match, Blue having a card of 42—36—78, after starting poorly, while Sands had 40—38—78.

Rial E. Rolfe of Chicago, former Western intercollegiate champion, caught J. P. Hotchkiss of New Haven on his worst day of the season, and after getting a lead of only a hole going out, won by 5 and 3. On the ninth Hotchkiss was stymied badly, but playing the ball with one hand, jumped the stymie for a half.

The summaries:

First Division—R. A. Lyne, Oakmont, defeated J. D. Chapman, Greenwich, 2 and 1; H. J. Blue, Aberdeen, N. C., defeated A. L. Sands, New York, 1 up; Rial E. Rolfe, Chicago, defeated J. P. Hotchkiss, New Haven, 5 and 3; Don Parson, Youngstown, defeated Clinton Hall, Garden City, 2 and 1.

Cornell, Wheatley Hills, 2 and 1; Fred Howe, Hamilton, Ont., defeated F. C. Stevens, Siwanoy, 6 and 5; J. V. Jones, Manchester, Vt., defeated Daingerfield Dillingham, Norfolk, Va., 3 and 1.

Third Division—Harry Sudam, Lakewood, defeated C. A. Blackmore, Oakmont, 1 up, twentieth hole; Winthrop Williams, Hot Springs, Va., defeated F. S. MacLaughlin, Jersey City, 1 up; A. S. Higgins, St. Andrews, defeated T. S. P. Randolph, Point Judith, R. I., 5 and 4; Robert Fouts, New Haven, defeated H. P. Hotchkiss, New Haven, 7 and 6.

SCHAEFER DIVIDES, BUT LEADS HOPPE

Wins Afternoon Block by 300-121 in Six Innings, Loses at Night by Score of 300-257.

Although young Jake Schaefer and Willie Hoppe broke even in the blocks played yesterday at Rosenbaum's Fourteenth Street Academy in their 1,800-point 18.2 balkline match, Schaefer leads Hoppe, 857 to 421. Schaefer won the afternoon block, 300 to 121, going out in six innings. Hoppe won at night, 300 to 257, in eight innings. Schaefer made a high run of 91 against a high run of 78, in the afternoon. In the evening Hoppe made a high run of 120, while Schaefer's high run was 118. The last two blocks will be played today.

CANNEFAX ILL; TOUR OFF.

Lung Congestion Forces Cue Star to Go to Arizona for Rest.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20 (AP).—Bob Cannefax, former world's champion three-cushion billiardist, has canceled all his vaudeville bookings and left with his bride of a month for Phoenix, Ariz., for his health. He was advised to go Southwest after a lung congestion developed from a cold. He expects to spend two months in Arizona and later go to California.

OTHER BILLIARD RESULTS.

J. M. Lewis defeated Norbert Hammer in the third and final block of their amateur 18.2 balkline match at the Brooklyn Recreation Academy last night by 300 to 144 in nineteen innings. He averaged 13 5-19 and made a high run of 100. Hammer averaged 7, his best run being 36. The total score was: Lewis 700, Hammer 414.

Charles Hunt defeated Harry Levine, 50 to 40, in 73 innings in a Metropolitan Three-Cushion League match played last night at the Strand Billiard Academy. Hunt had a high run of 3 and Levine one of 4.

William Waldron, John Anderson and Walter Mentzer were the winners last night in the English, another and three-cushion billiard matches, respectively, which were played at Doyle's Academy. Waldron defeated Sandy Stuart, 250 to 150, in 45 innings, making a high run of 90, against a high break of 19 for Stuart.

In the snooker tournament Anderson won from John Hampton, 100 to 86, in two frames. Anderson made a high run of 52, the loser 17. Mentzer scored two victories at three-cushion, defeating Abe Zinneman, 50 to 18, and George Richelman, 25 to 21. The games were a play-off of the tie for first place in the third section.

Joseph Honsch defeated George Spear, 150 to 79, in thirty-four innings in a national class C 18.2 balkline billiard match at Lavier's Brooklyn rooms last night. Honsch made a high run of 32, Spear 13.

Arthur Church defeated Charles Grogan, 100 to 67, in twenty-four innings in a United States Portal Billiard League match played yesterday at the White Plains Billiard Academy. Church made a high run of 41 and Grogan one of 14.

A. S. Hall defeated C. M. Edwards, 39 to 37, in a fifty-eight inning 18.2 three-cushion billiards at Hoppe's Academy last night. The winner made a high run of 3, Edwards one of 2.

Erich Hagenlacher won two 18.2 balkline matches yesterday at Kreiter's Billiard Academy. He defeated Charles McDonald, 500 to 80, in ten innings and Cyril Sloane, 500 to 94, in seven innings. His high runs were 79 and 97.

Paul Jerome defeated L. Arnaud, 75 to 72, in sixteen innings at pocket billiards at Yank Adams's Bronx Academy. Jerome made a high run of 18, Arnaud one of 13.

Oscar Schmied won two matches and C. M. Mansur won in three games of three-cushion billiards played in the championship tournament at the Amateur Billiard Club. Schmied defeated O. F. Malcolm, 50 to 15, and A. J. Wyckoff, 50 to 30. Mansur defeated S. A. Donaldson, 50 to 46.

YANKEES GET ADAMS FROM THE SENATORS

BROWN DEAL CALLED OFF

But Huggins and Sisler Renew Efforts After Ball Cancels One Transaction.

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

In their search for a successor to Aaron Ward, the Yankees turned to the American League champions for aid and yesterday announced that Spencer Adams, young second baseman, has been purchased outright from the Washington Club. In the same breath the Yanks informed the expectant public that the deal with St. Louis, which has been hanging fire these many days, is definitely off. President Ball of the Browns wouldn't agree to the trade, whatever it was.

The acquisition of Adams came unexpectedly, as there has been no intimation of any dickering between the Senators and the local American League club since it was definitely denied there was no foundation to the report that Hoyt would go to the champions. However, young Adams may prove just the man needed to round out the new machine that is to work in the Yankees' infield.

Adams is reputed to be a fine fielder, although it was impossible to get a real line on his work last season as he played in very few games as understudy to Manager Harris. There is a general impression in local circles that the youngster is not much of a hitter, but evidently Manager Harris thought differently during the world's series, when Adams first came into the spotlight of attention.

In the fifth game of the series Harris selected Adams to bat for Marberry in the ninth inning and caused many queries of "Who is he?" among the visiting fans and experts. At the time there were such reputable hitters as Dutch Ruether, Hank Severeid, Walter Johnson and Bobby Veach sitting on the bench, but Harris picked Adams as the most likely man to deliver in the pinch, which is an indication of just how much Bucky thought of the youngster's ability. As it turned out he picked the wrong man, as Adams grounded to Aldridge and was tossed out at first.

Although President Ball has called off the deal which Managers Huggins and Sisler had agreed to, new negotiations have started between the Yankees and the Browns. Manager Huggins, between real estate sales in Florida, found time yesterday to inform the Yankee officos that he has made a new proposition to Sisler and hopes his offer will be accepted.

Evidently the Browns have some one the Yankees would like very much to get. Just who it is remains one of the closest secrets of the Winter. Mcmanus, the second baseman, could be used by Huggins to great advantage. So could Gene Robertson, the Browns' third baseman, but it has been denied from one end or the other that neither of these players is involved in the deal under discussion.

Ban Johnson has notified the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association that he will attend the annual dinner to be given at the Hotel Commodore on Jan. 31. This will be the first of the dinners that Beaming Ban has attended, and with Judge Landis at the same table quite a tension may be created. Mayor Jimmy Walker also will be present.

The list of those who have reserved tickets includes the names of many persons prominent in the affairs of boxing, horse racing and other sports besides baseball. Tickets may still be obtained from William J. Slocum, sports editor of The New York American.

NAVY AND INGRAM CONFER ON COACHING

But All Are Silent After Meeting at Annapolis—Indiana Wants to Keep Him.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 20 (AP).—Official comment was declined tonight concerning the visit here today of William H. (Navy Bill) Ingram, Indiana University football coach. Since Jack Owsley relinquished the football reins at the Naval Academy last Fall various names have been mentioned for the post and "Navy Bill" has been among the number.

Ingram conferred today with members of a Navy Athletic Association Committee, but afterward declined to discuss the meeting. He said he was here on a visit. He is a Naval Academy man, having resigned from the service soon after graduation. His brother, Commander Jonas H. Ingram, now in charge of a destroyer squadron, has been designated Navy Athletic Director and will take over the duties in June.

Not Out at Indiana.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Jan. 20 (AP). In the event William H. Ingram does not come to an agreement with the United States Naval Academy, Indiana University will invite him to return as football coach, E. C. Clevenger, director of athletics at Indiana, today told The Associated Press.

JOINT MEETING HERE FEB. 3.

The adjourned meeting of the Joint Schedule Committee of the major leagues will be held in this city Feb. 3, President John Heydler of the National League announced yesterday, according to The Associated Press.

Mr. Heydler said he had exchanged telegrams with Ban Johnson, President of the American League, and Barney Dreyfuss, President of the Pittsburgh club of the National League, relative to the difficulties which arose at the last meeting and caused an adjournment without completing the playing program, and he believed the difficulties were now eliminated.

Turpin, Montreal, defeated Fearing and Peabody, Boston, 2—15, 15—5, 15—12, 12—15, 17—18, 15—11, 15—4.

HARVARD CLUB WINS 7TH SQUASH MATCH

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	W.	L.		W.	L.
Harvard	7	0	Crescent	3	4
Yale	7	0	Columbia	1	6
Princeton	5	2	Montclair	0	7

The Harvard Club Class A squash tennis team drew a step closer toward winning the metropolitan interclub championship last night when it defeated the Crescent A. C. on the latter's courts in Brooklyn, 6 to 1. This was the seventh successive victory for the Crimson team, which has not been defeated, and it practically clinched first place for Harvard, although both the Yale and Princeton club teams have a chance.

Both the Yale and Princeton clubs won their matches last night and are tied for second place with five victories and two defeats. Yale defeated the Montclair A. C. on the Eli courts, 5 to 2, while Princeton won at the Columbia University Club, 4 to 3. Three matches remain to be played by each team. Harvard meets, in order, Montclair, Princeton and Yale.

Harvard Is Favored.

A victory over Montclair, which is probable, will assure Harvard of at least a tie for first place in the final standing. The leaders are favorites to defeat Princeton and also will have the edge over Yale, present champion, if they have their strongest team available.

Both Yale and Harvard played with a substitute last night. Thomas R. Coward, former national champion, was missing from the ranks of the Elis and Fillmore Van S. Hyde, also a former champion and Coward's rival, was replaced for Harvard. Auguste Cordier, still another former titleholder, played at No. 1 for Yale and defeated B. H. O'Connor of Montclair, 15—18, 15—9, 15—9.

William Rand, national champion, and Charles M. Bull Jr. met in the No. 1 match at the Crescents and the Harvard man won at 15—7, 15—10. Hewitt Morgan of the Harvard club beat E. R. Larigan, 15—6, 15—8. G. G. Davidson won the only victory for the home team, defeating Murray Taylor.

Columbia Match Closest.

The match between Princeton and Columbia was the closest. Not until the seventh match was played was the series decided. Armin W. Riley of Princeton defeated Duncan Bulkley in this contest at 15—6, 15—10.

The summaries:

Harvard Club 6, Crescent A. C. 1.

William Rand Jr., Harvard, defeated Charles M. Bull Jr., 15—7, 15—10; Hewitt Morgan, Harvard, defeated E. R. Larigan, 15—8, 15—6; G. G. Davidson, Crescents, defeated Murray Taylor, 15—7, 15—6; C. H. GAMMACK CRUSHES GOBEL AT SQUASH

Harvard Club Star Yields Only One Point in Class C Title Tourney.

T. H. Gammack, lead-off man on the Harvard Club Class C squash tennis team, gained one of the most decisive victories ever scored in a squash tournament yesterday when he allowed M. Gobel, a player without club affiliations, only a single point in their first round match in the national Class C championship at the New York A. C. The Harvard star was not inclined to be merciful at any time and rushed through two games in hardly more than fifteen minutes, winning at 15—1, 15—0.

The Harvard Club was represented by another winner on the second day of play. H. G. Smith defeated L. J. Patton of the New York A. C., 15—6, 15—0. The Fraternities Club put another man in the second round when S. R. Jandorf defeated George Jones of Columbia at 15—4, 15—4.

Two players from the Gramercy Park Squash Club also advanced, R. L. O'Donnell and J. K. Smith.

The summaries:

First Round—S. F. Mather, Montclair, won from J. L. Davidson, Yale, by default; A. Adams, Crescent, was from W. J. Hammerslough, Yale, by default; S. R. SIXES OF JAMAICA AND CLINTON WIN

Queens Hockey Team Gains Clear Title to P. S. A. L. Lead, Beating Morris, 2 to 0.

OTHER SCORE THE SAME

Boys' High Is Whitewash Victim of Manhattan Players—Both Games Slow.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	Won.	Lost.	Dr.	Pts.
Jamaica H. S.	3	0	0	10
New Utrecht H. S.	4	1	0	8
Erasmus Hall H. S.	4	1	0	8
De Witt Clinton H. S.	3	2	0	6
Morris H. S.	1	4	1	3
Stuyvesant H. S.	0	3	1	1
Boys' H. S.	0	5	0	0

The Jamaica High School hockey team gained undisputed leadership in the Public Schools Athletic League championship tournament and the De Witt Clinton High School septet solidified its hold on fourth place by virtue of victories in two games played at the Ice Palace in Brooklyn last night. Jamaica defeated the Morris High School team, 2 to 0, and Clinton took the measure of the Boys' High School by the same score. Jamaica now has won five games and suffered no defeats and is leading with ten points.

Both of the games played last night were slow exhibitions. Jamaica, clashing with one of the trailing teams in the league, showed no team work but won, due to the individual efforts of Baylis and Decker. Both men tallied in the first period, Baylis on a thirty-foot shot nine minutes after the beginning of the game and Decker from scrimmage two minutes after Baylis had scored.

The two goals that gave Clinton its victory over Boys' were scored in the second period and came from the sticks of Kahn and Freedman. Kahn scored first, from scrimmage, two minutes after the opening of the second half. Freedman's goal was scored five minutes later on a pass from Kahn.

The line-ups:

JAMAICA (3).		MORRIS (0).
Dempsey	L.D.	Friedman
Noland	R.D.	Lipsky
Baylis	C.	Jones
Griffin	L.W.	Zetzel
Decker	R.W.	Lieberman

Goals—Kahn, Freedman.

Substitutions—Clinton: Florian for Cohen. Boys': Junier for Gaston, Whitebook for Klagsbrotz.

Referee—Howard. Time of halves—15 minutes.

HARVARD'S SEXTET DEFEATS WILLIAMS

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 20.—The Williams College hockey team, which recently beat Yale, was unable to repeat against Harvard tonight. Harvard won, 4 to 1. Williams showed a lot of speed and fine combination play, getting a goal in the first period when Popham made a pretty shot on the line following a pass from Smith.

Harvard got a goal in the second period, the tying count being made by Hamlin following Coady's pass from the boards. Harvard went ahead 2 to 1, then when Zarakov covered a pass from Harding and whipped the puck into Williams's cage. Before the bell, Scott got the puck on a face-off at the middle of the rink and raced up to get in a shot.

The only goal in the third period was that scored by Zarakov for Harvard on a rebound from a shot by Scott.

In the other game on the evening's double card the Boston University sextet proved too fast and clever for Bowdoin and shut the Maine team out by a score of 6 to 0.

The Harvard-Williams line-up:

HARVARD (4).		WILLIAMS (1).
Cummings	G.	Chapman
Coady		Home
Clark		Baker
Scott	C.	Watkins
Zarakov	W.	Popham
Harding		Smith

Goals—Harvard: Zarakov (2), Scott, Hamlin. Williams: Popham.

Substitutions—Harvard: Pratt for Clark, Olsen for Scott, Carson for Harding, Clark for Coady, Hamlin for Bartlett, Durant for Olsen, Coady for Clark, Zarakov for Hamlin. Williams: Austin for Watkins, Watkins for Baker.

Referee—Sinnott and Foote. Goal umpires—Gesell and Neulte. Time of periods—Two of 15 minutes; one of 20 minutes.

ST. NICKS BEAT PRINCETON.

Hockey Club Repeats Former Feat, Rallying to Win, 5-4.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 20.—Princeton suffered its second defeat of the season at the hands of the St. Nicholas hockey team in Baker Rink here tonight, losing by the count of 5 to 4. After a scoreless opening period seven goals were scored in the second frame, giving Princeton a 4 to 3 lead.

The Tiger defense crumbled in the last period, however, the visiting skaters making five goals. Bulkley and Cushman, the visiting wings, divided scoring honors with three goals each.

The line-up:

ST. NICHOLAS (5).		PRINCETON (4).
Heidlinger	G.	Colgrove
Reid		Bulkley
Farrugan		Wilkinson
Baldwin	C.	Harding
Cushman		Davis
Bulkley		Pitman

THE PLAY

By A. BROOKS ATKINSON.

Sara Berman	Pola Carter
Louis Berman	Harry Lyons
Pete Berman	Emily Rome
Jacob Berman	Lew Fields
Saul Madorsky	Luther Adler
George Braun	Walter Kingsford
Joe Gerber,
per se	William Riedell
Lyon	Alois France
Grady	Arthur Wood

"Such a play what was" at the National Theatre last evening with Lew Fields bearing the comic man's burden through three more or less serviceable acts. The "Money Business" referred to in the title is that familiar case of stocks, bonds and securities; and the story is the familiar one likewise of a Jewish family ascending from a homogeneous east side to a luxurious Central Park West where the society drill regulations give life new terrors. As vehicle for the drolleries, grimaces and threatening sallies of Mr. Fields it serves its purpose fairly well. Low comedy trickles throughout; the honest young laundryman, whose sweetheart was nearly palmed off on a sleek young crook, found his just reward, like Dick Withington, at the end of his journey.

In the interest of dignity, perhaps, "Money Business" is described on the program as "human comedy." As played by Mr. Fields and his associates, however, it is rather farce or burlesque; or as far as the plot is concerned, musical comedy with the melody omitted. At the age of 59, if "Who's Who" may be trusted for scanty details, Mr. Fields has lost none of his comic bravura. In a limited wardrobe that gives him only the choice between belt and suspenders, in an exotic Sunshine Kingdom dressing gown or in the full swallow-tail of Central Park West, he wears the low comedy racial slouch, talks with his hands, threatens the obese butler, despairs of his wife, fondles his daughter, and once dances sprightly to a racial tune. There are gibes about the gentile population of Far Rockaway. There are puns about "the cleanings of the laundry business." There are quick retorts that belittle his wife's business acumen. Vouching for the honesty of George Braun, this rough-voiced wife exclaims: "I would trust him with my life." "Tuh," Mr. Fields retorts, with menacing intensity, "but would you trust him with anything valuable?"

To keep the piece in harmonious key, "Money Business" is drenched in Jewish atmosphere of the lower east side; even the chromo of Honest Abe raises again the question of Lincoln's ancestry. And whenever Sara Berman is on the stage the polyeuctic properties of "Money Business" awake the echoes of the broad National Theatre. For this corpulent wife, ironing, washing, addressing the janitor, serving breakfast or belaboring her husband keeps the household wrangling obstreperously. Shall Louis Berman, recently of the delicatessen business, invest his remaining $3,000 in the chain-laundry of Sam Madorsky, or shall he go into partnership with George Braun in Wall Street, in a business that needs no goods? Circumstances force the bewildered Berman into Wall Street. Circumstances no less bewildering make him suddenly wealthy. Other circumstances prove George Braun a scoundrel, drag Berman into court, clear him of personal criminal intent, deliver him safely home and convince him that there is more happiness on the familiar east side than in the ornate Central Park West. And that is your comedy.

In the meantime the old humors emerge with their old, easily recognized flavor. The bursts of temperament on the east side, the despair of getting the money back, the horrors of a Wall Street panic ("Not content with a panic," says Berman, reading the paper, "they must have a catastrophe"), to clogged salt shaker, the dwindling take of ice, as all here according to Hiram. And on Central Park West the stiff butler, reducing exercises, painful effects of the saddle, snobberies of the concealed telephone and all of that kindred emerge at proper intervals. Mr. Fields makes pantomime enrich burlesque; he seldom strikes twice in the same place. We have too few of his school on the stage. Although Pola Carter, playing the part of Mrs. Berman, overacts, overshouts and in consequence makes the piece frequently wearisome, the actors generally fill in the background agreeably. And the butler, a relic of the old rococo architecture, is funny without speaking a word.

OYSTER CRAFT IN MOVIES.

Ancient Schooners Bought for Use in Picture 'Old Ironsides'

Special to The New York Times.

SALISBURY, Md., Jan. 20.—Old-time picturesque "bugeyes" and schooners of the Chesapeake Bay oyster fleet, running true to type after a century of alterations in marine architecture elsewhere, have been purchased by Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, to be immortalized in a historic motion picture, "Old Ironsides," centring about the famous man-o'war that inspired Longfellow.

Fourteen of the craft have been selected by film experts who visited Crisfield, Cambridge and Solomon's Island, after looking in vain elsewhere.

Crews are being enlisted to sail the fleet through the Panama Canal to the West coast, where the "War With Tripoli" will be made the feature of the production. Some of the craft will be transported by steamship.

'The Great Gatsby' Here on Feb. 1.

"The Great Gatsby," Owen Davis's dramatization of F. Scott Fitzgerald's novel, will be presented at the Ambassador Theatre the week of Feb. 1 by William A. Brady. The cast will be headed by James Rennie, Florence Eldridge and Catherine Willard and will also include Charles Dickson, one of the authors of "Three Twins." Mr. Dickson is returning to the stage in this play after an absence of many years.

"Miracle" Has Deficit in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 20 (AP).—St. Louis guarantors of "The Miracle" have been called upon to advance $20,800 to cover an expected deficit. It became known today. The latter has opened here 24 and was to have closed tonight, but performances on last Friday and Saturday were arranged to reduce the deficit, estimated as $20,000.

MUSIC NOTES.

Following yesterday's appearance of "Lydia Lopokova" the season's Artists at Home series will give nine more of "Carmenetta and the Soldier," with rotating casts presenting three different Carmenettas and three Don Josés.

Major Gen. Summerall, Walter Damrosch and E. H. Jacobus, President of the Music Industries Chamber of Commerce, will speak at tonight's dinner of the Piano Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association at the McAlpin.

Ernest von Dohnanyi gives his third and last piano recital in the new Chickering Hall in West Fifty-seventh Street this evening.

Assemblies of Allen-A, Colin Ordway and Wallace Gilmesting are the artists at the morrow's Biltmore morning musicales.

Graham McNamee, tenor, with the Lambardo Male Quartet and Gennaro's Orchestra, will appear Saturday night at Mecca Temple.

'THE DREAM PLAY' NOT IN A KEY OF REALITY

Provincetown Produces Strindberg's Drama, a Restless Inquiry Into the Meaning of Life.

THE DREAM PLAY, a play in a prologue, three acts and an epilogue, from the German of August Strindberg, translated by Edwin Björkman. Directed by James Light. Settings by Olson Throckmorton. Produced by the Provincetown Players, At the Provincetown Playhouse.

The Voice of Indra	Henry O'Neill
The Daughter	Mary Fowler
The Glazier	Henry Hockler
The Officer	Stanley Howlett
The Mother	Agnes McCarthy
The Father	Charles Fleming
Lota	Barbara Benedict
The Fortress	Alice Bostelter
The Billposter	Emmet O'Reilly
The Singer	Gertrude Maurin
Victoria	Martha Lee Manners
The Ballet Girl	Dorothy Payne
Male Chorus Singer	Henry Hatch
The Promoter	Hilding Cordes
A Policeman	John Moran
The Lawyer	Henry Mortimer
Christina	Polly Craig
Master of Quarantine	Harold Hodes
Don Juan	Joseph Theyer
The Poet	Robert Lynn
	Vernon Rich
The Fencing Master	Milton J. Bard
Plain Edith	Mildred McCoy
A Girl	Hazel Mason
A Naval Officer	Walter Kumme
First Coalheaver	Janice Martin
A Lady	Roberta Pettit

The frankly experimental Provincetown turned last night to August Strindberg's "The Dream Play," not hitherto acted in this country. James Light, in a program note on the play, feels that it reveals Strindberg in the light of impartial observer of life—leaning neither to the right nor the left, to optimism nor pessimism. One who followed its many scenes as intently as the Provincetown benches permit must, however, bring in a contrary report. It is a dramatization of the theory that every silver lining has a cloud.

It is a mealstrom of discontent, a restless, tossing inquiry into the meaning of life. In a disconnected succession of scenes—a dramatic form made possible by the fact that the play is not written in a key of reality—Strindberg insists that a tortured soul dwells within even the most placid of us. We suffer for the mistakes of others and they suffer for ours. Life is replete with longings unfulfilled and there is no bitterness so great as their fulfillment; men and women and marriage and justice and every concrete and abstract thing of life are a snare and a delusion. Including, by the author's own reasoning, last night's play.

The audience was sufficiently respectful, even through scenes that affected to mean a great deal more than they did, but now and then one could hear a resisive voice raised in bewildered inquiry. The truth is that "The Dream Play" does not go particularly deep, even though it is the work of August Strindberg.

The Provincetown has produced it as well as its facilities afford, although with unnecessarily audible scenery. The performance is chiefly distinguished by the presence of Mary Fowler, who has been only scantly in evidence hereabouts since the Guild produced "The Tidings Brought to Mary." Something should be done about it.

'DIE WALKURE' SUNG AGAIN.

Whitehill, Taucher, Miss Easton and Mme. Larsen-Todsen in Cast.

Wagner's "Die Walkure," which will be the first of the "Ring" operas by a long margin to pass its half-century mark in New York a year from next April, was sung for the second time in a fortnight at the Metropolitan last evening. Michael Bohnen, who was to have made his re-entrance for the season, was not able to appear. Clarence Whitehill took his familiar place as Wotan, while Curt Taucher also survived as Siegmund, a rôle in which the heroic German tenor gave one of his best performances.

High gods and humans, however, were all new on the "distaff" side. The return of many women singers of the Wagnerian repertory at mid-season brought Miss Easton as the manly Sieglind in the first scene, Miss Brancell as a powerful goddess, Fricka, jealous wife to Wotan, in the second, and Mme. Larsen-Todsen as the opera's ultimate heroine, Brünnhilde, bearer of death summons to heroes. Mr. Gustafson sang Hunding and Mr. Bodanzky conducted the glorious score embodying some of the best of Norse legendary poetry.

One more of next week's operas was posted last night, and one of personal interest. Mary Lewis, the former Follies actress, makes her Metropolitan Opera début a week from this afternoon as Mimi in "La Bohème," with Miss Kandt, Messrs. Johnson and Scotti.

BRITAIN DROPS FILM QUOTA.

Abandons Legislation Which Would Have Curbed American Sales.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—The British Government has abandoned its plan to require British motion picture properties to show quota British films. This means that legislation which would have seriously restricted the sale of American films in this country will not be proceeded with.

Blockbooking of films, however, is to be prohibited by law. American films will have to be shown to the trade in this country and separately purchased, the idea being to prevent exhibitors from filling their programs months ahead with complete quotas of foreign pictures, leaving no room for British films.

The Government dropped the compulsory quota scheme because it was convinced by the trade that it would not affect the object for which it was devised. Other steps, however, probably will be taken to encourage the production of British films.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"The Makropoulos Secret" will open at the Charles Hopkins Theatre tonight.

A. L. Erlanger has leased the Palace Theatre in Chicago. It was until recently a vaudeville house, but will be operated as a legitimate theatre by Mr. Erlanger.

"Claudia," next at the Cort Theatre last August, will begin an engagement at Daly's Sixty-third Street Theatre next Tuesday night. Louise Carter will again head the cast.

Charles K. Harris, the composer, will be on the bill at the Hippodrome next week.

The cast of "Suzanne," which will open at the Windsor Theatre next week and is the work of Cohen, Lyle Swain and Ray Goetz, includes Phyllis Cleveland, Dodson Mitchell, Frank Lalor and Vreeda and Warren.

"The Ten Commandments," by Margaret Mayo and Aaron Hoffman, has been acquired by Walter Lawrence for early production.

"Mirrored," by John Howard Lawrence, author of "Processional," will be placed in rehearsal today by the firm of Noble, Ryan and Lyle. It will come to Maxine Elliott's the week of Feb. 15.

"Passion and Marriage," by Vivian Worthe, author of "The Goat Song," has been acquired by the Theatre Guild.

Heinrich Kalman's operetta, "Ein Herbstmanover," will be produced in German at the Irving Place Theatre tonight.

NEW FACES IN SHAW PLAY.

Miss Alexander and Tom Powers Excel in 'Arms and the Man.'

The strategic shift of the Theatre Guild's forces which removed from the cast of "Arms and the Man" at the Garrick for duty in the impending (and portentous) "Goat Song" at the Guild's own house both Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne was accomplished with no injury whatever to the performance of the Shaw comedy. Indeed, at her first appearance last night in the part of Raina, Katherine Alexander gave to the heiress of the noble Petkoffs a quality which Miss Fontanne never gave it.

Especially she provided Raina with the thrilling voice which is called for by the dramatist's specifications, but there was something else—not onlybut that has been true from the beginning, but warmth and youth, and a touch of the wild, raw filly that the Bulgarian girl had every right to have about her, even in a Shavian embodiment. It was as good a job of high-spirited, broad comedy that it was rather thrilling—like the voice.

Tom Powers as Bluntschli also gave an excellent performance in which, while he did not depart altogether from Lunt's general method, he added something of his own—a lighter or it may have been only a less obviously studied manner.

The whole piece as it has developed is now played with a boldness and dash which were lacking in the beginning, and the new members of the cast, like Leslie Hunter, who some weeks ago replaced Pedro De Cordoba as Saranoff, are in admirable key with the rest. The fact is nobody is any longer afraid to be as funny as the author meant everybody to be. Louka is still a jarring note, which she ought to be the richest tone in the harmony—but that has been true from the beginning. It is the same Louka. Henry Travers as Nicola gets more and more mellow and incitous.

TO AID CHRISTADORA HOUSE.

Cabaret and Ball Will Be Given Next Saturday Night.

Interesting features will be introduced in the cabaret of the Christadora Ball at the Ritz-Carlton on Saturday night. The proceeds of the ball will aid the Christadora House Settlement at 147 Avenue B. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James will give a dinner at their home, 23 East Sixty-ninth Street, before the ball. The dance committee is headed by Miss Marian Gray, Miss Katherine Steele and Miss Elizabeth Woodward. Ted Trevor and Dina Harris will give specialty dances while supper is being served. There also will be violin solos by Max Fischel.

PHYLLIS ARCHIBALD SINGS.

Mezzo-Contralto at Her Best in a Group of English Songs.

Phyllis Archibald, English mezzo-contralto, who appeared with the New York Symphony Orchestra in "The Children of Bethlehem," gave a song recital at Aeolian Hall last evening. Miss Archibald has a resonant voice full of beautiful tones, but yesterday she seemed not to be in full control. In passing it may be remarked that four rather heavy songs of the religious type is a first group are a strain on the singer and that American concert audiences do not respond to them as readily as English ones.

Miss Archibald sang her German lieder with better results than her group in French, principally a matter of diction. When she came back to her English, she was more herself. "Thee," words and music by Fleecie Farr Gow, was dedicated to the recitalist, and Richard Hageman, who also accompanied, was represented on the program by "Christ Went Up Into the Hills."

DEBUT BY C. SOLOMON.

Young English Pianist Gives a Pleasing Program at Town Hall.

C. Solomon, a young English pianist, made his American debut at Town Hall last evening. His program followed the orthodox lines, beginning with Bach-Liszt's organ prelude and Fugue and continuing with the "Appassionata." Enough was heard of the Sonata to discover that he had an ample technic, a fullness and richness in his tones and a smooth and rounded style, that, nevertheless, was not lacking in force.

Mr. Solomon made himself respected and understood in Chopin's B minor Sonata. Here was nothing spectacular or eccentric, but an easy, graceful mastery of the composition. He at times may have been more concerned with the externals than with the spirit, for the attention seemed concentrated on the mechanism, but, while not dazzling, he gave his public a more than acceptable performance.

George C. Tyler to Be Operated On.

George C. Tyler, the theatrical producer, will undergo an abdominal operation at Roosevelt Hospital this morning. The operation will be performed by Dr. J. Bentley Squier.

THE MEXICAN REPLY.

The statement by the Foreign Secretary of Mexico, given out at the Mexican Embassy in Washington, doubtless contains the substance of the answer which will be officially made to our State Department. Secretary KELLOGG is understood to have presented to the Mexican Government, through Ambassador SHEFFIELD, certain protests, or inquiries, respecting pending legislation in Mexico which might impair the rights of American citizens. It is to those questions that the Foreign Secretary, Señor SAENZ, addresses himself in the long document made public in Washington. If this procedure looks somewhat like a diplomatic irregularity, it must not be forgotten that our State Department began that sort of thing. The main concern relates to the facts and the law.

Mexico has usually been able to command the services of able men—or at least of clever men—in the argumentative conduct of her foreign relations. Mexican Secretaries of Foreign Affairs are ordinarily trained and skillful lawyers, good at debating, alert at picking holes in the case of another nation, adroit and ready in controversy, provided with all the appearance of learning, and always prepared to maintain in a lofty spirit the rights and dignity of Mexico as a sovereign Power. In disputes with the United States Government during the past twelve or fifteen years, the Foreign Office of Mexico has not come off second-best in point of logic and force of reasoning. This is not to say that Mexican Foreign Secretaries have always had the highest kind of diplomatic ability; been capable of taking up international troubles in a large spirit, looking before and after; been less inclined to "score" off an antagonist than to seek a broad and enduring settlement of the questions at issue. But no one can read the Saenz statement without perceiving that its author is a diplomat who has a supple wrist in his fencing with our Department of State.

It is not necessary to follow him into his historical citations or comments on the fundamental principles of international law. We are bound to concede that Mexico is mistress in her own house, provided she does not unlawfully throw Americans out of the door or the window. She is entitled to draft her own land legislation. It is within her unquestioned right to provide that hereafter aliens shall not acquire real estate in certain areas. The only point in dispute between the United States and Mexico relates to the effect of the Mexican Constitution of 1917, and of the laws in execution thereof, upon the vested rights previously acquired by American citizens or American corporations in Mexico. On these topics Foreign Secretary SAENZ speaks directly and positively, with assurances given which, if they are well founded, ought to be satisfactory. He denies that the legislation which has been challenged is retroactive. He also denies that in its operation it could ever be confiscatory. In all this there are several technical points upon which only lawyers familiar with the jurisprudence and court practice of Mexico could pass with authority. But there is no mistaking the fact that, on its face, the Saenz document is conciliatory, while firm in upholding Mexico's undoubted rights, and answers categorically and to the point the questions which have been raised by our Government.

Both in Mexico City and in Washington the impression prevails that a peaceful adjustment of the misunderstanding will be reached at an early date. There ought to be no real difficulty about this. Neither country wishes to quarrel with the other, or has any advantage to gain through diplomatic tension. With self-interest on either side pointing to a friendly arrangement, the good-will necessary to bring it about should not be lacking. For our part we do not believe that it will be.

A HEMISPHERE'S HEALTH.

The call of a Pan-American Red Cross conference to take concerted steps for combating disease, raising health standards and making provision for relief in case of major disasters, such as earthquakes, has a sort of Monroe Doctrine suggestion. It is a notice to pathogenic germs in other regions of the earth that they will not be permitted to colonize in any portion of this hemisphere. Not long ago it was reported that there were almost no yellow fever cases in the two continents which together make this Western Hemisphere, and none outside of Mexico and a restricted area in Brazil. But the fight, directed largely by the International Health Board, is going on to banish the disease entirely from this side of the Atlantic. The health defensive strategy is now to be directed in like manner against malaria, the hookworm disease and other enemies of the human body. The extermination of malaria is now declared to be within human power—all that is needed is the extension of the effort. The appearance of these deleterious bacilli in any area of these vast continents or in the islands which lie between or around them will be considered as dangerous to the peace and safety of all; and even if these parasites carry on their bacterial ravages in regions as remote as Terra del Fuego, they will be considered manifestations of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States.

It is not simply a defensive policy that is proposed. There is to be an offensive program in behalf of better health from one polar region across the temperate zones, the subtropics and the tropics to the other. There is to be an extension of popular health instruction and school hygiene, of provision for the right nourishment and care of children, of early preventive measures, which are in the nature of offensive rather than defensive health warfare, and so on. When all the States from Canada to Argentina are engaged in such active effort to raise the health standards of the entire Western world, as they are now invited to join in doing by the League of Red Cross Societies, it will result in making this a safer hemisphere in which to live and to pursue democratic happiness, if only the perils of injury or death by gunmen and automobiles are not augmented in like ratio with the diminution of these pestiferous natural parasites.

GOVERNOR MOORE'S PROPOSALS.

A Democratic Governor in New Jersey, surrounded by members of the Legislature who are nearly all Republicans, delivers his inaugural address with no illusions. It will not only be the turn of the Legislature next, but, unless the majority rebels against partisan leadership and considers only the interests of the people, the Governor will have a lonely and futile time of it in trying to carry out the pledges he made to the voters who elected him. The people of New Jersey have now sent three Democratic Governors to Trenton in succession, but given them Legislatures overwhelmingly Republican. Practically nothing of a constructive nature was accomplished by Governor EDWARDS or Governor SILZER, and they were generally nothing more than figureheads. Judge SILZER, who has just retired, was a sound lawyer, patriotic, and a credit to his native State, whose welfare he had at heart; but except in persuading a reluctant Senate to confirm some of his appointments, he was invariably thwarted by the Legislature. On Tuesday A. HARRY MOORE of Hudson County became Governor. In his inaugural address he made this appeal:

> Let me remind you that, being neither children nor gods, but men and women, we should lay aside every weight and hindrance unselfishly and acquit ourselves like big, broad-minded men and women, to the glory of our State and to the advancement of the best interests of its people.

There will have to be a complete change of heart among the Republicans if they fall in with the recommendations that followed and hold up the hands of the Democratic Governor when he is in the right. It cannot be said that all of Governor MOORE'S proposals are wise or practicable; on the other hand, he presented some ideas that might well have the consideration of a hostile Legislature. Fifty or sixty laws would be enough, he declared, to carry out the pledges of the party platforms, and about as many more would suffice for other desirable legislation. The new Governor urged consolidation of departments to save money; reduction of the tax burden by abolishing the State road tax of $1 per $1,000 ratables, which has provided a large surplus; also doing away with the special State institutional tax of 50 cents per $1,000 ratables. "No matter "how honest or efficient a public "body may be," said the Governor, "the existence of money in its treas-"ury is a constant and irresistible "temptation to spend it." He was opposed to any excessive direct tax, inclining to the pay-as-you-go system.

It was no doubt a fetching notion that "a Government which allows "its people to freeze demonstrates its "failure as a people's Government," but when the incoming Governor proposed a Pennsylvania-New Jersey-New York commission to acquire coal lands and build a railroad to carry coal to tidewater in New Jersey, he must have forgotten that in the early part of his address he had inveighed against invasion of State rights by the Federal Government. His plan for ending the coal monopoly and preventing strikes is impracticable. Pennsylvania feels fully able to attend to her own business. The New Jersey Governor had scarcely solved the fuel problem in his naïve way when the House Committee on Mines at Harrisburg shelved Governor PINCHOT'S bill to make anthracite a public utility and reported with "a negative recommendation" a measure providing for State compacts.

Governor MOORE, with the bill of Senator STEPHENS in mind providing for the nomination of Governors and United States Senators in State conventions, made a plea for the retention of primary nominations. A successful appeal might be made to the people of New Jersey to defeat what is evidently Republican organization policy. And it is quite likely that Mr. MOORE will have the people with him in opposing elections of Governors and United States Senators on the day the President is chosen.

SMILES AND FOOT-TRACKS.

In the Senate on Monday there was solemn discussion of the question whether the opponents of the World Court are conducting a filibuster. Senator BORAH had failed to observe any signs and insisted that the debate must be "legitimate." This, however, did not allay the horrid doubts of Senator HEFLIN, who said: "I do not know, "Mr. President, but that I have seen "some foot-tracks of a filibuster in "this body. I believe I have." The Alabama Senator's earnest effort to trail this monster to its lair led to a little hilarity. Senator BORAH remarked: "I trust the Senator from "Alabama observed the very broad "smile mantling the face of the Vice "President." Apparently, General DAWES knew a filibuster when he saw one. Whatever pleasure he took in the sight was due to the Senate's being kind enough to demonstrate for his benefit the truth of his charge that it was often at the mercy of an unyielding and tyrannical minority. After Senator BLEASE had consumed several hours reading WASHINGTON'S Farewell Address and a lot of his own old speeches in South Carolina, even the cautious and legal-minded Senator WALSH went so far as to say that he thought he detected "signs" of a filibuster. This is like discovering that it is raining after it has been pouring for four days.

Senator BLEASE made no bones about admitting what was going on. He frankly said:

> Mr. President, something has been said about a filibuster. I do not know that I exactly understand what that word means, but if filibuster means to speak, or filibuster means to vote, I want to say right now that I would to God I had the power to stand here without eating a bite or taking a drink or sleeping a wink until 12 o'clock on the fourth day of March, 1931, if it would keep this iniquitous, infernal machine from being put on the people of America. If you call that a filibuster, then I am guilty.

The facts are plain to all but the wilfully blind. Without any real concealment the enemies of the World Court are resolved to defer a vote on it to the last possible day. Meanwhile, they hope to break down the patience or the will of the majority. If they can do some kind of political bargaining which will result in putting over the World Court resolution until the next session of Congress, they will not hesitate to do it. Denouncing "propaganda" in favor of the Court, they are setting up against it the biggest kind of propaganda which they can command. Whether they succeed in their avowed intent or not, they will have succeeded in one thing. It is in proving that the Senate of the United States is the sole great legislative body in the world which voluntarily permits itself to be tyrannized over by a small minority of its members. Had such a yoke been imposed upon the Senate from without, heroic Senators would have died in their tracks rather than submit to it. As it is, we see the very Senators who attack the League of Nations and the World Court as a dangerous and deadly tyranny setting up one of their own in the Senate even more indefensible and odious.

THE NEW GERMAN CABINET.

President von HINDENBURG'S admonition to the Reichstag leaders to get busy with their Cabinet building produced immediate results. His intervention was all the more effective because the obstacles responsible for the six weeks' crisis were of a frivolous partisan and personal nature. The general character of Chancellor LUTHER'S new Cabinet was predestined. With the Nationalists in opposition, with the Socialists refusing to participate in a coalition, it fell upon the "middle" parties to carry on. Their numerical strength is only about one-third of the Reichstag, but the benevolent neutrality of 120 Socialists assures the new Ministry a good majority on all questions of foreign affairs. In this field the policy maintained under half a dozen Ministries will be continued. The Cabinet contains three former Chancellors, including Herr LUTHER, and in the Ministry of Defense it retains Herr GESSLER, whose services in this strategic post seem to be considered indispensable.

The refusal of the Socialists to enter a grand coalition is in one way symptomatic of Germany's steady return to normal. The external emergencies which repeatedly demanded cooperation by all elements of progress and peace have been surmounted as a result of the Dawes plan, Locarno and the preparations for Germany's entrance into the League of Nations. Internal emergencies connected with defense of the republic against reaction do not threaten seriously. Fears aroused by the election of von HINDENBURG to the Presidency have not been justified. Discontent with him is more rife in the ranks of the Nationalists who voted for him than among the Republican coalitionists who stood behind Herr MARX. The Socialists now feel themselves at liberty to concentrate on their historic party interests. The question of unemployment is acute, and that is only one phase in the general economic readjustment following upon financial stabilization. German industry is speeding back from the popular fad of the inflation period—the famous "vertical trust"—to older and sounder methods of doing business. This means a new set of problems affecting capital and labor, with the Socialists on the firing line for the latter.

Roughly speaking, the Reichstag now stands divided into three equal parts, of which only one is under the command of Chancellor LUTHER. His task is to win the support of one of the two other divisions, according to his needs. On foreign policy he can safely count upon the support of the Socialist bloc. In domestic affairs he is not unlikely to draw support from the Nationalists. It is not a permanently secure arrangement, but to the extent that he has only three main units to deal with, the German Chancellor is much better off than the atomic combinations with which M. BRIAND in France must concern himself.

LONG ISLAND PARK PLANNING.

While the Long Island State Park Commission has been pushing forward with its program against great obstacles, the Regional Plan o New York and Its Environs has been studying the same problem in a more leisurely manner and has arrived at conclusions surprisingly similar. In a bulletin issued yesterday, the second of a series, it surveys possible new bathing beaches with particular reference to meeting the needs of both local residents and excursionists from the city. It quotes with approval the opinion of Mr. CHARLES DOWNING LAY, rendered to the Nassau County Committee, that a popular resort on Jones's Beach is "the most impor-"tant single undertaking to which "the Long Island State Park Com-"mission can turn its attention."

Situated within twenty-five miles of Jamaica station, the beach is many miles in length and affords bathing facilities equal to those of Coney Island and Long Beach. In one way the facilities are superior. When the ocean is too cold or too rough, the bay side of the sandspit affords smooth water several degrees warmer. At present inaccessible and almost wholly undeveloped, the beach may be reached by a causeway over the marshes three or four miles long, which would be no more expensive to build than the neighboring causeway to Long Beach. The excursionists who go twenty-five miles out are calculated to be three times as numerous as those who go fifty miles out, and with no attractive a beach and picnic ground at their command the proportion would be greatly increased. Says the bulletin:

> An adequate free public park at this location would relieve a large area to the north and east of the pressure of the excursionists who now keep on past Hempstead and Amityville for lack of any place to stop, and who, in the process, jam the highways, litter the roadsides and overwhelm the small local bathing places.

A footnote records that after this passage was written the State Park Commission came to an agreement with the towns of Hempstead and Oyster Bay to proceed together in creating a park on the town-owned lands in question. Residents of Long Island now perceive that cooperation with the city and the State affords not only the most effective but the cheapest means of protecting themselves against holiday invasion.

One of the illustrations with which the bulletin abounds is a lofty airplane view of the wooded creek bottom of East Meadow Brook, stretching from the centre of the island to Freeport, where the proposed Jones's Beach Causeway begins. Low-lying and often marshy, the ground has been neglected; yet it is capable of a development similar to that of the Bronx River bottom. The State Park Commission has proposed that it be made part of a cross-island parkway giving easy and pleasant access to Jones's Beach from all the northern arteries of traffic. There are several of these north-and-south water courses which lend themselves to landscape and park development. Especially interesting is the suggestion of the Regional Plan that certain tax-forfeited lands in Suffolk be acquired by the State. For many years they have been a serious burden to the county. Massachusetts thus picked up 70,000 acres of her 94,000 acres of State reservations at $5 an acre or less. The land boom on Long Island presents obstacles to park development; but by concentrating upon regions to which there is at present no easy access—town-owned beaches and tax-forfeited farms—it is still possible to make adequate provision for the future.

DRINKWATER ON AMERICA.

Mr. JOHN DRINKWATER, who has lectured among us—a standard English habit—now lectures us in England. He sugars the dose. American life is "vivid." Is it? How does it compare with life in Calabria or Sicily, for example? It is "sparkling with a natural wit." Have the Irish Jarvies come over here? But it is standardized. This is a standardized complaint. An impossible census can be taken with as much advantage in the smoking room of a steamer as anywhere. Mr. DRINKWATER kindly counts 5,000,000 Americans unstandardized of mental habit; "a sufficiently imposing aristocracy of mind." We should say so. An ochlocracy of mind. He is a little careless about figures; and our loudest "intellectuals" are as obstinately and completely standardized in their little gangs as the great mass whose mental ovinity he deplores.

Yet, three times out of four, an American life is a "romance." The Romance of a Poor Young Man, presumably, not unknown in other countries. Is it irrelevant to recall that Mr. DRINKWATER is thoroughly standardized himself? He has described LINCOLN, who is indebted to him for a play, as "a perfect statesman, a perfect man." As a critic, he sticks to the standard poets. As a writer of verse, he is rich in the old poetic "properties," "daffodils," "violets," "thrushes." He has put several standard "romantic" figures into plays or books. It is only the American experiment of prohibition that indicates a greater tendency to standardize mental habit and moral practice than most other nations have exhibited. The United States is not alone in that attempt. Its fate testifies to the American enthusiasm for uniformity.

There are all sorts of people here as elsewhere. Fundamentalists, Modernists, agnostics, devotees of new religions; primitive animists, necromancers, consulters of pythonesses—a numerous tribe in Great Britain; theosophists, believers in the instant millennium; in witchcraft, in astrology; in a flat earth; in a thousand charlatan physical and mental cures. The diversity of our political and economic beliefs, recurring all the way from Moses to Debs and further, is too familiar to be mentioned without apology. There is an interminable list of organizations and societies that regard this, that and the other as the one thing needful. The waste baskets of newspaperdom sag with the prospectuses of virtue. Perhaps no other country is so rich in those extreme individualists, "cranks." Journals, magazines and books sell by the hundred thousand, by the million sometimes, that most of us never read. Indeed, sometimes we haven't even heard their names.

Our immense foreign colonies, our foreign language newspapers, our regional and even local dialects, habits, peculiarities, our heterogeneous population, the contrast and conflict of ideas and traditions, our great reaches of land and water, make this the most nonconforming of countries. We invite Mr. DRINKWATER'S notice to the host of persons forever bustling to "Americanize" the Americans. Finally, if a trivial and mean personal reflection be permitted, does it become an author in the land of everlasting Brussels sprouts and tarts to accuse America of drab uniformity?

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Times Hard for Bad Policemen.

Commissioner McLAUGHLIN'S sudden appearance at a police trial, with the stern and effective action he took there, as well as his announcement of what under him is to be the policy as to policemen who misconduct themselves, will confirm the general impression that he is the right man in the position for which Mayor WALKER selected him. One could wish for indications that he will be able to stop the robberies at the point of the pistol that have become so common in recent years. Unfortunately, he seems as yet to be as nearly helpless as was his predecessor as regards the solution of that particular, and particularly difficult, problem.

Outrageous and alarming crimes are going on with a frequency that seems to show that the bandits are as little afraid of him as they were of Commissioner ENRIGHT. Time may tell another story, however, and everything that Commissioner McLAUGHLIN has done so far is well calculated to increase the efficiency of the police force in every respect.

With drunken policemen he will have no patience. Out they will go, as they should, for while it is bad enough for any man to get drunk, the policeman who does it is a great public danger. Of course, it is not expected that policemen shall be perfect. They are human, like the rest of us. Discharge should not be the penalty of every offense, and the new Commissioner has no such intention. He says, however, that the police force is not a reformatory body—that all of the men in it must be fit to carry their responsibilities and perform their duties all the time.

Six thousand police trials a year, he declares, are far too many, and he purposes to free those trials of the large amount of false swearing that always has characterized them, the result of a tendency of the men to stand by each other. It will be hard to make them see that it is character, not reputation, that counts, and that the worst thing to do with a police scandal is to smooth it over and cover it up.

He Says He Won't Be Good Again.

Interesting and significant was the experience described in the letter from EDWARD STEVENS GREVING, the most eminent of New Rochelle's ex-Mayors, printed on this page yesterday. Having seen a woman knocked down and fatally injured by a recklessly driven taxicab, Mr. GREVING, whose car, containing himself and his wife, happened to be near the scene of the accident, did his duty as a good citizen and voluntarily offered himself as a witness.

In doing this he knew that he was letting himself in for a lot of trouble and loss of time in attending court. His apprehensions proved well-founded. He spent hours and hours in the court room and found himself, as a witness, treated with no consideration at all, while the counsel of the reckless driver who had killed a woman was able easily to get the adjournments for which he asked.

The case was ill-prepared by the District Attorney, and it ended, later than the date of Mr. GREVING'S letter, in the discharge of the driver, seemingly because the actual hitting of the woman had not been seen. So the inconvenience and loss of time imposed on Mr. GREVING were wholly useless.

In his irritation he expresses a doubt that in the case of his seeing another like happening he will do anything except move away from it as quickly and quietly as he can. That, alas! is what most of us are inclined to do whenever confronted with the likelihood of having to serve as witnesses if we give our names to the police.

Dangerous, but Not Too Dangerous.

Carefully reading the new report on leaded gasoline, it is to be seen that the vindication and defense of that combination of substances have many qualifications. It is safe to use, the investigators declare, if certain conditions are carefully observed, and the strongest point they make is that the men who in some parts of the country constantly do handle gasoline thus modified show no special signs of injurious effects from it.

That is fairly convincing evidence that the requisite caution can be and is observed by the men who have been warned of the risks they run. As the addition of lead to gasoline does increase its fuel efficiency and therefore tends to economy of use, only a really necessary ban on it should be imposed. According to these latest investigators, and they are competent men, the ban is not necessary. As so often, however, safety will lie in the education of users as to the nature of risks run and the means and ways of avoiding them.

The members of the inquiry board apparently did not take up the perils incidental to the manufacture of the lead compound. These, as only too conclusively were proven by several deaths of the workmen thus employed, are far greater than those that attend the use of alcohol thus treated by the operators of cars and trucks. That, however, is a matter which the manufacturers of gasoline can be trusted to keep in mind, and it hardly can be doubted that their engineers and chemists can guard effectively against a peril now thoroughly understood.

A Pest is Traced to Its Den.

So "static" comes from Yucatan! Dr. L. W. AUSTIN of the United States Bureau of Standards says, and so information from that source must be received with great respect. Unfortunately, Dr. AUSTIN in his address at the Radio Engineers' Institute did not have any suggestions to make as to what forms of persuasion or compulsion can be exercised on the Yucatanese to make them stop this dreadful exportation of a commodity which nobody wants and everybody hates.

After all, it is an indisputable fact that not all static comes from Central America. Perhaps most and the worst of it does, as Dr. AUSTIN says, but the remainder, due to electrical escapes and flashes much nearer home, is in no small quantity, and not a little of it could be prevented if only listeners-in had more influence with assorted powers that be. One of the very worst offenders is the Federal Government itself, with its old-fashioned sending instruments, and there is where Mr. HOOVER might help if he would.

Common folk have too much pride and faith in the big electrical engineers to believe them when they say that static never can be abolished. Of course it can, if the miracle-workers try hard enough—those, for instance, who informed the M. I. T. man at their "Phantom Dinner," Tuesday evening, that within ten years everybody will be able to see as well as hear by radio. We are not quite sure that we want to do that, but of course we shall if we must.

INTOLERANCE.

How often we condemn ere we but see
The weaker part of him we little know,
And, hastily condemning, onward go,
Nor give him chance his better self to be.
With narrowed vision often thus do we Forget the impress we may make, and so,
Receive, rebounding, on ourselves the blow
Aimed at some self-created enemy.
There lies, somewhere within the hearts of all,
A tender chord that quivers silently;
No outcry e'er disturbs its soundless thrall,
Till love's touch brings forth sweetest melody.
Yet we condemn, as blundering fingers rake
The heartstrings, discords we ourselves awake.

ALLEN JOHNSON.

RUPERT HUGHES REPLIES.

Declares His Critics Traduce Both Him and Washington.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Though I am not foolish enough to attempt to stay the avalanche I brought down on poor George Washington, you publish today two letters that especially sting me. One of them ridicules me for my "discoveries" because they are well known, and the other quotes me as stating that "after exhaustive study I found that Washington never meant to fight for independence." One makes me out a conceited fool, and the other a boastful liar. This was one of the times when I was neither.

If some of these multitudinous writers of letters and editorials and preachers of sermons had taken the trouble to find out what really happened they would have lost the fun they have had.

In the first place, I was not seeking sensationalism or raking up dead scandals with a ghoulish motive of self-advertisement. I spoke quietly at a private banquet, where no reporters were present. The morning papers did not mention the banquet, and only one afternoon paper carried an account of it, evidently from hearsay, with misquotations of what I had really said. Then the editor of that paper, misunderstanding both the spirit and the nature of my remarks, published a violent denunciation of me. And the riot began.

Many, many people, including two of George Washington's relatives, have thanked me for what I said; but far more have heaped abuse upon me for attacking his sacred memory.

One notorious pulpiteer was so frantic with rage as to shout that he did not like my face! Of course, I could retort that I don't like it either, and no more do I like his face.

But does this quaint person really mean to argue that because I do not look as noble as Washington I have no right to refer to him, or to quote from his writings? This is a novel embargo, indeed, to put on the quotation of history.

As a matter of plain fact, when I was invited to address the Sons of the Revolution I urged them to remember that, as the heirs of the Revolution, it was their solemn duty to be honest custodians of the truth about it, and to frown on the silly fables that make up the public tradition.

I said it was a particularly odious crime to fill children's heads with lies. This has infuriated vast numbers of people who make it their business to do just that thing.

I did not attack Washington that night, nor ever in my life. In fact I praised him to the skies, and said he was great enough to shine by revelation.

I referred to his intense humanity and joy of life, his dancing, drinking, gambling, cursing and skepticism as things well known to everybody who knows anything about him. To my amazement the ancient facts I rehearsed were evidently unwelcome news to one gentleman, who rose and protested against anybody accusing our glorious founder of immorality.

I denied any such suggestion, and meeting him, still wrathful, in the cloakroom, apologized for offending him; but he was still revelling in the luxury of being outraged. My apology, of course, was not meant as a retraction or a confession; it was merely a polite gesture of regret at upsetting a stranger.

Some of the Sons of the Revolution, indeed, apologized to me for the bad manners of my assailant. That did not get into the papers.

Beyond insisting that all I said was familiar history, and most of it in Washington's own diaries recently published in their entirety, I have made no answer to the picturesque snowslide that followed. Such things glide to their level eventually and I felt sure that people who reviled me would realize that they really reviled Washington; and that nobody would insist very long on standing forth in the open to uphold the suppression of truth and the perpetuation of lies as an ideal policy.

The clergy came round with their regular Sunday morning "bawling out." It would have interested Washington immensely to see himself so defended; for during the Revolution the clergy were mostly charging him with being an infidel Judas, betraying his divinely anointed King. When Washington drove the British out of Boston there was a general exodus. Of course, the tune changed with the success of the Republic, and now they are setting him up as a stained glass saint in their leaded windows and defying anybody to tell the truth about him.

It was on his way to the siege of Boston that Washington denied to a delegation in New York City all thought of independence. He had previously denied it to a parson who called to him on the Potomac. Most historians realize that our forefathers planned only to bring the crown to reason, and that the idea of complete freedom came later. A great deal happened between May, 1775, and July, 1776.

My statement that the Revolution was really a Civil War throughout the British realm was no slur on the Revolution, but was brought up by the fact that I spoke at a dinner in Edmund Burke's honor. It is an old story in the histories.

Furthermore, I was not sure enough to state these ancient things as "the fruits of "exhaustive research"; nor did I use that phrase at all. But I did say that during the four years in which I was assistant editor of the Historians' History of the World I was so annoyed by constant allusions to the "thundering oath" Washington let out at the Battle of Monmouth that I finally turned up the court-martial proceedings and found that he had not sworn at all on the one occasion when the general historians say he swore.

I put that in the Historians' History, together with a eulogy of Washington which could hardly be exceeded for enthusiasm. It can be found in volume 22, page 307, and ends with the statement:

"He is the standard by which all other statesmen and patriots are tested—and found wanting."

All I did was to quote from his own writings and the writings of his contemporaries a few facts.

I cannot retract facts, and Washington cannot live his life over again, even to quiet these ferocious people who defame him under the pretense of defending him.

HARRIS COMMENDS SMITH HOUSING PLAN

Building of Better Homes for the Poor Would Help Cut Death Rate, He Says.

TO EXTEND SUNNYSIDE IDEA

Project Would Mean the Early Disappearance of Tenements, Health Chief Believes.

Health Commissioner Louis I. Harris, in an address on "Health and Housing" at a luncheon of the Women's Division of the City Housing Corporation at the Hotel Roosevelt yesterday, praised Governor Smith's recent suggestion that limited dividend corporations be permitted to condemn property required for the erection of wage-earners' homes. Dr. Harris referred to the City Housing Corporation's housing development at Sunnyside, L. I., as the type of organization the Governor had in mind.

If a public health officer dreamed of razing the old obsolete tenements "at one fell swoop," said Dr. Harris, he would be regarded as "a wild visionary," but, he added, the furtherance of the idea represented by the Sunnyside improvement would easily mean the early disappearance of the old tenements.

Would Help Cut Death Rate.

Governor Smith's proposal to give to limited dividend corporations engaged in housing the poor and moderate wage-earner the right to condemn property would help reduce the infant mortality rate, the Commissioner added. He praised the undertaking at Sunnyside as a "humanitarian investment."

After remarking that it was no accident that the mortality rate from tuberculosis was higher in some sections of the city than in others, the Health Commissioner declared that as a rule the percentage of deaths was greatest in the crowded sections. Yet, he said, in the district around the Battery, with a population of only sixty-two to the acre, the mortality rate was very high. The reason was that the housing in that section was of such a poor character.

At the same time, Dr. Harris pointed out, Sanitary Area 26, bounded by East Third Street and East Ninth Street from Avenues B to D, with 650 persons per acre, did not have as high a mortality rate as might be expected. He assigned as the reason that the Jewish group in that section had long ago paid the assessment of bad housing conditions and that they had developed a sort of racial immunity. Tracing the migration of residents of this district to Harlem and the Bronx, he said that in the new localities the death rate was still lower and that when they moved to Riverside Drive the rate again dropped.

Promises Relief for Negroes.

Dr. Harris spoke with sympathy of the high mortality rate among negroes in New York and after declaring they were suffering an undue burden he said they should profit by the idea of the limited dividend corporation. He hoped there would be "many Sunnysides for the negro."

Alexander M. Ring, President of the corporation, explained that homes for 275 families were built last year at a cost of $2,000,000, and that by the end of the Summer accommodations for 640 families at a cost of $2,000,000 would have been completed. He said the corporation's dividend was limited to 6 per cent., and that it had a surplus of $171,000, having paid the Government a tax of $32,000 last year.

Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, a director, thanked the women's division for its voluntary work on behalf of better housing for the moderate wage earner.

MISSION SOCIETY ELECTS.

Work in Asia Told at 65th Annual Meeting of Women.

Holding its sixty-fifth anniversary meeting yesterday at the headquarters of the American Bible Society, the Women's Union Missionary Society of America elected officers and heard members describe the society's work in Asia.

Miss Amelia Durrant of Fatehpur, India, told how native superstitions impeded the task of combating disease. A native, believing Christian water unclean, she said, refused to take medicine save in capsules.

"I was greatly impressed by Gandhi," said Mrs. Cleland B. McAfee, "for the Indians think him similar to Christ."

Other speakers were Mrs. Harrison K. Lyon of Yokohama, Dr. Josephine Lawney, Dean of the Woman's Christian Medical College, Shanghai, and Miss Margaret W. Haines of Allahabad, India. Mrs. Samuel J. Broadwell was elected President.

MORE AID FOR CITY COLLEGE

Twelve Added to Committee to Provide for Brooklyn Students.

Ralph Jonas, President of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday the appointment of twelve more members to a Borough Committee to aid the City College Board of Trustees in providing adequate college facilities for Brooklyn. The committee now has 125 members.

The new members are: Mrs. Evelyn W. Allen, Philip A. Brennan, Harris M. Crist, Arthur G. Dorr, Joseph A. Early, Alexander M. Geismar, John N. Herman, Dr. Frank P. Hill, Charles G. Lockwood, Walter M. Oestreicher, Dr. John Osborn Polak and Charles F. Steyert.

The first meeting of the committee will be held this evening in the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, 32 Court Street at 8 o'clock.

WOMAN DESIGNS REAL HOME

Wins British Architects' Institute Prize for Workmen's Dwelling.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Miss Doris Lewis today broke into the list of prize winners of the Royal Institute of British Architects. She planned a house for workmen, with an eye not only to beauty but to saving labor, and with it defeated many male competitors.

"If women begin to build more houses themselves we shall surely have an increase of domestic peace," says one newspaper, commenting on the award.

SPANISH PAINTINGS TO BE VIEWED TODAY

Hispanic Society Will Conduct Private Showing—Public Exhibition on Monday.

CANVASES ARE BY SOROLLA

Pictures of Fourteen Provinces Form Colorful Panorama in Room of a New Wing.

A room at the building of the Hispanic Society of America, 156th Street and Broadway, devoted to the permanent exhibition of paintings of the provinces of Spain by the famous Spanish artist, Joaquin Sorolla y Bastida, will be opened today for a private showing. It will be open to the public next Monday.

This exhibition was made possible by an agreement signed in Paris on Nov. 26, 1911, between Sorolla and the Hispanic Society, in which the artist undertook to prepare a series of paintings representing Spain of today. The work was to have been delivered in about five years. The war and other difficulties delayed shipment of the canvases until 1922. Soon after finishing the series in 1920, the artist was stricken with paralysis and died on Aug. 10, 1922.

On entering this room in the new wing, the visitor is impressed at once with the immensity and the vivid colorings of the canvases representing fourteen provinces. The oil canvas of Castilla alone is about forty-five feet in width.

The Province of Navarre comes first, depicting a curious custom in the town of Roncal, whose origin has been attributed to a victory gained over the French by the Navarrese in remote times, where, on June 13 each year, the Roncaleses receive a tribute of three cows from the people of the Baretous valley in Bearn, France.

Fish markets along the seacoast of Catalunia, are often held out of doors near the beaches, where the fisher-folk await early each morning the incoming fishing vessels. The canvas of this province shows women, in light colored garments, waiting on a hilltop for the fish market to begin.

The province of Valencia delights in festivals and processions. On the canvas are shown two peasants leading a festival procession and carrying between them a pole from which hangs an enormous bunch of oranges.

Of striking grouping and coloring is a dance at Sevilla, with four dancers in a white arched patio. The driving of bulls from the pastures to the town is pictured in Andalucia, and Holy Week in Sevilla is depicted by a procession of penitents. Still another canvas of Sevilla shows the bullfighters.

Then come the pig market at Estremadura, tunny fishing at Ayamonte, the cattle market in Galicia and ninepin players in Guipuscoa.

WASHINGTON LETTER BRINGS $830 AT SALE

Written to Jefferson in 1793 Regarding Latter's Retirement as Secretary of State.

An original autographed letter from George Washington to Thomas Jefferson regarding Jefferson's retirement as Secretary of State, written in Philadelphia on Aug. 12, 1793, brought $830 last night at the Anderson Galleries at the final session of the auction of the autograph collection of the late Colonel James H. Manning of Albany, N. Y.

The letter, which was bought by the Rosenbach Company at yesterday's highest price, indicates that as early as August, 1793, it had been arranged between Washington and his Secretary of State that the latter might retire on Jan. 1, 1794. Another letter from Washington to James Madison, asking advice on the propriety of complying with requests made by the son of Lafayette that Washington assist in obtaining Lafayette's release from imprisonment in Olmutz, was bought by Gabriel Wells for $575.

The typewritten manuscript of Theodore Roosevelt's address before the National Guard Association describing the Las Guasimas fight and the taking of San Juan Hill in the Spanish-American War, was bought by Gabriel Wells for $810. The manuscript bears hundreds of autograph corrections.

An autographed extract from Woodrow Wilson's message to Congress in December, 1914, entirely in Wilson's handwriting, was bought by B. J. Beyer for $320.

"ELKS' GRANDDADDY" DIES.

John F. Norris, Blackface Comedian, Stricken on Tour of Lodges.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 20 (AP).—John F. (Dad) Norris, believed to be the last of the "Seven Jolly Corks," an organization from which the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks is said to have sprung, died today in the Good Samaritan Hospital here. He had been suffering from asthma and heart disease.

Mr. Norris, known as "Granddaddy of the Elks," came here early in January on a tour of the country in an effort to say "Hello, Bill," to everybody in the organization. Last week he was stricken ill.

For forty-eight years he was a blackface comedian, traveling with his wife, Lottie Norris. They were known on the stage as John and Lottie Burton. They made their last bow to an audience in 1914, after John had met with an accident. His wife died in 1921.

Norris's lodge at Providence, R. I., will make funeral arrangements. He probably will be buried beside his wife in Fonville, Mich.

Joseph Headorfer.

Joseph Headorfer, 76 years old, died yesterday after a long illness at his home, 43 East Seventy-third Street. Before his retirement ten years ago he was one of the four proprietors of the Hotel Manhattan. For forty years he was associated with the firm of Batcheller & Co., hotel supplies, 196-198 Fulton Street, being one of the founders and at one time President. Mr. Headorfer was a member of the New York Athletic Club and the Lambs' Club.

ROUGH RIDERS CALLED TO GREENWAY'S BIER

Expected to Be at Grave in Arizona—Funeral Here—All Yale Mourns.

Funeral services were held in St. Bartholomew's Church yesterday afternoon for John Campbell Greenway, mining engineer, baseball and football star at Yale, member of Roosevelt's Rough Riders and brilliant soldier in the World War. The body was placed on a train at night, to be taken to Ajo, Ariz., for burial. Meanwhile Hermann Hagedorn, director of Roosevelt House, was making efforts in the Southwest to gather former comrades of Mr. Greenway in the Rough Riders to pay a final tribute to him at the grave.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 20.—Yale today mourned the death of John C. Greenway, one of its most brilliant athletes, most distinguished military officers and successful business men. His sudden death after an operation in New York yesterday recalled his all-American successes as football end-rush and his baseball triumphs as catcher.

Head Coach "Tad" Jones was shocked by Greenway's death. "Jack Greenway," he said, "was a wonderful fellow. He stood for the best in everything that Yale does. He made good at everything he undertook, and I believe that his career out West was as successful as his football and baseball record at Yale. His death will cause sorrow among all Yale men."

The Yale Daily News said editorially: "His life is eloquent for itself in the mere recording of it. He was one of Yale's finest, and The News, on behalf of the entire university, expresses deepest sympathy for his family."

JOHN JOHNSON ALLEN, LAWYER, DIES AT 83

U. S. Commissioner for 52 Years and One of the Oldest Attorneys in Brooklyn.

John Johnson Allen, one of the oldest practicing attorneys in Brooklyn and for fifty-two years a United States Commissioner, died yesterday in his eighty-fourth year at his home, 120 Columbia Heights, Brooklyn.

Mr. Allen was born in Utica, N. Y., a descendant in the seventh generation of Miles Standish, and was graduated from the University of Vermont in 1862. He then came to this city to study law, but postponed his studies when he was appointed Acting Provost Marshal in this city. At the conclusion of the Civil War he returned to his study of law and was graduated from the Columbia Law School in 1866.

Shortly thereafter Mr. Allen was appointed Assistant United States Attorney for the Eastern District, which office he held until 1873 under Benjamin Stillman and General B. F. Tracy.

In 1873 Mr. Allen was elected to the Assembly, and for the next eighteen years was active as United States Chief Supervisor of Elections for the district comprising the Counties of Kings, Queens, Suffolk and Richmond.

Mr. Allen was a member of the New England Society of New York, the Vermont Society and the Society of Colonial Wars in Vermont. In 1920 he and the then Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts received honorary degrees from the University of Vermont.

FREDERICK H. BALDWIN.

Yale Graduate Dies at His Home Here in His 70th Year.

Frederick Harrison Baldwin, member of an old New York family, died yesterday in his apartment at 33 West Fifty-first Street, in his seventieth year, after an illness of three months.

Mr. Baldwin was born in New York, son of the late Charles Peabody and Mary Sibley Baldwin. He graduated from Yale in 1872 and took a law course at Columbia University, but never practiced law. He was much interested in the work of St. Thomas's Church. He spent his Summers at Newport. He was a member of the Reading Club of Newport and of the Union, Yale and University clubs and the Pilgrims of this city. When at Yale he was a member of Psi Upsilon.

He is survived by two nieces, Mrs. Henry B. Stoddard of Fairfield, Conn., and Mrs. Benjamin B. Baker of Harrisonport, Mass., and by two nephews, Captain Mortimer C. Addoms Jr., U. S. A., now at Fort Du Pont, Del., and Henry Sibley Baldwin of this city.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Henry S. Cook.

Henry S. Cook, 64 years old, a lawyer of 319 West Eighty-first Street, died suddenly at his home yesterday. Mr. Cook was a graduate of New York University and the New York Law School. He practiced law for more than twenty-two years, appearing in some of the largest real estate proceedings.

He was a member of the New York County Lawyers Association and the New York Athletic Club. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Emma J. Cook. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning from All Angels' Church, West End Avenue and Eighty-first Street, and interment will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

In Memory of Frank A. Munsey.

Directors of the National Surety Company made public yesterday resolutions on the death of Frank A. Munsey, who was a director of the company. "Mr. Munsey's unusual constructive genius and indomitable energy brought him from humble beginnings to a place among the foremost Americans of our day," said the resolution in part. "He overcame great difficulties, built important enterprises and used the wealth and influence that he acquired to render large and lasting services to the public."

Wilbur F. Nichols.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 20 (AP).—Wilbur F. Nichols, 63, of Belchertown, formerly a well-known educator, died last night in a hospital here. He was a school principal in Holyoke and for some years subsequent to 1899 was supervisor of five schools in New Haven, Conn. He was a graduate of Amherst College and had written text books on arithmetic and geography. He was born in Stillwater, Minn.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. ADA DILLOFF, wife of Isidor Dilloff and daughter of the late Julius and Rachel Wodiska, both of whom died within the last year, died Tuesday evening of septic pneumonia in the Hospital for Joint Diseases, Madison Avenue and 124th Street, in her forty-third year.

Dr. EDWIN MATO REITH, a dentist of West Orange, N. J., was found dead in his office at 501½ Eastern Avenue last night.

MICHAEL G. P. PALMER of Montclair, N. J., prominent Mason, and for three years District Deputy Grand Master, died at his home there yesterday after a short illness. He was 72 years old. Mr. Palmer was born in Ireland and came to this country when a boy. He was a member of the Montclair Board of Education for nine years, and was a director of the Montclair Trust Company. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Palmer, and a son, Frank Palmer.

H. W. HILLER DEAD; PIONEER IMPORTER

When a Mere Boy Helped to Develop Trade Between This Country and Russia.

LIVED FOR YEARS IN SIBERIA

Named Consular Agent by President Lincoln—Founded the Jewelers' Security League.

Henry Winans Hiller of 253 Lexington Avenue, pioneer in Russo-American trade, died yesterday in Bellevue Hospital, in his eighty-eighth year, from injuries received in a fall last Saturday.

Mr. Hiller was born on Feb. 11, 1838, at Hudson, N. Y., son of Henry and Henrietta Winans Hiller. He went to sea at the age of 13. Three years later, when the captain of a trading vessel off the Siberian coast fell ill, young Hiller was put ashore with him at Petropaviosk to act as nurse. The captain died and the boy went to work for the Siberian branch of William Boardman & Co., Boston importers, eventually becoming manager of the branch.

He was in Petropaviosk when the town was bombarded during the Crimean War. Ten years ago, when he was in Russia, he learned that there were only three survivors of the bombardment. With his death the last survivor is gone.

During the Administration of Lincoln, Mr. Hiller was appointed United States Consular Agent for Eastern Siberia. On his return to America in 1873, he became associated with the Alvin Paper Car Wheel Company. In 1876 he made the first of many trips to Russia. In 1879 he founded in this country the Jewelers' Security League, serving as Secretary for many years. He was an importer of Russian jewelry, and was the first to bring Russian enamel silverware to this country.

In 1883 he became associated with Tiffany & Co., remaining with this firm until seven years ago. He was in charge of its exhibit at the Paris Exposition in 1900.

Mr. Hiller married in 1867 Liuboff M. Goubareff at Nicolaivsk, Siberia. Mrs. Hiller survives him. Three children were born to them, of whom Nicolai H. Hiller, President of the Carbondale Machine Company, Carbondale, Pa., is the only survivor.

BENJAMIN E. DAVIDSON.

Retired Cotton Broker Dies Suddenly in His 76th Year.

Benjamin E. Davidson, retired cotton broker, of 1,803 Palisade Place, the Bronx, died suddenly yesterday of heart disease in a drug store at 1,701 University Avenue, the Bronx, in his seventy-fifth year.

He was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, and until early manhood lived in Tulloch Castle, hereditary seat of the Dye Clan. In 1872 he came to America, settling in Victoria, Kan., where he managed a ranch.

Twenty years later Mr. Davidson went to South America. He finally settled in New York, joining the cotton brokerage firm of Henry M. Tobey. He was active in the firm's business until eight years ago, when he retired.

Mr. Davidson married Augusta Staubsandt at Victoria, Kan. She died six years ago and he later married her sister, Clara, who survives him. He is also survived by a sister, Elizabeth, of Edinburgh; a brother, Hugh, of San Francisco, and a nephew, Benjamin E. Davidson.

Dr. George W. Purdy.

Dr. George W. Purdy, for many years a theatrical manager, died on Tuesday at the age of 67 at his home, Springfield, Md. He had directed his own companies in New York and on the road. Among his productions were "At the French Ball" and "The Jolly Surprise." In his later years he was associated with the Aborn Englewood Grand Opera Company and Grace van Studdiford's and Henry W. Savage's attractions.

In his youth Dr. Purdy was a champion skater. He had also been a dentist in Boston for several years. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret White Purdy, and by a daughter, Edith, by a former marriage. Dr. Purdy was a native of St. John, N. B., Canada.

Every Business Day Is Furniture Day in the February Sale

From the Founder's Writings

Sense and Nonsense are First Cousins near neighbors, live in the same street, but often have no good feeling for each other.

The fault is in sense showing only seriousness, selfishness and sourness and nonsense being frivolous, indiscreet and offensive, though not necessarily so.

An old adage, however, runs, "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men."

Sound sense without sternness or harshness is the world's best ruler.

Nonsense,Noah Webster says, is "That which is not sense, absurdity, trifles, things of no importance," "balderdash," all of which we carefully avoid in advertising this business.

The Superlative in Women's Kit Bags

—FINNIGAN'S—

Anyone who has visited this famous Bond Street house knows that in a nation that heads the leather craft, Finnigan's is the peer.

RODIER'S CREPELLA

IN A COMPLETE SELECTION OF THE SMART NEW COLORS

The lovely crepe-like woolen prominently featured in the mid-season collection of every important Paris couturier. So great has been the demand for this fabric in Paris that we consider it an achievement to present it to New York in all the new shades sponsored by this master weaver for Spring and Summer.

Rodier red, an exquisite shade and a particular favorite with Chanel, is the dominating color, and the collection includes all the light pastel shades, clearer and fresher than those of last season, lovely soft greens, blues and browns.

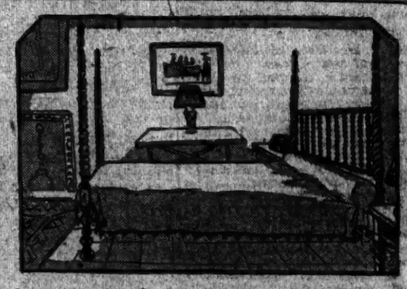
A 17th Century Majorcan Bed



Au Quatrieme has recently placed in the bedroom of the Spanish House a fine Majorcan walnut bed, a most interesting example....with its very high turned posts and headpiece of spindles....of one of the three important types of Spanish bed. Originally this was a "canopy bed covered with a cielo (ceiling) of native blue and white linen, with a shallow valance and spread of the same." Spanish Interiors and Furniture, by Arthur Byne and Mildred Stapley.

But even without the characteristic canopy, woven in the lengua or tongue pattern of the Moors, such a bed, so simple in its lines, is nevertheless a most impressive and handsome affair. Covered with a blue Majorcan bedcover, and placed before a lovely old 15th Century Genevese wall-hanging it becomes an object of striking interest and of delightful decorative effect in the picturesque scheme of the interior.

WESTCHESTER GETS NEW CHARTER REPORT

ACTION CREATES SURPRISE

No Meeting Reported Since Body Voted to Await New Member and Asked for Funds.

HEARINGS TO BEGIN JAN. 27

Opponents Indicate They Will Be Out in Force—Had Planned to Fight Project in Courts.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 20.—A charter, substantially the same as that which met defeat at the polls in Westchester County last Fall, was offered today by the recently appointed Westchester County Government Commission, in the form of a report to the Board of Supervisors. That body referred it to the Committee on New County Government. This committee announced that a series of public hearings would be held, the first on Wednesday morning, Jan. 27, at 11 o'clock in the Supervisors' Chambers in the court house.

The commission of the charter came as a surprise, even to members of the New County Government Committee, of which William D. Cameron of Yonkers, a member of the original commission, is Chairman. The report consisted of twenty-nine pages and was signed by the members of the commission—Henry R. Barrett, Chairman; Harry E. Beaudrias, Vice Chairman; Harry B. Colwell, Treasurer; William J. Wallin, Secretary; Edwin W. Fiske and George A. Slater.

Some Objections Met.

The principal changes in the charter consisted of conferring upon the Board of Supervisors the power of approval of the creation of new officers and the appointments thereto, the omission of the power conferred upon the County President of the passage of the budget, if the Board of Estimate and Apportionment did not do so within a limited time, and the inclusion of a clause whereby any two members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment could constitute a quorum and do business, whereas in the former charter this was defined as "the President and one other member shall constitute a quorum."

Other than this, the powers of the President were not hindered, but the powers of the Board of Supervisors were defined more broadly, the board being given the power to establish boundary lines, equalize taxes, and to have the power to investigate departments and the heads of the departments, and to secure the submission of books, papers, &c., that might be needful for such investigations.

It was provided that the form of government provided for the County of Westchester by the new charter could be abandoned and the county revert to its old form of government by an ordinance passed by a two-thirds vote for the Supervisors, at least three months prior to a general election, the question to be voted upon being, "Shall the County of Westchester abandon its present form of government and revert to its former form of government?" If the affirmative vote carried, the change would become effective a year from the 1st of January following the election.

Politicians Surprised.

The submission of the charter was a great surprise to Westchester political circles, inasmuch as at the last known meeting of the commission it was voted to take no action until the Board of Supervisors had filled a vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Daniel O'Day. It also was voted to ask the Supervisors for funds to carry on the commission's work. No successor to Mrs. O'Day has been appointed and no funds for the commission's work have been voted.

The report readied in today for adoption was in the form of red-inked alterations to the former charter proposal and the inclusion of two new sections.

In presenting it, the commission said in a letter to the Board of Supervisors that it had "used the original act as a basis, but had made changes that were believed necessary, and which were indicated at the meetings and debates upon the act held last Fall." The expenses of the commission for the work, the letter added, were for clerical and stenographic hire, amounting to $72.50, and it requested that this sum be appropriated.

Mr. Cameron, on receipt of the new charter, said, "The Committee on New County Government feels that the citizens of Westchester County should receive every possible opportunity to express their opinions upon this new charter, and to make suggestions upon its improvement, before the act is submitted to the Legislature.

"It believes that the fullest stenographic reports of these hearings should be made, and for that purpose, and to mail notices of subsequent hearings to those interested, I ask for an appropriation of $1,000. I also ask that two hundred extra copies of the minutes containing the report be printed for the public."

Action on Mr. Cameron's request went over until Monday's meeting.

When informed of the presentation of the new charter today, Mrs. Caspar Whitney of Irvington said she was surprised that the commission had proceeded without having some one appointed to fill the place of Mrs. O'Day. Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip and Mrs. Whitney, together with members of the Home Rule Association and residents of the county who opposed the previous charter, are expected to attend the hearing next Wednesday morning.

Members of the Home Rule Association, it was learned, had been planning a "taxpayers' suit, should the Board of Supervisors appropriate any money for the County Government Commission, on the grounds that the commission could not be appointed, and that the Board of Supervisors would have no right to appropriate money to further its work.

J. Ogden Armour Ill.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—J. Ogden Armour is reported suffering from an attack of indigestion, which has compelled him to remain in bed at his home for several days. Mrs. Armour is said to have canceled reservations for a trip to Europe which she had planned. Members of the family denied the illness was serious, but specialists have been calling on Mr. Armour daily.

To Aid Widows and Orphans Of New York Physicians

Three hundred wives of New York physicians at the Hotel Astor yesterday organized a protective association for the relief of needy widows and orphans of physicians, to be known as the Cooperative Society for Physicians' Wives. They raised $200 as a start.

"It should be borne in mind that this is the first organization of its kind," said Mrs. Rose Climenko of 1 Virginia Place, Brooklyn, who was elected President. "All sorts of organized workers have such protective organizations, but somehow the medical profession has never undertaken to provide such relief among its members.

"The physician starts out under a heavy handicap. He is not in business to make money, but primarily to serve the public. That is part of the oath he takes. Consequently, it takes him many years to establish himself, and sometimes after a lifetime of painstaking service he finds himself a poor man. His family is left destitute."

HEAT AT BELLEVUE IS OFF THREE HOURS

BARGE SPED TO END CRISIS

Mayor Takes a Hand in Bringing Quick Relief—Patients Not Hurt Since Weather Was Mild.

Early yesterday afternoon the last available ton of coal was poured into the furnaces of Bellevue Hospital and the supply of steam heat was reduced to a mere dribble. The serious situation spurred Mayor Walker, Health Commissioner Louis I. Harris and the officers directly responsible for the purchase of coal, and at 2 P. M. 150 tons of coal were barged to the pier at the hospital grounds. An hour later 600 more tons hove to in the East River off the city pier.

The critical situation was caused by the failure of 600 tons of coal to arrive, due to the heavy fog of the last few days, and also by the inability of the hospital to keep up its usual reserve stock of 1,000 tons during the coal strike.

Dr. Harris investigated the coal supply in the city's hospitals yesterday after Bellevue was cared for and reported that all had sufficient coal for the present. Mayor Walker conferred with Commissioner Harris and Peter J. Dooling, Commissioner of Purchase, and a survey of the coal emergency resources of every city institution was ordered. A report to the Mayor will be made as soon as possible.

Dr. Mark L. Fleming, medical superintendent of Bellevue, said that, as fortunately the weather was comparatively mild yesterday, no inconvenience was experienced by the 1,377 patients. They were not informed of the situation. The first announcement of trouble came from the hospital engineer, who reported to Dr. Fleming that the expected barge had failed to appear at 7 in the morning and that the hospital had only twenty tons of coal in hand. The daily requirement is between 100 and 150 tons.

At 11:15 it was found necessary to shut off all boilers except the two that worked the machinery. No difficulty was experienced in keeping the electric light and power going, as the hospital has an agreement with the New York Edison Company that covers such an emergency. However, the authorities faced the problem of preparing the evening meal without the aid of steam, which is used for cooking. Luncheon had been prepared just before the heat failed.

Dr. Fleming communicated with Commissioner of Purchase Dooling and Deputy Commissioner James Donegan, who put into motion the machinery to obtain an immediate supply. The Penn Fuel Company, which has the contract to supply the hospital, informed the officials that on Tuesday night a tow of about thirty coal barges was ready to leave Port Reading, N. J., but the thick weather prevented. It started yesterday morning.

On hearing of the shortage at Bellevue the coal company sent a tug down the bay to meet the tow. The barge with the hospital supply was cut out and rushed to the Bellevue pier, where it ended the emergency.

SAVES WOMAN'S LIFE AS TROLLEY KILLS HIM

Catherwood and Mrs. Louise Olive of 2,527 Madison Street, Ridgewood, Queens, were struck by a B. M. T. Myrtle Avenue trolley car on the B. M. T. private right of way at Madison Street and Woodward Avenue, Ridgewood. The couple, according to the police, were on their way by a short cut over the tracks to the Ridgewood Theatre, when the car came upon them so suddenly that Motorman Norman Nelson did not have time to apply his brakes.

Just before they were hit, Catherwood saw the car. He pushed his companion from the track, but was caught by the forward truck before he could save himself. The car grazed Mrs. Olive's side as she leaped for safety.

It was half an hour before Catherwood's body could be removed from beneath the trucks. Dr. Lynch of the Wyckoff Heights Hospital, Brooklyn, said that he had died almost instantly.

Newark Got $940,308 for Chest.

Newark's community chest drive held last November to raise $1,004,643.92, according to official figures given out yesterday by the Welfare Federation, netted $940,308.10 from 95,627 subscribers. Included in the total for the drive was an item of $40,000 for a $80,000 contingent fund. The expenses were cut to $45,000, so that exclusive of the contingent fund the amount actually needed for the campaign's budget was obtained.

GOV. RITCHIE WARNS OF FEDERAL POWER

Marshall's Method Not Followed, He Says at Dinner in Honor of Great Jurist.

NEW CONCEPTION OF LAW

Trying Now to Force All the People to Follow Moral Precepts of Groups.

Governor John C. Ritchie of Maryland warned against the assumption of over much power by the Federal Government last night at a dinner given by the Lawyers' Club at the Hotel Biltmore to commemorate the 125th anniversary of the appointment of John Marshall as Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court.

"Recent there has grown up a new conception of law," Governor Ritchie said. "For more than a century the high purpose of law in this country was to protect life, liberty and property; to stand between the rights of the individual and any who would invade them. Now the notion is that the law can be used as a scheme for social control, to regulate human conduct and relations, and to secure the moral well-being of the individual by forcing upon all the people the social precepts and ideas of groups or classes of the people.

"This kind of law is, moreover, being imposed before the convictions of those to be regulated by it have been educated up to it. The result is a growing non-observance and disrespect for the law, because there can be no respect for law without enforcement, and experience shows that legislation which lacks social sanction cannot be enforced.

"This tendency may not mean the disintegration of law as so long understood and accepted in this country. But it is not too much to say that if the American system of law is going to disintegrate, this is the way for the process to begin."

Marshall's Method.

Governor Ritchie said he thought it was clear that the United States Supreme Court, in its decisions, was "throwing its influence on the side of nationalism to a degree not warranted by Marshall's method of finding Federal power within the language of the Constitution, naturally construed, or not finding it at all."

"Marshall is said to have established 'implied powers' in the Federal Government," went on Governor Ritchie. "He did not. The term carries the meaning that the Federal Government has powers which are not delegated but which are implied from the fact that it is a Government. * * * John Marshall knew no power of this kind.

"The particular application of the doctrine of State rights which culminated in the Civil War is the label of a lost cause. The struggle now of the States is to maintain a quite different set of principles. Before the Civil War the struggle of the States was for State supremacy over Federal power in the Federal domain. Now it is for State existence against Federal transgressions in the State domain."

Among the spheres originally intended for State domain in which Federal control has been exercised since John Marshall's time, Governor Ritchie listed "direction or supervision over railroads, big business, labor unions, highways, education, suffrage, lotteries, motherhood, infant hygiene, child, agriculture, taxes, drugs, narcotics, vice, morals and liquor."

"John Marshall did not build a National Government at the expense of a single right reserved to the States," said Governor Ritchie. "He built a nationon out of the powers delegated to it. We cannot imagine him—nothing he ever said can justify imagining him—invading the rights of the States for the power or the benefit or the aggrandisement of the national Government. We can only imagine him strictly maintaining the constitutional equilibrium between the two. We can only imagine him preserving the indestructible States as he preserved an indestructible Union."

Likens Government to Mother.

Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard University Law School likened the attitude of the Federal Government at present to that of a mother who said to her nurse maid: "Run upstairs and see what Tommy is doing. Whatever it is, make him stop." Dean Pound expressed the belief that the pioneer virtues of independence, resilience and versatility were "not exactly virtues in the urban industrialism of today." He said his opinion was that present-day lawlessness was largely ill adjustment of the pioneer virtue of restlessness to highly organized industrial communities.

"We shall achieve nothing," Dean Pound said, "if we go on developing the 'can't' side of the Constitution, but we must develop the 'can' side. Our salvation is not in phrases or dogmas but in the spirit in which they are developed."

Robert C. Morris, President of the Lawyers' Club, was toastmaster and, before the speaking began, he asked the guests to drink a toast to the "Immortality of the Constitution." As they did so, colored representations of the signing of that document, and a likeness of John Marshall, were flashed upon a screen at one end of the Biltmore's grand ballroom, while an orchestra played the "Star-Spangled Banner."

Bishop William T. Manning delivered the invocation.

Others at the speakers' table were John W. Davis, Charles E. Hughes, William D. Guthrie, President of the State Bar Association; and Samuel Seabury, former Judge of the State Court of Appeals.

BOWERY Y. M. C. A. LEADS.

Reports in Drive for 1926 Funds Made at Luncheon in Astor.

The Bowery Branch of the New York Young Men's Christian Association reported yesterday the largest amount of any centre in the united financial campaign in which the local association and five supervisory agencies are making an appeal for funds for 1926.

This branch reported 37 per cent. of its goal achieved, at a luncheon at the Astor, attended by 300 workers, under the leadership of Cleveland H. Dodge, President of the local organization. A total of $65,066.80, or 18.21 per cent. of the goal of $440,315, was reported, coming from 1,013 contributors.

Freed on $20,000 Theft.

Upon the recommendation of Assistant District Attorney Unger, Magistrate Dreyer in Tombs Court yesterday discharged Harry Bloom accused with Reginald Francis of the larceny of cash and stock worth more than $60,000 from James Kemp, former Sheriff of Scranton, Pa. Evasco was being held in $20,000 bail for the Grand Jury. Mr. Unger told the Court the District Attorney's office did not have evidence which warranted holding Bloom.

Employer Found Harder Hit by Dollar's Drop; Value to Him Declined 56.3%; to Worker 40%

If the purchasing power of the consumer's dollar has declined to about 60 per cent. of its pre-war value the employer's dollar in paying wages has shrunk still more because of the higher wages paid, according to a study of the National Industrial Conference Board, 247 Park Avenue.

A dollar in October, 1926, would buy on the average only 43.7 per cent. of the amount of labor it would have commanded in 1914, according to the study. In other words, the board says, while the employe's dollar, spent for general living expenses, has decreased only about 40 per cent. since 1914, the employer's dollar spent for wages has declined 56.3 per cent. and is worth considerably less than half of what it was in pre-war days.

Average hourly earnings in industry last October were 129 per cent. greater than in 1914 and have shown greater stability for the last two years than at any time since the beginning of the war, according to the board's analysis. The purchasing value of the employer's dollar in the labor market reached its lowest point in 1920, during the inflation period, when it dropped to 40.7 per cent. of its 1914 value. It rallied to 51.5 per cent. or a little more than half of its pre-war value in 1922, but has hovered at 44 per cent. or less of its 1914 value ever since 1922.

These percentages, however, the study emphasizes, cover average amount of labor in terms of man-hours, and do not take into account kind and quality of work or changes in labor efficiency.

The relative purchasing power of the employer's dollar in the various industries, on the same basis, in October, 1925, as compared with the 1914 value, was as follows:

In the paint and varnish industry, 53.8 per cent. of the 1914 value; in the machine and machine tool industry, 47.4 per cent.; heavy equipment, 46.3 per cent.; electrical manufacturing, 45.5 per cent.; hardware, 46.2 per cent.; in the printing of newspapers and periodicals, 44.6 per cent.; book and job printing, 42.9 per cent.; in the boot and shoe industry, 44.6 per cent.; agricultural implement industry, 44.6 per cent.; in the automobile industry, 44.2 per cent.; in the paper and pulp industry, 43.9 per cent.; furniture, 42.7 per cent.; foundries, 42.6 per cent.; in leather tanning, 42.4 per cent.; in meat packing, 42.2 per cent.; in the chemical industry, 42 per cent.; in the iron and steel industry, 41.5 per cent.; in the Northern cotton mills, 41.2 per cent.; in the Southern, 37.7 per cent.; in the silk industry, 41 per cent.; in the rubber industry, 38 per cent.; wool, 37.3 per cent., and in the paper products industry, 36.8 per cent.

BULLETS AND FISTS FOIL RUM-RUNNERS

Customs Men Seize $10,000 Worth of Liquor After Battle on the Pier.

CONTRABAND ON 10 SHIPS

Large Quantities Are Thrown Into Sea—$250,000 Alcohol Taken in Two Raids

After a fifteen-minute battle with bullets and fists, ten customs men yesterday reported routing twenty-five river pirates and rum runners early yesterday on Pier 2, Erie Basin, in the Red Hook section of Brooklyn. The customs men then boarded the steamship Caucasier of the Lloyd Royal Belge Line and seized liquor they valued at $10,000.

The battle was precipitated when the rum runners, according to the customs men, used a whistle signal that had been adopted by the Customs Service. The raiders explained the absence of casualties by saying that the darkness prevented accurate marksmanship. No arrests were made.

Aboard the Caucasier, the customs men said, they found a quantity of the liquor on deck ready for unloading and more hidden below. The officers and crew of the ship denied all knowledge of the liquor. They will be questioned later by a United States Commissioner in Brooklyn.

Twelve more padlock decrees issued by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard and an order from Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow for the destruction of liquor seized from ten steamships, including the Adriatic, also marked yesterday's prohibition enforcement activities. More than 14,000 bottles of rum, Scotch, gin, ale, stout, campaigne, cordials and beer, and 114 barrels of fruits preserved in alcohol were ordered taken to sea on a Government craft and dumped overboard after the bottles have been broken.

The seizures were made on the Adriatic, Cananova, La Bourdonnais, Kendal Castle, Suffern, Pocahontas, Vega, Siboney, Augusta and Franconia. The barrels of fruit, which were ordered destroyed because of the alcohol in which they were preserved, were taken from the steamship Vega.

Four of the padlock decrees issued yesterday were for one year each and eight were for six months. With the exception of a lunch room and delicatessen at 202 West Thirty-fifth Street and an alleged distillery and dispensing plant at 555 West Twenty-second Street, the places ordered padlocked were of the speakeasy type.

The Lion D'Or, 61 West Twenty-fourth Street, one of the oldest Italian restaurants in the city, was raided by prohibition agents who reported seizing wines, beer, whisky, bacardi rum and liqueurs. The proprietor, Oreste Vannini of 2,157 Seventeenth Street, Brooklyn, was arrested.

Major Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in charge of prohibition enforcement, arrived yesterday. He said he would have nothing to say about prohibition until he delivered his speech tonight at the annual dinner of the Citizenship Committee of 1,000 in the Empire Room at the Waldorf.

Agents raided two warehouses in Water Street last night, arrested seven men and confiscated 900 drums and 731 barrels of alcohol, which they valued at $300,000. The prisoners were not taken to Police Headquarters. Their names were not given out. They will be arraigned this morning in the Federal Court.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN CLAREMONT AVENUE

Police Believe She Fell From Apartment House Roof—She Is Unidentified.

An unidentified woman about 35 years old, well dressed and wearing a wedding ring was found dead on the sidewalk in front of a six-story apartment house at 160 Claremont Avenue, near Tiemann Place, last night by Patrolman Roach of the West 100th Street station.

Detectives roused all the tenants of the house but none was able to tell who the dead woman was. It was believed, however, that she had been killed in a fall from the roof of the building as a tenant of the ground floor told of hearing a sound like that of a body striking the sidewalk a short time before the patrolman discovered the woman. The detectives also found finger marks in the grime on the parapet on the roof.

They said that their initial investigation, however, left them unable to determine whether the woman had accidently fallen, jumped or been thrown from the roof.

The woman wore a blue dress with red trimming, a light brown coat and tweed shoes. She was about 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighed approximately 125 pounds.

Wine Flower Show Poster Prize.

A committee named by the annual Flower Show management selected yesterday from a group of 114 posters in colors by art students in New York high schools that submitted by Martin Akin, 675 Central Park West, as the best. The poster will be reproduced and used to advertise the Flower Show at the Grand Central Palace, March 15 to 20.

SIX ARMY PRISONERS NEARLY MARCH OFF

SIRENS SHRIEK AN ALARM

Alarm sirens shrieked and Governors Island was in an uproar yesterday morning when six military prisoners knocked a sentry unconscious and almost escaped. Anthony T. Grasso, Company E, Sixteenth Infantry, the sentry, stripped of his uniform, was found stretched out on a coal pile not far from the office of Colonel Stanley Ford, commanding officer of the regiment.

The six enlisted men, none of whom was in prison for a serious offense, were Verner Leitz of Hilliards, Pa.; Albert Westford of Scranton, Pa.; Edward C. Mack of Georgetown, Ohio; Michael Shelbourne of Philadelphia, and Alex Bradley of Moorehead, Ky.

At 7:30 they left Castle Williams, the disciplinary barracks, in charge of Private Grasso, to work on a coal pile. Grasso had a rifle and an automatic pistol. The men wore prison garb and carried shovels.

Sentry Knocked Unconscious.

According to information given by enlisted men when Colonel Ford and his subordinate officers declined to give details, Grasso had just lighted a cigarette when one prisoner pinioned his arms from the rear and another wrested his rifle from him, snatched his pistol from its holster and struck him on the head, knocking him unconscious.

Shielded from the view of officers and men who were constantly passing that way by a building and an abutting shed, the men undressed the unconscious sentry. Shelbourne, who was said to have the longest sentence ahead of him because of desertion two years ago, changed his prison garb for Grasso's uniform.

He then bound Grasso's hands and feet with a twisted roll of bandage material from Grasso's first aid kit.

Leaving Grasso exposed to the cold with the discarded prison uniform over his head, Shelbourne, with Grasso's pistol at his belt and rifle over his shoulder, lined the prisoners up in squad formation, posted himself at their rear, and commanded "Forward, march."

Posing as a regular prison detail, the men marched boldly into the open, past administrative buildings and down the road toward the sea wall. Apparently without attracting the least suspicion from passing officers, they proceeded to a dock 200 yards east of the ferry terminal and boarded the Major William Pence, a junior mine sweeper, out of commission, from which two prisoners made a getaway in a rowboat six months ago.

A plan to make a similar escape miscarried when they found that the dory on the harbor side of the vessel was not equipped with tackle. Not despairing, they pushed it over the side, but instead of landing on an even keel, it went in bow first and half filled with water.

Prisoners' Absence Noted.

It was now 11 o'clock, time for the return of the detail. The alarm sirens sounded from Castle Williams, apprising the prisoners that their absence had been noted and that every available man on the island would be hunting them.

Working feverishly with the only implements at hand, two soap boxes, Leitz, Mack and Shelbourne were bailing out the row boat. The others were hiding in the engine room.

After Grasso had been found moaning and shivering on the coal pile, a detail of searchers went to the dock. The sailors rushed to the engine room. They made no attempt to use the rifle or pistol and were easily captured.

Five were found in the engine room, and Westford, who was to have been discharged in twelve days, was found in the fire box covered with soot.

An investigation will be held. The minimum penalty for attempted escape is forfeiture of good conduct time, which may mean as much as three months' additional imprisonment.

MARKET TERMINAL NEEDS.

Better Conditions Urged at Commission Men's Convention.

The erection of standardized union terminals in city markets for the receipt of fresh fruits and vegetables was urged yesterday by Alfred W. Frost, President of the National League of Commission Merchants of the United States, at the thirty-fourth annual convention at the Waldorf. The meetings will continue until Friday noon.

Mr. Frost asked the members to aid in the establishment of better terminal conditions in American cities, which he said would mean more efficient handling of shipments.

PHONE RATE RISE ATTACKED BY STATE

Brief Alleges New Surcharge Would End Regulation by Albany.

ASKS COURT TO DELAY SUIT

Added Revenue of Million a Year for Parent Company Seen In Increase.

The brief of the Public Service Commission and the Attorney General, opposing the application of the New York Telephone Company for permission to increase its surcharge in this city from 10 to 35 per cent., and to impose a surcharge of 18 per cent. elsewhere in the State, was filed yesterday with Federal Judges Rogers, A. N. Hand and Manton, constituting a statutory court. The brief of the Corporation Counsel will be filed today, thus concluding the filing of papers in the case.

In introducing its brief the commission, by its counsel, Charles G. Blakslee, said that if the motion of the company was granted it would mean the end of State regulation and the substitution of the Federal courts for State regulatory bodies. The brief asserted that the telephone company demanded the right to fix its own rates.

Would Await Report.

Attention was called to the fact that the commission was now investigating the justice of an application of the company for higher rates, and the Court was urged to postpone action until the determination of the commission had been made.

The brief declared that the company is owned by the parent company of the Bell System, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. Its capitalization, it was said, consists of long term 4, 4½, 5 and 6 per cent. bonds, and that while a small amount of 6½ per cent. preferred stock is in the hands of the public, all its common stock, aggregating more than $300,000,000, is owned by the parent company.

"The company had on June 30, 1925, $110,560,550 in depreciation reserves," the brief said. "In 1924 it owned more than $24,000,000 of bonds of other corporations. It has large miscellaneous investments; it has millions of dollars owing to it from corporations which it controls, and, finally, it had a corporate surplus unappropriated of almost $28,333,703. During all the time the present rates have been effective it has paid upon its common stock a return of 8 per cent."

In its own brief the company said it has been earning only 5.59 per cent. on the fair value of its property and only 4.02 per cent. upon its cost, after including the 10 per cent. surcharge which the company has been charging since the Summer of 1924.

The commission explained that if the motion of the company, eliminating from the injunction the 10 per cent. limit of a surcharge, was granted, the company would be able to charge whatever it liked. No mention was made in the brief that this privilege would run only until the commission had concluded its present inquiry and established a rate. This inquiry is expected to end in a report in a few weeks.

Questioned on Rate Fixing.

Part of the brief was devoted to questions asked by members of the statutory court while the case was being argued. Judge Manton asked Edward L. Blackman of counsel for the company what would happen if the 10 per cent. limit fixed by the court was stricken out. Mr. Blackman answered:

"Then we would fix what we thought was a fair rate."

Further questions disclosed that if the 10 per cent. limitation fixed in the injunction of 1924 was stricken out of the injunction, the company would have power to fix its own rates. Judge Manton was then quoted as having asked:

"What power has the court to fix a rate?" and Mr. Blackman replied: "None. To enjoin an unjust rate."

The brief of the commission appeared to take issue with this statement when it said:

"The jurisdiction of this court to entertain this application is not questioned, but it must be admitted that the court is determining rates for the plaintiff."

Reference was made to the argument before the court of John W. Davis of counsel for the company in which appeared a statement that the 10 per cent. surcharge was not adequate to provide a fair return; that the company contended that a fair return would be 8 per cent., and not 7 per cent.

The brief of the commission said that the company's report for November, 1925, showed that net revenues, including the 10 per cent. surcharge, were 6.49 per cent. in November and 5.58 per cent. for the eleven months of 1925 in this city; 9.18 per cent. elsewhere in the State for November and 8.03 for the eleven months of 1925, and 7.11 per cent. in the entire State for November and 6.15 per cent for the eleven months of 1925.

The brief declared that the 10 per cent. surcharge yielded the company $6,370,475 for the year ended Oct. 31, 1925.

The additional surcharge, it is estimated, would give to the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the parent company, $1,000,000 or more in increased revenue annually.

RATE HEARINGS RESUMED

Service Board Listens to Arguments in Edison Company Case

Hearings were resumed yesterday by the Public Service Commission on the complaint filed by the city in 1923 that the rates charged by the New York Edison Company for electricity were too high. Francis Blossom of the engineering firm of Sanderson & Porter, testified concerning appraisals of property owned by the company.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Morrissey asked Mr. Blossom to explain what he meant by referring to certain figures as "inviable items." The witness replied that he referred to work and materials specified in the original plans which could not be seen. Asked if he thought it was proper to estimate the value of materials which could not be seen and which could not be examined, the witness replied that the work had been approved by the city's inspector.

The hearing will be continued today.

Dr. Hunter's Estate Put at $302,554.

Dog's Right to Bark at Night Goes to French High Court

TOULON, France, Jan. 20 (AP).—The courts have been called on to pass on the validity of a decree issued by the Mayor of this city forbidding "all noise or repeated barking or howling of dogs" after 10 o'clock at night.

A woman was haled into court to face the charge that her dog "had jumped the wall of her premises and disturbed public tranquillity by barking on the night of May 24-25, 1925, from 11 o'clock till 11:20 and from 1 o'clock till 1:45.

The lower court denied the Mayor's right to make such a decree, but an appeal to the Court of Cassation resulted in an order for retrial, the higher court ruling that the municipal authority extended to the preservation of order and quiet.

DURKIN IS CAUGHT AFTER LONG HUNT

HIS YOUNG BRIDE WITH HIM

Three Months' Chase of Noted Gunman Led Detectives to California and Texas.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Martin J. Durkin, killer of Federal Agent E. C. Shanahan and two others, was captured today on board a railroad train just outside St. Louis with an 18-year-old bride. Four hours later he was on his way back to Chicago with his bride, to face trial for murder.

The gunman did not have a chance to fight. Two Federal agents and fifteen St. Louis policemen stopped the train at a suburb and had Durkin handcuffed before he knew what was up. Two pistols and a satchel filled with cartridges were found in Durkin's stateroom.

At police headquarters in St. Louis Durkin described parts of his flight since he shot his way to freedom here on Oct. 28. He admitted having killed Shanahan but declared he did not kill Lloyd Austin and Sergeant Gray, who died of wounds they received in Durkin's last fight with the police.

Durkin related that he went to New York and in all returned to Chicago four times. He stole automobiles in New York, Detroit, Chicago and Los Angeles to make the various trips.

Durkin waived extradition from Missouri to Illinois, and he and his bride were put on board a Chicago-bound train. He reached this city tonight and was taken to the Federal Building.

Married Under Another Name.

The gunman's bride is Irma Sullivan of Cornell, Ill., daughter of Ban C. Sullivan, the town blacksmith. She married Durkin in the office of a Justice of the Peace in East St. Louis six weeks ago, not knowing who he was, she said, as he called himself "Martin Durky."

A tip from San Francisco caused the capture of the man for whom every policeman and Federal agent in the United States had been watching since October.

Skipping from East St. Louis, where he married Irma Sullivan, to San Francisco, Durkin brought suspicion on himself by stealing an automobile. The auto was traced toward Dallas, Texas, and the trailing developed information that made the authorities confident Durkin was the thief.

Durkin and his bride drove from San Francisco to Texas in a stolen car. They ran into only one difficulty. In Pecos County, Texas, a Deputy Sheriff stopped them on a country road. When he saw that Durkin was carrying a rifle, he grew unpleasantly inquisitive.

"I told him I was a Deputy Sheriff myself," Durkin said, with a grin. "I said I was on my way to Florida to get a man. He let me go."

Slipped Out of Dallas.

The trail was almost lost in Dallas, but was picked up finally by Federal men and followed again to San Antonio. Every man on the police force from the Chief down was actively hunting for him when he slipped out of town. But his getaway was discovered. Word that he had taken a drawing room on a Missouri-Kansas-Texas train to St. Louis was flashed ahead.

Three traps were laid. The first one of the three did the work. It was at Webster Grove, a suburb of St. Louis, at which the train was scheduled to make a momentary stop.

Agents Scott and Dowd of the Department of Justice were at Webster Grove with fifteen St. Louis policemen, headed by Leonard Isling, a detective sergeant. As the train pulled into the station, four detectives, with pistols ready, ran to either side. The others jumped aboard.

Scott and Dowd knew what space had been allotted to Durkin. They ran to his drawing room, with Isling beside them, and knocked at the door. Durkin opened the door just enough to see who was outside.

Isling, a former wrestler, grabbed the gunman's right hand in a flash, twisted it with a wristlock and flung Durkin out into the corridor before he knew what was up.

He was hustled from the St. Louis station to Police Headquarters, where he admitted he was Durkin.

DEFERS 'KIDNAPPING' CASE.

Court Parolees Parents of Girl for Whom Police Searched Last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy of 444 State Street, Brooklyn, were paroled on their own recognizance yesterday in the Jefferson Market Court by Magistrate McKinley, who said that it had not been clearly shown that the persons in whose charge they had put their 2½-year-old daughter Elizabeth were not proper persons to assume such control. He put the case over until tomorrow.

The couple are the parents of the child for whom a city-wide search was started last Sunday and ended on Monday noon. Mrs. Wesley Blauvelt of 30 North Washington Avenue, Bergenfield, N. J., in whose care the child had been placed, and who said the child had disappeared in Harlem, confessed that she had returned the girl to her parents.

In the Washington Heights Court Mr. and Mrs. Blauvelt, who had been held in $1,000 bail each on charges of disorderly conduct, were arraigned before Magistrate Donras. He reduced Mrs. Blauvelt's bail to $200 and paroled Blauvelt in the custody of his counsel. He also adjourned the hearing until tomorrow.

WOMEN THREATEN REPUBLICAN REVOLT

Mrs. Parsons Warns Leaders to Make Way for Abler Men or Face Bitter Primary.

CHALLENGE TO KOENIG

Says Change Must Come or Many of Party Will Turn to "Al Smith Republicanism."

SHE SUGGESTS RETALIATION

Wants Boycott on Candidates or Withdrawal of Federal Patronage to the Group in Power.

A challenge to Samuel S. Koenig and other Republican leaders of the city to make way for abler men or submit to a bitter primary contest was issued yesterday by Mrs. James Russell Parsons at the annual meeting of the Republican Neighborhood Association at the home of Mrs. John Henry Hammond, 9 East Ninety-first Street. The Republican organization, she said, had in the last five years fallen more and more into a state of innocuous desuetude due to the weakness of its leaders, who had made of it a byword for chronic inefficiency and repeated defeat. A strong Republican organization here, she said, in combination with the many independents and a certain number of anti-Tammany Democrats could place in power again men highly competent to serve the best interests of the city. The 250 members of the association present enthusiastically applauded the speaker.

"The contention that we must support the present leaders until better ones announce themselves is fallacious," Mrs. Parsons declared. "It would seem to be the propaganda put out, with a success that is not flattering to the intelligence of the electorate, by those who are clinging desperately to the power and patronage they have held so long. When that able leader, Herbert Parsons, was faced with the necessity of finding a County Chairman, he secured the appointment of a committee of representative Republicans to select a candidate for the office. This is the method which we should seek to have adopted.

Threatens Bitter Contest.

"The alternative is a bitter primary contest, which if successful would probably end in some such action as I have outlined. Any man now offering himself as a candidate against Mr. Koenig and Mr. Koenig's powerful backers, none the less responsible because they let the onus of repeated failure be borne by Mr. Koenig alone, would arouse the bitter opposition not only of the present entrenched office-holding and office-seeking organization but also of all the other secret aspirants to the position.

"But a candidate fairly chosen by a disinterested committee, to represent the interests of the whole party rather than to further the personal ambitions of a small group, would receive enthusiastic support. Immediately following the last election indignant protests against the startling inefficiency of the Republican organization were heard on every side. Spontaneous uprisings were observed and popular movements were started for the purpose of removing the inefficient leaders and also their important but, for the moment, amazingly inconspicuous backers. But as usual, powerful influences were brought to bear to silence the insurgents, while the natural indolence of the many, who have little at stake and who see no easy way to victory, caused them once more to lapse into innocuous desuetude.

Prefers Peace, but Will Fight.

"We would prefer to achieve our aims by agreement rather than by contest. But if an agreement is not possible, another contest, far more widely and fully as ardently fought, may be necessary to save the Republican Party in this city from other ignominy, and to save the Republican Party in the State and in the nation from the injuries it would inevitably suffer from a continuance of such ignominy."

Mrs. Parsons suggested other means to oust the present leaders, including a boycott on all candidates put forward by the local organization unless they declared themselves in favor of reorganization. Another plan suggested was an appeal to the President to withhold Federal patronage from the group in power and so refrain from strengthening "a demoralized and incompetent machine." Unless one of these plans was successfully carried out, she declared, many thousands of enrolled Republicans will turn in despair to "Al Smith Republicanism."

Mrs. Hammond also urged Republican women leaders to take up cudgels for a reorganization of the party. Other speakers who voiced the same challenge included Mrs. Langdon P. Marvin, Mrs. William A. McLaren, Mrs. N. Thayer Robb, Mrs. Arthur H. Scribner, Miss Marie Sellers and Mrs. Alexis Stein. The present officers and directors of the organization were re-elected.

CONSTANCE SLADE WEDS GREEN PENN

Wears Wedding Gown of Her Great-Grandmother at Ceremony in Parents' Home.

MARGARET FARRALL BRIDE

Miss Constance Susanne Slade, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles B. Slade of 130 West Fifty-ninth Street, was married to Green Penn of Greensboro, N. C., yesterday afternoon at the home of her parents in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends. The bride wore the wedding gown of her great-grandmother, Marian Susanne Olinger Bach. It was of fine white mull, heavily embroidered many years ago by the nuns in the Sacred Heart Convent in Metz, France. This gown also was worn by the bride's grandmother and mother at their marriages. Miss Bertha C. Bates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Towar Bates, was the bride's only attendant.

Buckley—Farrall.

In the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, Seventy-first Street and Broadway, yesterday afternoon, Miss Margaret V. Farrall, daughter of Mrs. William W. Farrall of 253 West Seventy-sixth Street and the late Mr. Farrall, was married to Assemblyman John L. Buckley of the Seventh District, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Buckley of 346 West Seventy-first Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas M. Hines, an old friend and classmate of the bridegroom.

The bride entered the church with her uncle, Dr. William H. McMann of Boston. She wore a gown of white satin with a long court train, and a point lace veil. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. John A. Yunck Jr., as matron of honor, and the Misses Grace Buckley, sister of the bridegroom, and Flavia Riggio. Their gowns were of chiffon in rainbow colors, and they wore hats to match.

Thomas K. Clifford was best man for Mr. Buckley, whose ushers were Alderman Walter Hagan, Robert C. Canty, Thomas J. Torpy and Michael F. Pinto.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the Hotel Majestic, after which Mr. Buckley and his bride left for a short wedding trip South. They will live at 105 West Seventy-third Street.

The bridegroom, who is serving his second terms as Assemblyman for the Seventh District, is a member of the law firm of Peaslee, Brigham & Gennert of this city.

Creange—Werba.

Miss Lillian L. Werba, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Werba, was married to Arthur L. Creange of this city last night at the Hotel Alamac, where her parents make their home. The ceremony, which was witnessed by near relatives, was performed by the bride's uncle, Justice Mitchell Erlanger. Among the guests were: A. L. Erlanger, Miss Ray Erlanger, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bergman of Buffalo, William Bergman, Miss Jane Erdman and Miss Rita Creange. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Creange left for Havana, Cuba.

Harford—Erickson.

GREENWICH, Conn., Jan. 20.—Miss Josephine Erickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Erickson of Sound Beach, Greenwich, was married to Captain Keiran Harford in St. John's Roman Catholic Church, Stamford, this morning at 9 o'clock. Father Callahan performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Mollie Mulvaney, and Captain Harford had as his best man Thomas F. Lynch, who was his companion through many war experiences. Captain and Mrs. Harford will reside in Glenbrook, Conn.

Weindieck—Seaverns.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 20.—Miss Alma Paton Seaverns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phelps Seaverns of this city, was married to William Casper Weindieck of New York City in Trinity Church tonight. The Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, pastor of the church, officiated.

Miss Seaverns was escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. Miss Sylvia Hope Gilman of New York was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Ruth Brooks of New York, Miss Gladys Lian, Miss Helen Marie Greene and Miss Mary C. Corcoran of Boston, Miss Mildred Chipman of West Medford and Miss Abigail Thompson of Newburyport.

Willard Wileman, of Brookline, was best man. The ushers were Harold I. Angell of Portland, Maine; William D. Luhrs, Charles G. Tate, Carroll Anthony, Richard Anthony, Henry L. Castle, Harry W. Bease, and George W. Suder, all of Brookline; Milton S. Thompson Jr., of Newburyport; Kenneth D. Hutchinson of Wakefield, and Clement L. Hayes and George C. Corcoran, both of Boston.

Organ music was supplemented by selections from a group of Boston Symphony Orchestra players. The ceremony was followed by a reception and dance in the State suite at the Copley Plaza Hotel.

The wedding trip of Mr. and Mrs. Weindieck will take them to Florida resorts, Nassau and Cuba.

TODAY'S WEDDINGS.

GIVE COSTUME FETE AT COLONY CLUB

W. T. Carringtons' Guests in Dress of 16th, 17th and 18th Centuries in France.

MUSIC OF PERIODS PLAYED

Guests Dance Gavottes and Minuets —Stars of Stage and Opera in the Gay Throng.

Mr. and Mrs. William Theodore Carrington of 760 Park Avenue gave a novel costume party last night in the ballroom of the Colony Club. They called it "Une Fête Bleue Poudré," and it was, in fact, rather a forerunner of the Beaux Arts Ball of Jan. 29. The costumes were those of the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, following in detail those worn at the courts of the various Kings of France during those periods. The ballroom was decorated with hangings of blue and silver.

In advance of the entertainment, dinners were given at their homes by Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Rosen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barney Harding, Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Cravath, Mr. and Mrs. J. Norrish Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Sanderson and Mrs. George B. Hopkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Carrington received their guests at the entrance of the ballroom. Mrs. Carrington's costume was of royal blue velvet draped with beautiful point lace. Her jewels were of sapphires and pearls.

The music was in keeping with the period and was by Georges Barrère with his flute ensemble. Mme. Elva Gauthier gave French and Canadian folksongs, and Ivan Ivantzoff, Russian baritone, also sang. The dances included the gavottes and minuets of the period. Mrs. M. Jordan Robinson danced a solo gavotte. Those in the minuet were Mrs. Carrington, Mrs. Walter T. Rosen, Mrs. Julia Hoyt, Miss Rosamond Pinchot, Mackay Morris, Richard Keating, William McComas and Alexis Kosloff. Later a pas de deux was danced by Mr. Kosloff, whose partner was Miss Angna Enters. A decided feature was the dancing of a pavanne by Miss Ethel Barrymore, Mackay Morris and François Alessandro.

Among the Guests.

After this program there was general dancing, a seated supper following in the main dining room of the club. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Fincke, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bissell, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ridgway Coward, Mr. and Mrs. J. Horace Harding, Mr. and Mrs. John N. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Robin Grant, grandson and secretary of the Earl of Rosebery, former Prime Minister, married Miss Mary Young, a dressmaker's model, recently. News of the wedding surprised the parents of both the bridegroom and the bride today. The bridegroom is the son of Colonel Charles John Cecil Grant and Lady Sybil Grant, eldest daughter of Lord Rosebery. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. W. H. Wood and a granddaughter of the late Major Gen. Sir George French.

MERCIER RESISTS ILLNESS.

Cardinal Kagar to Discuss Union of Churches With Lord Halifax.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 20 (F).—Though his recovery is deemed well-nigh hopeless, Cardinal Mercier continues to display unusual resistance to the ravages of disease, surprising his physicians by the manner in which he has withstood pain, lack of nourishment and recurring heart attacks.

The Cardinal looks forward to a visit tomorrow from Lord Halifax, President of the English Church Union, with whom he has been associated in the attempt to bring about a union of the Anglican and Roman Catholic Churches. Another visitor awaited with deepest interest is Crown Prince Leopold, who will return to Brussels tomorrow after an extended absence.

Mrs. C. Vanderbilt Better.

It was said yesterday at the residence of General Cornelius Vanderbilt, 640 Fifth Avenue, that Mrs. Vanderbilt, the former Grace Wilson, who has been ill for several days, was feeling better.

MARY V. LORILLARD ENGAGED TO MARRY

MISS HOLLISTER TO WED

Junior League Member Betrothed to Richard E. Burdett of Harvard Club — Other Engagements.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Lorillard have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Van R. Lorillard, to Gordon F. Cronkite, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elisha P. Cronkite of 950 Park Avenue. The announcement was made from South Carolina, where Mr. and Mrs. Lorillard have a plantation at Yemassee, where they have spent much time since selling their home at 53 East Sixty-seventh Street.

Miss Lorillard, who made her début in this city and is a member of the Junior League, has been prominently identified with New York social life. She is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lorillard and of the late Mr. and Mrs. John H. Screven of New York.

Mr. Cronkite attended Pomfret School and was graduated from Williams College in 1920. During the war he served with the Marines. He has been living for two years in the West, dividing his time between California and Colorado Springs. Miss Lorillard, with her parents and her brother, Screven Lorillard, spent the greater part of last Summer at the Broadmoor Hotel, in Colorado Springs.

The marriage of the couple will take place in this city during the Spring.

Hollister—Burdett.

Mrs. George Clay Hollister of Lawrence Park, Bronxville, gave a luncheon at the Colony Club yesterday to announce the engagement of her daughter, Miss Martha Hollister, to Richard Ellis Burdett, formerly of Springfield, Mass., who now makes his home in this city. The date for the wedding has not been set.

Miss Hollister is a graduate of the Westover School and of Mme. Puyan's School in Paris. She also has studied at Columbia University. She made her début two years ago at the Colony Club, and is a member of that club and of the Junior League. Miss Hollister is President of the Westchester County Field Hockey Association. Her sister, Miss Anita Hollister, is a débutante of this season.

Mr. Burdett was graduated from Harvard in 1919, and during the war he served as an Ensign in the navy. He is a member of the Harvard Club and is in business in New York.

DeLamater—Hellier.

Mr. and Mrs. Oakley R. DeLamater of Eaton's Neck, Northport, L. I., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Hasbrouck DeLamater, to Walter Harmon Hellier of Boston and Marion, Mass. Miss DeLamater is a granddaughter of Mrs. Price Wetherell Hasbrouck and a great-granddaughter of the late Cornelius H. DeLamater of this city. Mr. Hellier was graduated from Yale in 1916, and served during the war in the French Ambulance service and the Royal Flying Corps.

Moody—Case.

EAST NORTHFIELD, Mass., Jan. 20 (AP).—The engagement of Miss Constance Moody, a granddaughter of Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist, to William Waldo Case of Farmington, Conn., was announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Revell Moody of East Northfield. Miss Moody's father is head of the Northfield Seminary for Girls and the Mount Hermon School for Boys.

Wed on Day She Obtained Divorce.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Jan. 20.—The marriage of Mrs. Louise A. Pilgerman Ludewig and Herman V. Dettmer, both of Greenwich, was announced today. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace W. S. M. Fiske last Friday afternoon, and on Saturday the couple left for Miami, Fla., where the bridegroom has real estate interests. Mrs. Ludewig, a native of Germany, was married to her first husband, Mr. Pilgerman, a member of the German Army, in Germany. He was killed during the war. Later she married Max F. Ludewig, and recently she brought suit for divorce against her second husband in the Superior Court, Bridgeport, on the ground of desertion. The day she received her decree from the Superior Court she married Mr. Dettmer.

Junior Leagues in Conference.

A conference of Section 2, National Association of Junior Leagues of America, was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Carlton H. Palmer, Regional Vice President, 206 Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn. Among the cities represented were Albany, Buffalo, Brooklyn, Elizabeth, Kingston, Montclair, Newburgh, New York, South Orange, Plainfield, Syracuse, Trenton, Poughkeepsie, Utica and Toronto. The conference discussed the financial policy of the leagues in raising funds for their numerous charities. Among the speakers were Mrs. Charles A. Lindley, Mrs. Pleasants Pennington, Mrs. Walter Bartlett and Miss Chloe Garrison.

Vicomtesse de Fontenay to Depart.

The Vicomtesse de Fontenay, wife of a former French Ambassador to Spain, who has been visiting Miss Margaret Strong, a granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, at 125 East Sixty-third Street, will leave today to visit relatives in Summerville, S. C. While there she will place a wreath on the grave of General Thomas Sumter, great-grandfather of her husband. On her return to New York the Vicomtesse will rejoin Miss Strong and early next month will return to her home in Versailles.

Mrs. W. Eugene Parsons Hostess.

Mrs. W. Eugene Parsons of 43 East Seventy-eighth Street gave a luncheon yesterday at Sherry's. Among her guests were Mrs. Edward Scott of Richmond, Va., Mrs. William Henry Harrison, Mrs. Robert B. Livingston, Mrs. Ten Eyck Wendell, Mrs. Lawrence Parsons, Mrs. José V. Cautivia, Mrs. Arthur Ryle and Miss Virginia Roosevelt.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Securities Uncertain Because of 'Brokerage Loan Reports,' but Close With Gains.

The reaction of the security market to the announcement that the Federal Reserve Bank and the New York Stock Exchange will compile and publish the totals of call and time loans was, first, a wave of liquidation, which swept the prices of many shares to their lowest levels of the year before the noon-hour yesterday. This was followed by an equally sharp upward movement which left the market at the close at moderately higher levels than at the end of the previous day, and with gains ranging from fractions to as much as three to five points in the more active stocks. Naturally, these divergent movements caused great confusion to those who look upon the stock market as a barometer for business. Possibly, they mean nothing at all and represent merely the jostling about of prices in an endeavor to find an equilibrium from which a new start may be made.

Wall Street spent most of yesterday discussing and speculating on the probable effects under the new order of things, whereby the record of the actual amount of money loaned on Stock Exchange collateral will be available to the general public. The conclusion reached by many yesterday was that in the long run the publication of the totals will be a good thing, that such publication will not only furnish an excellent index of the proportion of funds used in speculation, but also will take the mystery out of an important phase of the general financial situation. Those who would like to see prices lower were quick to interpret the development as a gesture toward regulation. It is probably this interpretation which caused a great deal of heavy speculative selling in the market yesterday morning. At the same time there is no evidence that any restrictions are to be placed on the market. Probably a repetition of such a "boom" in stocks as occurred during the rise in the motor shares last Fall would bring such an increase in loans to brokers as to furnish a natural corrective when these figures are published. Interest in the development, however, will not subside until the first statements have been made and Wall Street has become accustomed to this new source of official information.

Money continued easy yesterday with the renewal rate at 4 per cent. for the first time in more than a week. It is worthy of note that both time and call funds are in such plentiful supply that most of the official rates can be shaded on offerings. There appears to be no limit to the amount of funds flowing in on banks in the financial district. In some respects, at least, the condition is abnormal because the surplus, whatever it may be, probably will be taken up by the ordinary demands of business on the opening of Spring. At any rate, the money situation is a very comfortable one and one which causes no apprehension as to any immediate change.

In other directions than on the Stock Exchange the markets were humdrum affairs, representing merely small deals in which speculative operations played a measurable part but which were not of sufficient importance to create any but minor movements. Wheat prices were approximately 1 cent lower but cotton was a little higher on the statement by the Department of Agriculture that unless unfavorable weather develops during the Winter a more severe infestation by the boll weevil may be expected this Spring.

Revision of official figures of the productive capacity of the country, commented upon in the steel reviews, indicate that the industry in December ran at 90.5 per cent. of its maximum practical production in steel ingots and at 85.5 per cent. in pig iron.

TO LINK $500,000,000 POWER PROPERTIES

Terms Announced for Merging of Companies as the Northeastern Corporation.

300,000 SHARES TO PUBLIC

First Stock Offering Is Oversubscribed—New Company to Acquire Power Corporation of New York.

The long-awaited formal announcement of the Northeastern Power Corporation, which is to link public utilities extending across New York and Massachusetts from Buffalo to Boston and reaching into Connecticut, Rhode Island and Vermont, was made yesterday. The properties to be linked have a valuation in excess of $500,000,000.

Among the interests represented on the Board of Directors of the company are the General Electric Company, Power Corporation of New York, Mohawk-Hudson Power Corporation, Buffalo, Niagara and Eastern Power Corporation and the New England Power Association, successor to the New England Company. The territory covered by the merger consumed 6,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of electrical energy last year. The new company is to acquire the Power Corporation of New York through an exchange of stock and is to purchase for cash 173,333 shares of common stock in the New England Power Association.

The Northeastern Power Corporation was chartered this week with an authorized common stock capital of 5,000,000 shares, of which 2,080,842 shares are to be presently outstanding. An offering of 300,000 shares of the new company's common stock yesterday by a group headed by F. L. Carlisle & Co., Inc., at $35 was oversubscribed in advance. The stock represents part of the shares subscribed for by Carlisle & Co. and the Eastern States Power Corporation, an investing company controlled by the former company.

Of the 2,080,842 to be outstanding soon, 1,000,000 shares have been issued for cash to F. L. Carlisle & Co., Eastern States Power Corporation, Electric Investors, Inc., Niagara Share Corporation, Schoellkopf, Hutton & Pomeroy, Inc., Schoellkopf Securities Corporation and the United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia.

Power Corporation of New York shareholders have two options in exchanging their stock for stock in the new company. The first provides for exchanging one share of Power Corporation common for two shares of common and one-sixth of one share of Class A stock of Northeastern Power. The second provides for exchanging one share of Power Corporation common for two and one-half shares of Northeastern common.

It was announced that holders of 66 2-3 per cent. of Power Corporation common have accepted the exchange offer and that it was expected 90 per cent. of outstanding Power Corporation common would be exchanged for Northeastern common on the two and one-half share basis. The Power Corporation is controlled by the Carlisle interests.

The holdings of New England Association common stock give the Northeastern Power Corporation 33 1-3 per cent. or the largest single common stock holding in the association, it was stated. The International Paper Company and Stone & Webster, Inc., also have substantial holdings in the association. Stone & Webster have placed a substantial portion of their subscription in the association with the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, Turners Falls Power and Electric Company, United Electric Light Company of Springfield, Hartford Electric Light Company and Blackstone Valley Gas and Electric Company.

The New England Power Association owns substantially all the common stock of the New England Power Company, Connecticut River Power Company, Bellows Falls Power Company and Rhode Island Transmission Company. The Power Corporation of New York system comprises the Power Corporation of New York, Power and Electric Securities Corporation, Port Covington Light, Heat and Power Company, Northern New York Utilities, Inc., Malone Light and Power Company and the Milling and Lighting Company of Brasher Falls.

The Power Corporation also owns a 15 per cent. common stock interest in the Mohawk-Hudson Power Corporation, which controls the Adirondack Power and Light Corporation, Cohoes Power and Light Corporation, Utica Gas and Electric Company, Municipal Gas Company of Albany and Fulton Gas and Electric Company.

The Buffalo, Niagara and Eastern Power Corporation was formed last year to acquire stock control of the Buffalo General Electric Company, Niagara Falls Company, Niagara, Lockport and Ontario Power Company and Tonawanda Power Company. It and the Niagara Share Corporation are Schoellkopf organizations.

Officers of the new corporation are F. L. Carlisle, Chairman of the board; H. E. Machold, President; H. I. Harriman, Vice President; J. N. Carlisle, Vice President; C. E. Norris, Vice President; R. K. Ferguson, Secretary, and F. A. Rogers, Treasurer.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Prices rallied sharply on the Stock Exchange yesterday following weakness at the opening. The upward move in the last hour was so swift that gains of one to three points or more were recorded in most of the active issues, some of which more than recovered Tuesday's loss. The professional element, which was first inclined to view unfavorably the new policy of making public information covering the volume of funds loaned on securities, sold heavily at the opening. This carried many issues down to the lowest levels for the current year, but before the close the earlier sellers were the most anxious bidders for stock when the trend turned sharply upward. Even during the morning reaction several stocks stood out because of their strength. These included United States Rubber and National Biscuit, the latter selling at the highest price in its history. Other issues which attracted more than the usual attention included Steel common, American Can, Atlantic Coast, which jumped six points between sales; General Motors, Frisco, Southern Railway, Pacific Oil and Associated Oil.

Publicity for Brokers' Loans.

Various views were expressed in Wall Street yesterday regarding the new rule providing publicity for the amounts of brokers' loans. Some traders and bankers said it would make little actual difference, and that the banks would continue their loaning activities on the same basis as heretofore. In itself, of course, the action of the Federal Reserve authorities in calling for the reports would not restrict loans to brokers, for the Reserve banks have no jurisdiction over members' loans, and even if such control were to be introduced the gap would be quickly filled by financial institutions outside the reserve system. One effect anticipated was that outside interests, financial and otherwise, would obtain a clearer idea of the technical position of the money market. This was considered important, as it was unofficially estimated that out-of-town banks had been supplying something like 60 per cent. of the money for stock and bond loans in the last year.

Some Missing Figures.

One of the comments in the financial district yesterday was that, even with the double check provided by the Federal Reserve Bank and Stock Exchange reports of brokerage loans, a great many loans made in New York on Stock Exchange collateral would never see the light of day in these compilations. For instance, the big Canadian banks, which, of course, will make no report on their stock loans in New York, are extremely heavy lenders in the New York call-money market and not necessarily to Stock Exchange members. Then, too, there are some good-sized blocks of funds owned by other foreign banks on deposit here which frequently are put to work in the call or time market.

Business Optimistic on Taxes.

A feeling of optimism prevails in financial and business circles regarding the taxation outlook, despite the annoyance caused by the current changes in rates originally proposed and the uncertainty over the final result. Most business men, however, consider that many of the proposals now being put forward are in the nature of trading offers, and that equitable compromises will be reached before the final sessions. The advance in the corporation tax to 13½ per cent., taken in connection with the abolishment of the capital stock tax, is regarded favorably in the main, and it was said that computations of actual taxes on the old and the new basis by several business houses had shown that the figures were so nearly the same that the change would make little difference. In general, the new tax measure is expected to exert a favorable influence on business.

Out of a Rut.

The development of yesterday's market, which was commented upon most generally in the brokerage letters which went out over the wires last night, was that since the first of the year the market had been sliding along in a rut and that it has needed just such a reaction as that of the last two days to get it back on solid ground.

***

New Southwest Systems.

There is no question in the minds of railroad men but that new carrier groupings are being arranged in the Southwest to compete with the system proposed by L. F. Loree. Executives of the roads involved are doing all in their power to keep the line-ups from becoming known, but information leaked through that the St. Louis-San Francisco probably would be linked with the Missouri Pacific and the Rock Island, with the Southern Pacific. Groupings of this character and that proposed by Mr. Loree, which includes the Kansas City Southern, St. Louis Southwestern and Missouri-Kansas-Texas, would go far, it was said, to meet the demand by the public that a degree of competition be maintained in the territory.

***

Customer Ownership Sales.

The extent to which customer ownership of public utility stocks is increasing is shown by a statement of a large utility system which disclosed that the number of its customer-owners increased by 17,200, to 82,500, last year. Sales of preferred shares by this company set a record by an increase of 12.88 per cent. Its experience is considered typical of all companies in the field which have resorted to this method of raising capital. Some power companies have varied the plan by selling gold notes to customers. Traction companies also have adopted the plan.

Better Dividend News.

Numerous extra or increased dividend payments were announced yesterday and one coal company which suspended dividends last Summer resumed payments. The announcements yesterday were the most favorable for any day thus far in the new year. Stewart-Warner directors increased the dividend to a regular $6 annual dividend basis. Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company declared an extra cash and stock dividend on both classes of common shares, and an initial dividend was declared on the new stock of the Ingersoll-Rand Company. Directors of the Consolidation Coal Company resumed payments on the preferred. While this news made favorable reading for the rank and file in the financial district, professionals and the public in general were looking forward to the meeting of Steel corporation directors, scheduled for next Tuesday. According to reports yesterday, Wall Street is expecting some extra "dessert" in the matter of a large payment above the regular quarterly dividend. The recent policy of the company has been to declare 50 cents in addition to the regular $1.25 quarterly dividend.

England Gets New Gold.

The position of sterling exchange continues to attract more than ordinary attention in the financial district. Following the heavy buying and the advance to new high records in recent days, it was natural that a reaction such as yesterday's should occur. Considering the accumulation of profit-taking sales by previous buyers, the decline was small and the undertone continued healthy. The demand for sterling in New York continues broad and the market easily absorbs all offerings. A close watch is being kept here on the Bank of England's gold operations. The Bank continues to receive new gold, but the outward movement has not yet ceased, as had been expected. The demand from the rubber countries has diminished, but has not been eliminated, and in addition to these shipments England recently has sent considerable gold to some of the colonies.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 20, 1926.

Plenty of money again appeared on the Stock Exchange, the volume being fully as large as that offered on earlier days of the week. However, demand was very light, even withdrawals running to a small figure. The official quotation was 4 per cent., but in the "Street" market loans were arranged at 3½ per cent. Time money market was quiet, not much of anything being done except a small amount of sixty-day funds at 4¾ per cent. Longer dates were bid at 4¾ per cent., but no trades were reported. Commercial paper and acceptances were unchanged.

The National Park Bank of New York, Transfer Agent; The American Exchange-Pacific National Bank, New York, Registrar. Dividends free of the present Normal Federal Income Tax.

One share of Common Stock will be delivered with each share of First Preferred Stock

German Credit & Investment Corporation has been organized under the laws of Maryland to afford investors an opportunity to participate in investments and loans in Germany, Central Europe and elsewhere. The present widespread demand for capital on the part of foreign industrial companies whose individual requirements are limited to comparatively moderate sums and which therefore cannot go into the public money market, offers attractive opportunities for the employment of capital abroad. The corporation may also do business in the United States. The corporation proposes to use the services of German Securities Trustee Company (Deutsche Kreditsicherung A.G.), of Berlin, in connection with the investigation and administration of loans and investments in Germany. As provided in the By-laws, a majority of the Board of Directors of the corporation shall be citizens of the United States.

CAPITALIZATION

The authorized and issued capitalization of German Credit & Investment Corporation, upon completion of this financing and upon payment of the entire allotment price if called, will be as follows:

First Preferred Stock ($7 per annum Cumulative Dividend)
Without par value (Now offered under Allotment Certificates)	100,000 Shares
Second Preferred Stock ($6 per annum Cumulative Dividend)
Without par value (To be purchased for cash)	20,000 Shares
Common Stock
Without par value	500,000 Shares
(100,000 Shares to go with First Preferred Stock, the balance to go to the organizers and the purchasers of Second Preferred Stock.)

The entire proceeds of the Allotment Certificates, less selling commissions only, will be paid to the corporation as received. Messrs. Dillon, Read & Co., United States & Foreign Securities Corporation, Mendelssohn & Co., Berlin and Amsterdam, Disconto-Gesellschaft, Berlin, Deutsche Kreditsicherung A. G., Berlin, and associates will purchase from the corporation all the Second Preferred Stock and the balance of the Common Stock, over and above the amount to go with the First Preferred Stock, for the aggregate amount of $2,000,000 in cash, which will be used to establish a general reserve and an equity for the First Preferred Stock.

GERMAN SECURITIES TRUSTEE COMPANY—(DEUTSCHE KREDITSICHERUNG A.G.)

German Securities Trustee Company (Deutsche Kreditsicherung A.G.) of Berlin, exercises trusteeship of the commodities and mortgages securing various American loans to leading German industrials, including the Siemens group of electrical concerns, the Rheinelbe-Union steel group, the Thyssen companies and others. It has since 1920 supervised securities for the 140,000,000 Guilders credit advanced by the Netherlands Government to German industry. It has thus far carried through all credits supervised by it without loss of any kind to the lender.

Dr. Alexander Kreuter, President of German Credit & Investment Corporation, is also the active managing member on the Board of Directors of German Securities Trustee Company, of which he was one of the organizers. Among the leading men in German industry on the Board of Directors of German Securities Trustee Company are:

Dr. Kurt Sorge, Berlin, Honorary Chairman of the Association of German Industries;
Dr. Maximilian Kempner, Berlin, Chairman of the German Potash Syndicate;
Carl F. von Siemens, Berlin, Chairman of the Board of Siemens & Halske A.G. and Siemens Schuckertwerke G.m.b.H.;
Felix Deutsch, Berlin, Chairman of the Executive Committee of General Electric Company, Germany (Allgemeine Elektricitäts Gesellschaft);
Dr. Albert Voegler, Dortmund, Chairman of the Board of Deutsch-Luxemburgische Bergwerks-und Hütten A.G.; and
Dr. Carl Duisberg, Leverkusen, Chairman of the Association of German Dyestuffs Industries.

ALLOTMENT CERTIFICATES

The corporation will issue in the first instance Allotment Certificates each calling for delivery, as stated below, of one or more shares of First Preferred Stock and a like number of shares of Common Stock. On delivery of Allotment Certificates 25% of the allotment price will be payable. Subsequent calls may be made in the discretion of the Board of Directors, but not earlier than three months after the initial payment of 25%. As to be more fully provided in the Allotment Certificates: (a) holders of Certificates who fail to make payment of calls thereon as due will at the option of the corporation forfeit all rights thereunder, including all prior payments thereon; (b) holders of Certificates upon which payments as called shall have been made, will be entitled to receive currently dividends on the First Preferred Stock represented thereby in proportion to the amount of the allotment price paid thereon; (c) holders of Certificates will have the option of paying the allotment price in full on any dividend date after August 1, 1928, except that the corporation may at any time elect not to call for payment of the entire allotment price and in that case the corporation will deliver, on surrender of Allotment Certificates, shares of First Preferred Stock represented thereby in proportion to the amount of the allotment price paid thereon, together with a like number of shares of Common Stock; (d) holders of Certificates upon payment of the entire allotment price, as above, will be entitled to receive subsequent dividends in full and on February 1, 1931 (or earlier at the option of the corporation), to receive stock certificates for the First Preferred Stock and Common Stock called for by such Allotment Certificates.

We offer these Allotment Certificates for delivery when, as and if issued and accepted by us, and subject to the approval of all legal matters by our counsel. It is expected that deliveries will be made, in the form of temporary Allotment Certificates of the corporation or Interim Receipts of Dillon, Read & Co., on or about February 1, 1926.

Allotment Price $100—25% Payable on Delivery

COAL COMPANY RESUMES

Stewart-Warner Goes on $6 Basis—Ingersoll-Rand Declares—Other Dividend Action.

The list of dividend announcements by domestic corporations yesterday was the largest for any single day during the current year.

Directors of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, which issued the most favorable earnings statement in its history, declared an extra cash dividend of $1 a share in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on both the common and Class B stocks. In addition the directors also declared a stock dividend of Class B common on both the common and Class B shares. All dividends are payable March 1, to stockholders of record Feb. 10.

Directors of the Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation declared a quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share, placing the capital stock on a $6 annual basis. The dividend is payable Feb. 15, to stockholders of record Jan. 30. During 1925, the company paid quarterly dividends of $1.25 a share, and an extra dividend of $1, making a total of $6 for the year. Following the meeting it was said that due to the corporation's many subsidiaries, the 1925 annual report had not been completed, but was expected to be ready in a short time.

Declares Initial Dividend.

An initial dividend of 75 cents a share was declared on the new common stock of the Ingersoll-Rand Company, placing it on a $3 annual basis. The dividend is payable March 1, to stockholders of record Jan. 30. The company's shares were recently split up on a four-for-one basis, so that the current dividend is equivalent to $12 a share on the old stock, on which $3 annually was paid prior to the change.

Announcement was made of the resumption of dividend payments on the preferred stock of the Consolidation Coal Company. Directors declared a dividend of $1.75 a share, payable Feb. 20, to stockholders of record Feb. 10. This dividend was due to have been paid June 1, 1925. A total of $5.50 in dividends is overdue on this issue.

Directors of the New Cornelia Copper Company declared a quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share payable Feb. 25, to stockholders of record Feb. 5. Previously the company had been paying dividends at the rate of 25 cents a share quarterly.

The Board of Directors of the Guenther Publishing Company declared an annual dividend of 10 per cent. on the preferred and a 10 per cent. dividend to apply to deferred payments. Both dividends are payable quarterly, Feb. 14, May 15, Aug. 15 and Nov. 16 to stockholders of record Jan. 16, April 15, July 15 and Oct. 15, respectively.

Directors of the C. C. Spring and Bumper Company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 10 cents a share on the common, payable Feb. 15, to stockholders of record Feb. 8. An extra dividend of 5 cents a share was declared payable with the regular dividend.

Victor Metal Products Action.

The Victor Metal Products Corporation of Brooklyn declared a dividend of 1¼ per cent. on the common and 1¾ per cent. on the preferred, both covering the final quarter of 1925.

Directors of the Pierce, Butler & Pierce Manufacturing Company declared the regular quarterly dividends of 1¾ per cent. on the 7 per cent. preferred and 2 per cent. on the 8 per cent. preferred, both payable Feb. 1, to stockholders of record Jan. 20.

The Vanadium Corporation announced the declaration of a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the capital stock payable Feb. 15, to stockholders of record Feb. 1.

Directors of the Ventura Consolidated Oilfields declared the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, payable Feb. 1, to stockholders of record Jan. 15.

The National Supply Company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the common, payable Feb. 15, to stockholders of record Feb. 5.

The regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share was declared on the capital stock of the Pennok Oil Company, payable March 25, to stockholders of record March 15.

Directors of the Procter & Gamble Company declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share on the common stock, payable Feb. 15, to stockholders of record Jan. 25.

The Famous Players Canadian Corporation declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the first preference stock, payable March 1, to stockholders of record Feb. 20.

The Fairbanks-Morse Company announced declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the preferred stock, payable March 1, to stockholders of record Feb. 15.

$10,000,000 GOLD BARS COMING FROM CHILE

Sent by Banco Central—Japan Consigning $1,000,000 of Metal Tomorrow.

A cablegram from the Banco Central de Chile, Santiago, Chile, announced yesterday the shipment of $10,000,000 in gold bars to its correspondent, the National Bank of Commerce in New York. It was announced also that Señor Don Ismael Tocornal had been elected President and Señor Don Aureliano Barr gerente general of the Banco Central, the new central bank of issue of Chile, which opened on Jan. 21.

The gold shipment from Chile attracted interest in connection with recent reports that that country is about to arrange for a loan in New York. It floated a bond issue of more than $10,000,000 in London this week, after subscribing an issue of more than $50,000,000, and is expected to arrange American advances to round out the national financial program.

Japan also announced a gold shipment yesterday. It amounts to $1,000,000 and will be carried by a steamship leaving Yokohama tomorrow. This makes a total of about $12,000,000 shipped by Japan on the movement which started last September. Japan's trade position has been steadily improving for months, and if the present trend continues the Government is expected soon to lift the embargo against gold exports. The present exports are being made under special arrangements for the support of exchange, but the embargo declared during the war is still in effect.

RAIL MERGERS LOOM TO FIGHT LOREE'S

Combination of St. Louis-San Francisco and Missouri Pacific Is Reported.

ROCK ISLAND ROAD MAY GO

Acquisition by Southern Pacific Is Rumored—Loree Consolidations Still Undergoing Refinements.

Important consolidations are taking form in the Southwest, it was learned yesterday, to provide active competition for the group of railroads which Leonor F. Loree hopes to weld into a system acceptable to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Mr. Loree's system is still undergoing refinements in the hands of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and by the time it is made public the rival roads expect to have some plans of their own which will effectively prevent a transportation monopoly in the territory.

On the one hand, it is reported, the directors of the St. Louis-San Francisco have arranged to blend their property into the Missouri Pacific, and on the other active speculation is going on in the Rock Island on the possibility that it will go to the Southern Pacific.

The uniting of the St. Louis-San Francisco and the Missouri Pacific would mean the reunion of two properties which the late George Jay Gould conceived as forming part of a coast-to-coast system, but which met financial distress along with the collapse of the other Gould roads.

The last of the railroads to be controlled by the Gould family was the St. Louis Southwestern, or Cotton Belt, which is now controlled by Mr. Loree and in direct competition with the other Gould properties in that territory. The Rock Island hoped to acquire the St. Louis Southwestern, but, upon indication from the Interstate Commerce Commission that the acquisition would not be approved, sold its holdings to Mr. Loree, who has announced that he will join it to the Kansas City Southern and the Missouri-Kansas-Texas.

RULE ON TRADING IN 'RIGHTS'

Exchange Fixes Time Limit for Cash Sales and Delivery.

The following resolution, dealing with transactions in "rights," has been added to the constitution of the New York Curb Exchange:

"Resolved, that until further notice dealings for cash in rights to subscribe on the expiration date in New York shall cease at 1:30 P. M. That should the expiration date fall on a Saturday the time limit for trading shall be 10:45 A. M., and that rights sold for cash on the last day must be delivered not later than 2:15 P. M., except on Saturdays, when deliveries should be made not later than 11:30 A. M.; and be it further,

"Resolved, in view of the fact that it is the custom to quote rights for cash on securities which are payable in other cities, a proper period in advance of the expiration date, to allow for transit to that city, until further notice, dealings for cash in rights to subscribe shall cease at 1:30 P. M. on the date fixed by the Exchange, when the rights shall sell for cash. That should the date fixed by the Exchange when rights shall sell for cash fall on Saturday the time limit for trading shall be 10:45 A. M., and that rights sold for cash on the last day must be delivered not later than 2:15 P. M., except on Saturdays, when deliveries should be made not later than 11:30 A. M., and that the Secretary be and he is hereby instructed to post a copy of this resolution upon the bulletin board and also to forward same to each regular and associate member of the Exchange."

FIGHT REORGANIZATION PLAN

New York Bankers Against Move of Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal.

Two New York investment houses, Throckmorton & Co. and Sweet, Fearey & Co., are opposed to a plan of the management for reorganizing the Mount Royal Hotel Company, Ltd., owners of the Mount Royal Hotel at Montreal, and are seeking preferred stock proxies to overthrow it. A meeting of stockholders will be held at Montreal next Monday.

The bankers say "they do not consider the plan either equitable to the preferred stockholders, beneficial to the company or in any sense necessary under existing circumstances."

For each share of $100 par value stock, carrying 20 per cent. accrued unpaid dividends, it is proposed by the company that there be exchanged $60 par value of new 6 per cent. general mortgage bonds, $45 par value new 6 per cent. income sinking fund bonds and $2 in cash, the interest on the general mortgage bonds to be guaranteed by the United Hotels Company of America.

BANKS HOLD ELECTIONS.

Several Promotions Announced—Officers Remain Unchanged.

Boyd G. Curts and Artemus L. Gates were elected Vice Presidents of the New York Trust Company, and A. C. Downing was appointed Secretary, at a meeting of the Board of Trustees yesterday. Other appointments, all of which were promotions, were: Lindsey Bradford, Clarence E. Hunter and John Murray Mitchell, Assistant Vice Presidents; Sidney B. Silleck, Trust Officer, and Manice de F. Lockwood and William J. Mackey, Assistant Treasurers. All other officers were re-elected.

Stockholders of the Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Company re-elected the retiring Board of Directors without change at the annual meeting.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Seventh National Bank of New York, Julius Blaumer, Vice President, was elected to the board. Directors re-elected officers of the bank.

Central America Roads Gain.

The International Railways of Central America report December gross revenues of $611,462, against $535,460 last year, and balance after taxes of $368,531, against $295,212. Gross for the twelve months was $6,943,695, compared with $5,304,393, making a balance applicable to common stock of $1,991,056, compared with $675,813 for 1924. This represents earnings per share for 1925 of $4.20, compared with $2.90 the previous year.

$354,150 to G. E. Workers.

The General Electric Company paid to dependents of 268 employes a total of $354,150 under the group insurance plan in 1925. This insurance is provided free to employes who have been with the company for a year or more and ranges from $500 to $1,500 for five years' service.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Vigorous Rally in Japanese Yen the Feature—Highest Since 1923—Sterling Firm.

Japanese yen proved the feature of the business in the foreign exchanges yesterday, Yokohoma checks rising ¾ cent, to 44.68 cents, a new high since 1923. The best part of this advance was made in London before our opening, the yen starting here on higher cables, at a gain of ¼ cent, and then moving up to the new high on demand by London and Chinese speculators.

Dealers attributed the strength to the announcement 2,000,000 yen gold was coming to New York from Japan, which will bring the total exported up to date to about 12,000,000. Opinion was expressed in well-informed quarters that Japan, with her surplus stock of gold, was likely shortly to lift the embargo on gold export. This, with the improved trade position, were factors that played a prominent part in the day's rise.

While sterling did not achieve a new high, possibly because of the lessened inquiry, the pound was firm around $4.86 in the forenoon, selling off slightly on profit taking at the close. French and Belgian francs were strong, but the Scandinavians were heavy. Spanish, Italian, Swiss and Holland were dull. Brazilian milreis touched a new high at 15.08 cents. Chinese exchanges were lower.

LOAN REPORTS SEEN AS A USEFUL MOVE

Wall Street Majority Opinion Favors Federal Reserve-Exchange Plan.

CALLED STABILIZING FACTOR

A move toward greater stability was the opinion generally accepted in Wall Street yesterday concerning the new rules through which the amounts of brokers' loans will be made public by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and the Stock Exchange. Bankers pointed out that publication of the figures would give every one interested a clear idea of the technical position of the money market at all times. This was considered a useful development, even if it only served to eliminate the unofficial estimates of Wall Street loans, which were declared to have been very wide of the mark on many occasions in the past.

The course of the stock market was regarded as an indication of the Wall Street reaction to the new rules. Prices opened irregularly, and in the early trading sold considerably below the levels of the previous day. In the afternoon a strong buying movement developed and prices rallied sharply. United States Steel closed the day with a net gain of 1⅛ points and others of the more active stocks registered net advances of from 1 to 4 points.

There was no reflection of the new rules in the money market. Plenty of funds were available and the call loan rate ruled at 4 per cent., which was unchanged from the previous day, with loans in the outside market available at 3½ per cent. Time money was mostly on the basis of 4% per cent., and although 4½ per cent. was asked in some cases borrowers refused to pay this rate. Transactions in the money market were light, with the demand small, the present being regarded as an "in-between" season when requirements are comparatively few.

Many of the large brokerage houses commented on the new provisions in their market letters, and most of the views expressed were of a constructive character. Many declared it would be a good thing to give the public a clear idea of the amount of security loans outstanding, and also to show what an important factor Wall Street was in the economic life of the country. On the other hand, a minority regarded the new move as a "bearish" development, indicating a disposition on the part of the Federal Reserve authorities to restrain speculation.

The Federal Reserve reports, it was pointed out, would not be entirely an innovation, but merely an amplification of figures now issued weekly showing the total loans on stocks and bonds. The new figures, it was said, would show whether the loans were on a demand or time basis; whether they were made for the account of the reporting bank or for an out-of-town bank, and other details. As Governor D. R. Crissinger of the Federal Reserve Board pointed out in his letter requesting the change, this ought to give a better understanding of the money market and the general credit situation.

The Federal Reserve Bank already has figures showing the total of loans on stocks and bonds, and these indicate that most of the money that has been advanced for stock market use has come from banks outside of New York. This is because money accumulates in several parts of the country faster than the local commercial development can find outlets for it, and the market here provides a method of placing the surplus funds.

Reserve Bank reports show that for the whole country security loans have increased about $1,000,000,000 in the last year and of this amount banks outside of New York City have supplied about $800,000,000 and member banks in New York City about $340,000,000.

Of the present volume of stock and bond loans it was estimated that three-fifths of the total is supplied by out-of-town banks and two-fifths by New York City banks.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY RULING.

Preferred Stockholders Lose Action for Back Dividends.

All possibility of the preferred stockholders of the Southern Railway drawing upon the road for back dividends was removed yesterday when the Supreme Court of Virginia denied the writ of error asked by them, following the dismissal of their action by Judge Beverly Crump in the Law and Equity Court.

For several months the suit of the preferred stockholders in the Virginia courts restrained the directors of the Southern from increasing the dividend on the common stock from 5 to 7 per cent. When Judge Crump rendered a decision in favor of the road, however, and the probability of the preferred holders successfully appealing it dwindled, the board raised the dividend.

This increase, it was learned, is preparatory to the issuance of new common stock, for which the preferred holders will receive large subscription rights.

REMOVES TRAIN CONTROLS.

Pennsylvania Railroad Completes Tests on Lewiston Branch.

The Pennsylvania Railroad announced yesterday that the experimental train-control system which has been operated for more than two and one-half years on its Lewiston branch has served its purpose and is shortly to be discontinued. The electrical and mechanical apparatus will be removed and the block signal method resumed.

The installation was not intended to be permanent, according to Pennsylvania officials. Its object was that of test and observation. The knowledge gained is being used in train-control devices being installed on heavier traffic lines of the railroad.

Exchange Rules on Louisiana Oil.

The Committee on Securities of the New York Stock Exchange ruled yesterday that transactions in the capital stock of the Louisiana Oil Refining Corporation be quoted ex-rights Jan. 20, unless made specifically for cash. The rights may be dealt in on a "when issued" basis today. Transactions in rights must be settled Feb. 5. The right to subscribe expires Feb. 12.

*Based upon an estimate that holders of 10% of the Common Stock of The Power Corporation of New York will elect to exchange on the basis of one-sixth of a share of Class A Stock and two shares of Common Stock of Northeastern Power Corporation for each share exchanged.

†Based upon an estimate that holders of 90% of the Common Stock of The Power Corporation of New York will elect to exchange on the basis of two and one-half shares of Common Stock of Northeastern Power Corporation for each share exchanged, and including the shares to be presently issued for cash, 575,000 additional shares have been subscribed for as part of the 1,000,000 shares above mentioned, and will be issued subject to the call of the Board of Directors.

In addition to the Power Corporation of New York Common Stock to be acquired by exchange, the Northeastern Power Corporation has subscribed for 175,335 Common Shares of the New England Power Association (a Massachusetts voluntary association) which has acquired the assets of the New England Company and other properties. This subscription, to be paid in instalments, will represent 33⅓% of the Common Shares of the New England Power Association, constituting the largest single holding. Substantial subscriptions have also been made by interests connected with the International Paper Company and with Stone & Webster, Inc. The latter has placed a substantial portion of its subscription with the following: Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, the Turners Falls Power and Electric Company, United Electric Light Company of Springfield, the Hartford Electric Light Company, and the Blackstone Valley Gas and Electric Company.

Super-Power Transmission System: The properties controlled by The Power Corporation of New York, Mohawk Hudson Power Corporation, Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern Power Corporation and the New England Power Association are inter-connected by high tension transmission lines, thereby creating a super-power transmission system extending from Buffalo to Boston. The territory served is a highly developed industrial section which consumed over 6,000,000,000 K. W. H. of electrical energy during 1925. The rate of increase in the use of electricity in this territory is approximately 15% per annum.

The Power Corporation of New York and New England Power Association control 342,000 H. P. of electric generating capacity and 404,000 H. P. of undeveloped water powers which can be developed and transmitted to this market at a cost considerably less than power generated by steam and are, therefore, in a logical position to supply a large portion of the constantly increasing power demand.

Management: The management of the Corporation is in the hands of men with long and successful experience in the public utility field. The Directors of the Corporation are as follows: CHAS. S. BREWER, Chairman of the Board, Mohawk Hudson Power Corp.; ANSON W. BURCHARD, Vice-Chairman, General Electric Company; F. L. CARLISLE, Chairman of the Board; J. N. CARLISLE, President, The Power Corporation of New York; WILBUR L. CUMMINGS, Sullivan & Cromwell; W. K. DICK, President, The Dick Securities Corporation; R. K. FERGUSON, Secy. & Treas., F. L. Carlisle & Co., Inc.; H. I. HARRIMAN, President, New England Power Company; H. S. LEWIS, President, J. P. Lewis Company; H. E. MACHOLD, President; RANDALL MORGAN, Chairman, Executive and Finance Committee, United Gas Improvement Company; C. E. NORRIS, Vice-President, Eastern States Power Corporation; J. F. SCHOELLKOPF, Jr., Vice-President, Schoellkopf, Hutton & Pomeroy, Inc.; PAUL A. SCHOELLKOPF, President, Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern Power Corp.; T. J. WALSH, E. H. Rollins & Sons; M. S. WILDER, Director, Northern New York Utilities, Inc.

We offer this stock for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us. Temporary certificates will be ready for delivery on or about February 1, 1926. All legal matters in connection with this issue of stock have been passed upon by Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell, New York.

Your bonds should fit you as well as your clothes

"DON'T look so worried," an investor told a Compton salesman. "I'm merely asking you to sell my Waite Foundry bonds, and buy me some Bascom Steel bonds. You profit both ways."

"That's not the point," replied the Compton representative. "Let me think it over until tomorrow." Next day the salesman advised against the trade.

"You have plenty of marketability in your holdings, aside from these two issues. That's the only thing you would gain in the Steel issue. Besides, it is a new issue, while your Foundry bonds are seasoned. Moreover, the Waite Company has already paid in to the trustee more than double the sinking fund requirements."

Bonds you buy should be more than sound. They should fit your requirements as well as your clothes fit you. It is the Compton policy to help you and every investor to a better financial position. Your needs come first; your purchase naturally follows.

$1,200,000 EARNED BY REPUBLIC STEEL

Sum Available for Dividends in Last 1925 Quarter Equals $2.53 Per Common Share.

YEAR'S NET IS $5,828,000

Chairman of Board, in Giving Out Estimates, Says Gain Was Shown Because of New Economies.

The Republic Iron and Steel Company for the final quarter of 1925 reported earnings aggregating $1,200,000 available for dividends, according to an estimate made public following the regular meeting of the Board of Directors held yesterday. This would compare with net of $846,461 available for dividends in the September quarter and $152,832 in the December quarter, 1924. Following allowance for the regular quarterly dividend on the preferred stock, the company earned, based upon the estimate, $2.53 a share on the $30,000,000 common stock of $100 a share par value outstanding. This compares with $1.36 a share earned on the common stock for the September quarter and nothing in the December quarter of 1924.

For the full year 1925, with the December quarter estimated, the company reported net income of $5,828,000 available for dividends, which after allowing for preferred dividends would leave a balance equal to $6.49 a share earned on the outstanding common stock, against 55 cents a share earned on the common stock in 1924.

Surplus	$1,949,000	*$82,218	$3,062,218

†December quarter estimated. ‡Includes 1 per cent. on account of back dividends in 1924 and 6 per cent. in 1923. *Deficit.

Directors of the company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the outstanding preferred stock, payable April 1 to stockholders of record March 15.

Following the meeting of directors, John A. Topping, Chairman of the board, said that earnings for the last quarter of the year showed a substantial gain, due to the increased volume of business and more economical operations resulting from the recent improvements to plant and equipment.

NEW LEE RUBBER STOCK.

Process of Issue Will Cut Bank Debt —11 Months' Income Was $286,538.

The Lee Rubber and Tire Company in a report to the New York Stock Exchange for the eleven months ended Nov. 30, 1925, shows net income of $286,538, after expenses and depreciation reserves, equal to $1.33 a share earned on the 214,637 shares no par value capital stock outstanding at that time.

The company is offering to stockholders the opportunity to subscribe for 35,163 shares additional capital stock at $12.50 a share on the basis of two-fifths of a new share for each share now held. Proceeds from the sale of the stock, approximating $1,000,000, will be used to reduce outstanding bank indebtedness from $2,000,000 to $1,000,000.

ACQUIRES OHIO UTILITY.

Cleveland Illuminating Company Buys Light and Power Lines.

The Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company, a subsidiary of the North American Company, has purchased the Cleveland, Painesville & Eastern Railroad Company, it was announced yesterday. Included in the purchase are the electric light and power properties, but not the railroad properties, of the United Light and Power Company, a subsidiary of the purchased company. Announcement of the price was withheld pending approval by the Ohio Public Utilities Commission.

The acquired properties serve about 7,000 consumers, whose requirements are about 14,000,000 kilowatt hours annually.

FITKIN UTILITIES BUY VIRGINIA GAS CONCERN

Newport News & Hampton Property Will Be Combined With Other Southern Companies.

Acquisition by Fitkin Utilities, Inc., of the Newport News & Hampton Railway, Gas and Electric Company of Virginia was announced yesterday at the fifth annual convention of the General Engineering and Management Corporation, the Fitkin management corporation, in the Hotel Ambassador. Stone & Webster, Inc., and the Federal Light and Traction Company had been reported as negotiating for the Newport News property, but this was the first intimation that Fitkin interests had bid for the property.

The Fitkin interests have acquired 80 per cent. of the preferred and common stocks of the Newport News property at a price understood to have been $110 a share. The property will be combined with the Virginia-Western Power Company, Virginia-Northern Power Company and other Virginia holdings in a subsidiary of the National Public Service Corporation, the Fitkin utility holding company.

Gross earnings of the Newport News property for the year ended Oct. 31 were $2,066,155. It serves without competition a population of about 60,000 persons.

STOCK CHANGE APPROVED.

Railway Steel Spring to Issue More Common—50% Share Dividend.

Stockholders of the Railway Steel Spring Company yesterday approved the recent proposal of the management for an increase in the common stock from 135,000 shares of $100 par value to 405,000 shares of $50 par value. The stockholders also approved the proposal to issue two shares of new $50 par value stock for each share of $100 stock now held.

In addition, the management will pay a 50 per cent. stock dividend, thus giving stockholders three shares of new stock for each share previously held. The stock dividend will be paid Feb. 10 to stockholders of record Jan. 27.

The plan for an increase in the voting power of the preferred stock was approved. In the future each share of stock will be entitled to three votes.

F. F. Fitzpatrick, President, recently said that in his opinion the company would be able to begin paying dividends on the new common stock at the rate of $4 per share annually, or the equivalent of $12 a share on the $100 par value common stock now outstanding.

ST. PAUL TRAFFIC GAINS.

Receiver Welcomes Publicity of Road's Finances, He Says.

H. E. Byram, former President and now a receiver of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company, commenting yesterday on the investigation of the road's finances by the Interstate Commerce Commission, said he was glad of the opportunity to present to public view all of the events leading to the receivership.

"When a great railroad fails to meet the demands of its creditors," he said, "it is virtually necessary that an investigation be carried on, and in the case of the St. Paul it was preferable to all concerned that this be done by the Interstate Commerce Commission."

Additional hearings will be held in Chicago and Seattle before arguments are heard in Washington, making it probable that the result will not be announced before late in the Summer.

"In the meantime," Mr. Byram said, "traffic of the St. Paul is gradually increasing through the efforts by the management to foster agriculture and industry."

EXCHANGE ADMITS STOCKS.

National Power & Light, Barnsdall and Vivadou Issues on List.

National Power and Light, 2,662,195 shares of common stock, without nominal or par value.

Barnsdall Corporation, $25,000,000 6 per cent. sinking fund gold coupon debentures, due Dec. 15, 1940.

V. Vivaudou, Inc., 17,000 shares of preferred stock and 433,000 shares of common stock, without nominal or par value.

OFFER NEW SHARES FOR GERMAN CREDIT

Bankers to Dispose of 100,000 Investment Corporation's First Preferred.

HAMBURG BANK STOCK HERE

Vereinsbank's 600,000 Reichsmarks of Shares to Be Placed in American Market.

Public offering is being made today by Dillon, Read & Co. of 100,000 shares of first preferred stock of the German Credit and Investment Corporation, which carries cumulative dividends at the annual rate of $7 a share and which is priced at $100 a share. One share of common will be delivered with each share of first preferred.

The German corporation was organized under the laws of Maryland to afford investments and loans in Germany, Central Europe and elsewhere. It will use the German Securities Trustee Company in connection with the investigation and administration of loans and investments in Germany. The latter exercises trusteeship of the commodities and mortgages securing American loans to various large German industrial concerns.

The capitalization of the corporation will consist of 100,000 shares of first preferred, 20,000 shares of second preferred and 500,000 shares of common stock, all without par value. Dillon, Read & Co. and their associates will purchase from the corporation all of the second preferred and the balance of the common over and above the shares to go with the first preferred for $2,000,000 in cash, which will be used to establish a general reserve and an equity for the first preferred.

The first preferred is redeemable in whole or in part on thirty days' notice at $100 a share and accrued dividends.

Another piece of German bank financing, it was announced yesterday, will consist of an offering today of 600,000 reichsmarks of the Vereinsbank in Hamburg capital stock. The stock is being placed by Horwitz & Co. and Jerome B. Sullivan & Co. It is priced at $13 a share of 60 reichsmarks each or $19.50 a share of 90 reichsmarks. The price includes the annual dividend for 1925, which is still to be declared.

Capitalization of the bank is approximately $2,500,000. It was established in 1856 and does a large commercial business in Hamburg, with branch offices in other cities. It has paid dividends, with the exception of 1923, when virtually all German banks passed their dividend payments owing to post-war inflation.

Hallgarten & Co. and Lehman Brothers announced that all of the American shares of the Dresdner Bank of Berlin, offered by them yesterday, had been sold.

As a Guarantee Of Good Faith

If a bond is so safe that it doesn't need a guarantee, why not get one anyway as a guarantee of good faith?

No bond in the world is less in need of a guarantee than a 5½% PRUDENCE-BOND, but we believe a guarantee is the best way to prove it.

To show our own good faith we simply add to the inherent safety of first mortgages on sound income-earning properties, the pledge of our own Capital, Surplus and Reserves of over $3,500,000 for the security of the payment of interest and principal.

The Company has no funded debt or bank loans

History and Business: This business, established over 71 years ago by my father, was incorporated under the laws of New York in 1890. A pioneer in the men's clothing industry, the business has since 1854 maintained the highest standards of quality, and, for a long period has had an unquestioned position among the few leading fine clothing manufacturers in the country. The headquarters of the business are in Rochester, New York.

Purpose of Issue: For some time the Company's capital stock has been very largely held by estates and beneficiaries of those previously active in the business. This recapitalization will permit those now dominant in the management, as well as valued employees, to acquire substantial ownership and control of the business through purchase of the common stock.

Earnings: Net profits of The Stein-Bloch Company, as certified by Messrs. Ernst and Ernst, after all deductions including Federal Income Taxes actually paid or provided for, but after adjustment for non-recurring charges and credits, for the five years ended November 30, 1925, averaged $215,086 a year, or more than 3 times the maximum annual dividend requirement of $70,000 on this issue. In every year of the period such net earnings were not less than 2.6 times the dividend requirement.

In every year since its incorporation in 1890 the Company has earned a net profit in excess of at least twice the maximum annual dividend requirement on this issue, and has paid a cash dividend of more than this requirement. The business has earned a net profit in every one of its 71 years of continuous operation.

Assets: The audited balance sheet of the Company as of November 30, 1925, but after giving effect to the present recapitalization, shows net tangible assets, after deduction of all liabilities and deferred charges, of $2,436,272, equal to $243 per share of this Preferred Stock, and net current assets alone of $1,454,438, or $145 per share. Current assets are more than 10.4 times total indebtedness.

Delivery of Preferred Stock Certificates

It is expected that delivery will be made on or about February 1, 1926, of Temporary Stock Certificates entitling the holder to dividends, and to delivery on or after February 1, 1927 (or earlier at our option) of definitive certificates for First Preferred Stock of an equal number of shares called for by the Temporary Certificates and of definitive certificates for Common Stock of one-half the number of shares represented by the Temporary Certificate, and a warrant permitting the holder to purchase on or before February 1, 1928, shares of Common Stock equal to one-half the number of shares represented by the Temporary Certificate, at a price of $15.00 a share.

IT IS EXPECTED THAT APPLICATION WILL BE MADE TO LIST THE TEMPORARY CERTIFICATES, PREFERRED STOCK AND COMMON STOCK ON THE NEW YORK CURB AND THE CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE.

We offer this stock, subject to prior sale, in the form of temporary Certificates, for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of counsel.

The Ohio Public Service Company

First Mortgage and Refunding 5% Gold Bonds, Series D

Due September 1, 1954

Price 94 and Interest, Yielding over 5.40%

Dated September 1, 1924. Interest payable March 1 and September 1, at the office of Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., in Chicago, and at the office of the Company in New York, without deduction for normal Federal Income Tax now or hereafter deductible at the source not in excess of 2%. Coupon bonds in interchangeable denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100.

Territory: The Ohio Public Service Company, does substantially the entire electric light and power business, without competition, in Warren, Mansfield, Sandusky, Lorain, Elyria, Ashland, Massillon, Port Clinton and Alliance. The Company does the gas business at Coshocton, Medina, Lima, Alliance, Mansfield and other communities, and owns and operates two small interurban railways. Population of the combined territories supplied with gas or electric service is in excess of 450,000.

Security: The First Mortgage and Refunding Gold Bonds, in the opinion of counsel, are secured by a direct first mortgage lien upon important parts of the property of the Company and are also secured by a direct mortgage lien on all property now owned or hereafter acquired, subject to prior lien bonds at any time outstanding. At present there is a total of $7,412,100 divisional bonds, of which $2,783,600 are pledged as additional security for the First Mortgage and Refunding Gold Bonds, and only $3,981,500 are outstanding with the public. The divisional mortgages are closed except for pledge under other mortgages of the Company.

Valuation: The total value of the Company's property as determined by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio plus subsequent expenditures for additions and improvements to November 30, 1925, is in excess of $44,100,000. The total mortgage debt outstanding with public amounts to only $27,506,500.

Earnings of The Ohio Public Service Company have been as follows:

Calendar Years	Gross Earnings (including other income)	Net Earnings
*1925	$11,285,974	$4,366,107
1924	10,580,952	3,913,605
1923	10,873,723	4,026,317
1922	10,033,340	3,379,738

*Twelve months ended November 30.

Annual interest requirements on the total mortgage indebtedness outstanding with the public amount to $1,624,146.

For the twelve months ended November 30, 1925, over 84% of net earnings and over 79% of the gross earnings were derived from the sale of electric current for light and power and 14% and 17%, respectively, from gas sales.

A circular fully descriptive of these bonds will be sent upon request

POLAND TO WIN OUT, SAYS KEMMERER

Financial Adviser Back, Praises Government Plan to Reduce the 1926 Budget.

SMALLER ARMY FIRST STEP

Discouraging Use of Luxuries and Stopping Issue of Paper Money Wise, Asserts Professor.

Professor E. W. Kemmerer of Princeton, who has acted as financial adviser to eight countries in helping them rehabilitate their finances, returned yesterday from Poland, where he went by invitation as a financial advisory expert. He told newspapermen who met him aboard the White Star liner, Homeric, at Quarantine, that the Polish Government was taking "vigorous steps," with the aid of the people, "to pull out" of its financial difficulties.

"I think they are going to pull through all right," said Professor Kemmerer. "The Government's general policy, so far announced and adopted, of meeting the financial situation by drastic reductions in the budget of expenditures, discouragement of the importation and home consumption of luxuries and the stopping of the issue of Government paper money, I believe is eminently wise.

"The Government has cut its budget of expenditures for 1926 by approximately 500,000,000 zloty, or about 28 per cent., as compared with the actual expenditures of 1925, and with the country's excellent system of monthly budgeting there is good prospect for a balanced budget for the present year."

Professor Kemmerer explained that the Polish Government had decided upon a reduction of its army as the first step toward budget reduction. The Government also is cutting the size of its appropriation for educational purposes and forcing the municipalities to assume a larger share of that burden. Economies also are being effected in administrative increases in pay on an index number basis.

He pointed out that a shift in foreign trade recently had resulted in Poland's exports exceeding her imports. Strikes in Germany had curtailed Poland's export shipments of coal to that country, but Poland has found other markets for her coal in the Balkans, according to Professor Kemmerer. He said there was no occasion for alarm in Poland over recent warnings of an approaching grain shortage. Poland was described by Dr. Kemmerer as a great grain producing country as well as a great potato producing nation.

"The Government is taking hold with a firm hand," said Professor Kemmerer. "Of course, there's a lot of unemployment. Business is still depressed, but I think the worst is over and that they are going to pull through all right."

TO MERGE ALABAMA AND GEORGIA POWER

Announcement Is Expected That Southeastern Has Bought Georgia Railway and Light.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 20.—Formal announcement of the purchase of the Georgia Railway and Power Company by the Southeastern Power and Light Company is expected within the next twenty-four hours by financial interests in Atlanta, following a meeting of the directors of the local company late today.

Earlier reports were that the proposed merger probably would be discussed at the meeting, but at its close the only statement issued came from H. M. Atkinson, Chairman of the Board of the Georgia Railway and Power Company, who said:

"No action was taken by the directors of the Georgia Railway and Power Company at their meeting today, with regard to which I have any statement to make."

The meeting of the board was called by Mr. Atkinson, who has just returned from New York, where for several days he and other representatives of the Georgia Railway and Power Company are supposed to have been in conferences ironing out details of the proposed consolidation of the power interests in the Southeast.

The general impression prevails that a definite proposal has been made and that it has been favored by a majority of the stockholders of the Georgia Railway and Power Company. It is believed that the formal ratification of the merger is the only step necessary for the consummation of the deal.

Assets of the two companies in the Southern merger are estimated to be worth from $250,000,000 to $300,000,000. The merger has been rumored in Wall Street since December, but the first official intimation that it would take place came Tuesday, when the Southeastern Power and Light Company announced a plan for the increase of its capital stock from 3,000,000 shares to 4,850,000 shares. The stock consists of 97 preferred, $6 preferred, participating preferred and common. Dividends on the new participating preferred will begin at $4 and will increase year by year until 1931, after which dividends will be on a $6 basis. The issue will be entitled to additional dividends to bring the total dividend up to $7 before cash dividends of $6 on common. Participating preferred dividends will be cumulative from date of issue, except the additional dividend, which will be non-cumulative.

BANKERS' GROUP ELECTS.

New Members Chosen for Investment Association Committee.

Named on Exchange Committee.

The New York Stock Exchange announced that at a meeting of the Governing Committee yesterday Herbert L. Mills was elected a member of the committee to fill the vacancy caused by the recent resignation of S. S. Prince, and William V. C. Burton, elected to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Henry K. Pomroy.

STEEL TRADE QUIET, BUT OUTPUT GAINS

PASSING PRICE CUTS ALONG

Dullness in Market Believed to Be Only a Brief Phase of New Year's Business.

Although quieter markets continue in the steel industry, mill operations are slightly above the December scale and the immediate sluggishness is regarded as a passing phase. Summing up the situation, The Iron Age says:

"Interest in the steel trade is centring in the amount of automobile steel to be closed this month and at what prices. Efforts of large builders of cars to buy body sheets at $2 to $3 below today's market are met by the claims of sheet producers that the large automobile program for 1926 will take up all the output of full finished sheets.

"One Detroit company has placed a large order for steel and for car parts, including forgings, the latter going to Cleveland district shops. Parts makers to whom some of the recent reduction in car prices is being passed on point to the higher steel prices today than those on the steel they were taking in a year ago.

"In all finished lines the call for steel booked before Jan. 1 is on a scale that keeps mill operations slightly above the December average. The continuance of this rate for several weeks is looked for, largely on specifications. Several leading companies are above an 85 per cent. basis.

"Sheet mills are taking new business at a less rate than in the fourth quarter, and on black sheets nearly all markets show a $2 concession."

The Iron Trade Review says:

"Quieter market conditions in steel at present reflect the well-covered position of consumers generally, which has resulted from the heavy tonnage ordered out in December against shipping and lower priced last-quarter contracts. This accumulation of specifications is carrying the mills along at a good rate, but new buying is moderate. Here and there a little recurrance of price weakness is apparent.

"These factors show absence of tightness in present conditions, and ore-making producers are more and more disposed to be conservative when the question of price advances is raised. Reaction of the sheet bar market from the higher prices recently paid suggests the difficulty of sustaining too rapid advances."

Sterling Products' 1925 Income.

The Sterling Products, Inc., reports net income of $4,902,704 for 1925, after all expenses and reserves for taxes and other deductions. This is equal to $7.84 a share earned on the 625,000 shares of no par value capital stock outstanding. In 1924 net income was $4,726,587, equal to $7.56 a share on the capital stock outstanding at that time.

OFFER $1,980,000 ROCHESTER BONDS

Bankers Market Municipal Securities at Prices to Yield 4.05 to 4.10%.

$1,400,000 FOR A HOTEL

Ohio Public Service Issue of $1,300,000 Selling to Yield 5.40%—Idaho Notes on Sale.

A syndicate headed by the First National Bank and including Roosevelt & Son and Eldredge & Co. will offer today an issue of $1,980,000 City of Rochester, N. Y., 4½ and 5 per cent. registered bonds. This constitutes the largest new bond offering of the day, which includes also a number of issues in the public utility and industrial groups.

The Rochester bonds, which mature from 1935 to 1951, are priced to yield from 4.05 to 4.10 per cent.

S. W. Straus & Co. are offering $1,400,000 first mortgage 3 to 15 year 5¼ per cent. serial coupon bonds of the Georgian Hotel Corporation, secured by the eight-story Georgian Hotel to be erected in Evanston, Ill.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., are distributing $1,300,000 Ohio Public Service Company first mortgage and refunding 5 per cent. gold bonds, series D, due Sept. 1, 1954, at a price of 94 and interest, yielding over 5.40 per cent. The company does the electric light and power business, without competition, in nine communities in Ohio and the gas business in other sections of the State. The present offering represents no new financing by the company.

The First National Bank and Salomon Brothers & Hutzler offer a new issue of $1,000,000 State of Idaho one-year treasury notes. They mature Feb. 1, 1927, and are priced to yield 4.05 per cent.

Stifel, Nicolaus & Co. are marketing a new issue of $300,000 Corno Mills Company first mortgage serial 6 per cent. gold bonds, due 1927 to 1936, at prices to yield from 5.25 to 6 per cent. Proceeds will be used to retire the present funded debt and furnish additional working capital. The company manufactures cereal foods.

STEIN-BLOCH CO. TELLS PLAN TO RECAPITALIZE

Clothing Concern to Give Employes Opportunity to Acquire an Interest—Financing Today.

The Stein-Bloch Company, a pioneer in the men's clothing industry, announced a recapitalization plan yesterday which will take control from the beneficiaries of those previously active in the business. The plan, it was said, "will permit those dominant in the management, as well as employes, to acquire ownership and control of the business through the purchase of common stock."

A public offering is made today by A. G. Becker & Co. of $1,000,000 of the company's newly authorized 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock. The shares are priced at $100 each and will carry as a bonus one-half share of common stock and a warrant entitling the holder to purchase another share of common at $15 from Feb. 1, 1927 to Feb. 1, 1928.

Capitalization after this financing will consist of $1,000,000 of 7 per cent. cumulative first preferred (new issue), $750,000 of 6 per cent. cumulative second preferred, and 100,000 shares of common stock. The preferred issues are $100 par and the common no par. The company has no funded debt and no bank loans.

The Stein-Bloch Company has been in business since 1854. It has two factories at Rochester, N. Y. According to its President, Simon B Stein, the company has earned a net profit in every year of its operation. Net current assets are $1,454,488, or $145 per share.

CAR LOADING RISE FOR WEEK OF JAN. 9

COAL SHIPMENTS INCREASE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Loading of revenue freight for the week ended on Jan. 9 amounted to 907,119 cars, according to reports filed today by the carriers with the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association.

This was a decrease of 25,688 cars under the corresponding week in 1925. The total for the week of Jan. 9 was an increase of 165,880 cars over the preceding week, when loadings were materially reduced due to the observance of the New Year holiday. Increases were reported in the total loading of all commodities.

Coal loading for the week of Jan. 9 totaled 198,294 cars, an increase of 34,300 cars over the week before, but 24,337 cars below the same week in 1925.

Loading of grain and grain products amounted to 47,905 cars, an increase of 2,965 over the week before, but 2,045 below the same week in 1925. It was, however, an increase of 3,582 cars above the week in 1924. In the Western districts alone, grain and grain products loading totaled 30,382 cars, a decrease of 3,459 under the corresponding period last year.

Miscellaneous freight loading totaled 231,533 cars, an increase of 49,068 over the week before and 2,219 above the same week in 1925. It was an increase of 27,620 cars over the week in 1924.

Loading of merchandise, and less-than-carload-lot freight amounted to 239,465 cars, an increase of 45,292 cars over the week before, and 6,614 cars above the same week in 1925. Compared with the corresponding week in 1924, it was an increase of 19,487 cars.

Live stock loading for the week amounted to 37,209 cars, an increase of 3,350 above the week before, but 2,700 below the corresponding week in 1925 and 2,826 below the week in 1924. In the Western districts alone, 28,174 cars were loaded with live stock, 2,000 cars below the week last year.

Ore loading totaled 10,970 cars, an increase of 2,978 over the preceding week and 554 above the week in 1925. Compared with the same week in 1924, it increased 3,256 cars.

Compared with the preceding week, when loadings were somewhat reduced, due to the observance of the New Year holiday all districts showed increases in total loadings, while all but the Pocahontas decreased under the corresponding week in 1925. All districts increased over the corresponding week in 1924 except the Eastern district.

Loadings for the week ended Jan. 9 make the following comparison with weeks of this and previous years:

Dec. 12.....	1,036,806	964,761	950,007	870,062

Record loadings for all time were established in the week ended Aug. 23, when 1,124,436 cars were loaded.

LIGGETT & MYERS CO. PROFITS SET RECORD

Tobacco Concern Reports a Net of $17,028,475 in 1925—Earned $6.35 on Common.

The net profit of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company in 1925 was the largest of any year in its history, according to the annual report issued yesterday. Net profit was $17,028,475, against $18,714,197 in 1924, and $11,375,627 in 1923. Following the usual deductions, the company reported net income of $15,289,052 was available for dividends in 1925, against $11,960,829 in 1924.

The net income after allowing for preferred dividends, equaled $6.35 a share on the $54,013,050 combined common and Class B stocks of $25 par value outstanding. This compares with $6.04 a share on $42,968,275 at the close of 1924.

REICHSBANK'S GOLD RESERVE INCREASES

BERLIN, Jan. 20 (AP).—The Reichsbank report as of Jan. 15 shows the following changes in reichsmarks:

Gold and bullion.....increased	$28,000
Deposits abroad.....increased	2,000
Res. in for. currencies..decreased	$4,566,000
Bills of ex. and checks..decreased	200,901,000
Silver and other coins...increased	1,195,000
Advances .....increased	4,864,000
Investments .....increased	513,000
Other assets .....increased	2,574,000
Notes in circulation...decreased	224,079,000
Other ma'ng obligations..decreased	12,602,000
Other liabilities.....increased	32,286,000

Following is the Reichsbank's gold reserve for a series of recent weeks, compared with the two preceding years in thousands of marks:

	1926.	1925.	1924.
Jan. 15.....	1,208,433	791,653	467,031
Jan. 7.....	1,206,103	780,633	467,060
	1926.	1924.	1923.
Dec. 31.....	1,326,074	709,600	467,059
Dec. 23.....	1,207,660	717,046	467,029
Dec. 15.....	1,207,606	695,185	467,032
	1926.	1925.	1925.

The addition to the bank's gold reserve since the low point of April, 1924, amounts now to 788,556,000 gold marks, or $182,440,328. When the war began the bank's gold holdings were 1,253,199,000 marks. They were increased to 2,527,780,000 on Dec. 30, 1916, the high point in its history.

Jan. 15.....	2,508,680,000	1,646,198,000
Jan. 7.....	2,732,109,000	1,709,097,000
	1925.	1924.
Dec. 31.....	2,956,443,000	1,941,440,000
Dec. 23.....	2,622,487,000	1,765,049,000
Dec. 15.....	2,666,327,000	1,723,236,000

The note circulation on Dec. 31, 1925, 2,960,443,000 marks, reckoned in gold values, is the highest reached since the war. Before the return to the gold standard the bank's circulation was stated on Oct. 31, 1924, at 1,780,930,000,000,000 of the old and depreciated paper marks, but since the value of the paper mark at that time was only one-billionth part of the present gold mark, the gold value of the circulation then outstanding was less than the present maximum.

When the war began the Reichsbank's note circulation stood at 2,405,880,000 marks on June 31, 1914, and it reached 5,045,899,000 at the end of 1914, when the mark was still quoted above 22 cents.

WEATHER GOOD FOR GROWING CROPS

The weekly weather report of the Department of Agriculture issued at Washington yesterday in part follows:

"Wheat and other cereals remained generally in fair to good condition. The snow cover disappeared rapidly during the week as far north as Wisconsin, and fields are now bare in many districts. In Maryland wheat is mostly brown, and in Tennessee some oats are brown from freezing, but in the heavy producing regions it was damaged but little or not at all by the freeze.

"This crop is wintering well in the far Northwestern States, but is needing rain in Western Texas and Oklahoma, and late planted is poor and thin in Missouri and poor in Indiana. Oats are making slow but satisfactory progress in the Southern States.

"The weather in Argentina during the week ended Jan. 18 was moderately warm, with rather light precipitation in the corn producing area. The temperature averaged 79 degrees, or three degrees above normal, while the precipitation of two-fifths of an inch was only slightly more than half the normal amount. Since the heavy rainfall during the first half of December precipitation in the corn district of Argentina has been rather light. The amount, while well distributed through this period of five weeks, is for the week having less than two-fifths of an inch, has totaled only about 60 per cent. of the normal. The period since the middle of December has been persistently warm, four of the five weeks being warmer than normal, with the average two degrees higher."

CRUDE RUBBER PRICES DROP

Business in the crude rubber market yesterday was again attended by nervousness and disorder. Mixed cables from London, which first showed that market strong at 30½d for spot, caused a withdrawal of sellers here, prices going up. Later dispatches revealed a sharp break abroad, which soon canceled the improvement made in the forenoon.

Spot smoked sheets declined 3¼ cents to 73¼ cents, while April-June delivery dropped to 70 cents. First latex crepe, clean thin brown and up-river Para were heavy and lower at the close. The declines in these ran to as much as 4 cents a pound.

Closing prices for the leading grades follow:

	Jan.	Apr.-June.
Ribbed smoked sheets...	73¼	70
First latex crepe.....	74¾	72¼
Amber No. 3.....	70	67
Clean thin brown crepe.	67	64
Para upriver	82	80

Tire reclaimed, 11c; shoe, 9c; tube, 20c.

TO OFFER COPELAND STOCK.

Electrical Refrigerator Maker Has 50,000 Shares Class A Issue.

An offering or 50,000 shares of Class A stock of Copeland Products, Inc., of Michigan, at $27 a share, will soon be made by New York banking interests. Each share will carry a subscription warrant expiring Feb. 1, 1928, entitling the holder to purchase one-half share of Class B stock at $7.50 a share. The Class A stock will be entitled to noncumulative preferential dividends of $2.80 a share annually, and will participate share for share with the Class B in any additional distribution of earnings.

The company's sales of electrical refrigerators rank fourth in the field. William R. Wilson, President of the Guardian Trust Company of Detroit and head of the Maxwell Motor Corporation during its reorganization, is President of the Copeland company.

FEWER CARS NEED REPAIR.

Class I railroads on Jan. 1 had fewer freight cars in need of repair than at any time in two years, according to the American Railway Association. The total was 157,408, or 6.8 per cent. of the number on line.

This was a decrease of 3,907 from Dec. 15, when there were 160,315, or 6.9 per cent. It was a decrease of 33,574 from Jan. 1, 1924. Freight cars in need of heavy repair totaled 118,870, or 5.2 per cent, and those needing light repair totaled 38,538.

COTTON IRREGULAR; MARCH SELLS LOWER

Weevil Count in Louisiana Show 280 Per Ton of Moss Against 16 Last Year.

CLOSING QUOTATIONS HIGH

An easier tone developed in near positions yesterday as compared with more active buying of new crop months, which resulted in an irregular cotton market. At one time March sold 15 points lower compared with a gain of 9 points in October, while the list closed at a loss of three to an advance of 15 points. The Department of Agriculture report that a count of the number of weevils per ton of moss at Tullalah, La., showed 280 against 16 last year stimulated the demand for both October and December contracts. The fact that these positions have been selling around 18 cents, whereas January in New Orleans and March here have been at 20¾ cents this week attracted attention. Trade interests have been steady buyers on price recessions and reports from very centres show that orders are being booked for next November and December delivery, against which spinners are securing new crop contracts as protection.

That the covering movement in progress in near months had become less aggressive was evident during Tuesday's trading and the first signs of a change in relations between the two crops brought execution of overnight selling orders at the opening yesterday. Both March and May were for sale during early trading, so that March worked off to 20.18, whereas both October and December sold above previous closing figures. Buying of late months started with the opening and the spread between old and new crop positions narrowed for the first time in some weeks. March sold 43 points over May, compared with 59 points the previous day, while the difference between March and October narrowed from 230 points earlier in the week to nearly 200 points.

Reports from the South indicated increased selling of spot cotton by cooperative marketing associations as a result of the recent advance in prices. The setback of 45 points from recent high levels encountered more resistance to pressure and covering operations the last hour left closing quotations highest of the season.

Port receipts for the first four days of the week showed an increase of about 30,000 over last week, while receipts at interior towns were about the same as a week ago.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous Day.
March ...	19.96	19.96	19.63	19.81	20.03
May	19.66	19.78	19.39	19.77-78	19.76-77
July	19.50	19.65	19.15	19.60-62	19.59-60
Oct'b'r	19.10	19.23	18.97	19.24-25	19.11-12

	Yesterday.	Week.	Last Year.
Port receipts....	29,022	29,022	21,926
Exports	24,021	24,021	9,750

WHEAT MOVES UP THEN DECLINES

With Some Traders Bullish and Others Bearish the Market Is Erratic.

LESS CONFIDENCE SHOWN

No Export Business at Seaboard—Hand-to-Mouth Buying by Importers to Continue.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Refusal of foreign markets to follow the upturns in America was largely responsible for liquidation by scattered local longs today and at the low point May was off 2¾ cents. As soon as the selling ceased the market firmed up 2 cents from the low point only to ease again toward the last and the finish was 1 to 1¾ cents lower. Liverpool closed ¼ to 1¼ pence lower and Winnipeg was down 1⅝ to 1⅞ cents. A break of 5 to 6¼ cents in Buenos Aires was a great surprise to the trade, as that market opened weak and continued on the downgrade throughout the day. Trade on the whole was largely of a local character. No export business was reported at the seaboard, and it is believed that the hand-to-mouth buying by importers is likely to continue. Domestic cash premiums were well maintained in all markets.

Local traders were much less confident of their position on wheat after the close, and there was good buying of bids by longs. The sharp break in Buenos Aires had considerable influence, and it is expected that Liverpool will come lower. It has been very noticeable, however, that the market, taken as a whole, has been little affected by news of any character of late, and while sharp breaks have been made on declines abroad, each recession has brought in commission house and local buying, and with trade light, strong rallies have followed with little actual change in conditions. Sentiment has been changing as rapidly as the price, being extremely bullish when it closed higher and bearish when the action is the reverse. Part of the buying of wheat today was credited to Eastern shorts.

A private Buenos Aires cable today indicated that the crop would be around 180,000,000 bushels, suggesting 105,000,000 bushels for export. The cause of the break in Buenos Aires today was not explained. Forecast was for unfavorable weather over part of the Argentine belt and it is expected that around 25,000,000 bushels will be moved to the seaboard this month. With the natural weight of the grain relatively low it is probable that prices will have to be shaped to make sales.

Primary points received 942,000 bushels; week ago, 690,000 bushels; last year, 863,000 bushels. Shipments, 685,000 bushels; week ago, 597,000 bushels; last year, 800,000 bushels.

Corn held within a range of ¾ to ⅞ cent and oats within ¾ cent with both grains easy in sympathy with wheat, corn being ¾ to ⅞ cent and oats ⅛ to ¼ cent lower at the last. Trade was very light and had it not been for buying against bids the decline in corn might have been larger. Since trading in bids and offers started the swings in corn have been greatly restricted.

Primary arrivals of corn today, 1,429,000 bushels; week ago, 963,000 bushels; last year, 1,294,000 bushels. Shipments, 496,000 bushels; week ago, 450,000 bushels; last year, 698,000 bushels.

Cash corn basis was ½ cent higher to ¼ cent lower with much corn of poor quality in the arrivals. Rye declined ⅞ to ¾ cent with some buying of May against sales of wheat at 97 cents difference.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

The quotations are for six months' paper.
Yesterday—4¼ per cent. for the best names.
Tuesday—4% per cent. for the best names.

***

Neckwear Manufacturers Busy.

The silk manufacturers report quick deliveries to men's neckwear wholesalers, from whom they are already beginning to get reorders for Spring. Blues and silver grays are stressed in the color preferences, it was said yesterday, with combinations of both of these shades also in much favor. In patterns, small and medium-sized figured effects in set and all-over designs lead, with considerable interest also shown in checks. Stripe patterns continue to rank as staples. Small polka dots or the larger "coin spots" in navy and white are having some call. Foulards, silk and silk-and-wool crepes and failles are the weaved in most demand. Early business of the neckwear manufacturers in foulards was described as very satisfactory.

Gray Goods Quiet but Firm.

Trading in gray goods here yesterday did not run into any great volume, but the market was firm generally. Sales of spot 38½-inch 60-48s were made at 7⅞ cents, which is a rise of an eighth over any recent trading figure for that construction. For spot 39-inch 72-76s and 56-44s buyers paid 11¼ and 7⅝ cents, respectively, the latter goods being of Eastern make. The best that could be done on spot 38½-inch 64-60s was 8⅝ cents. Shooting sales included spot 36-inch 4.70s at 8⅝ cents and 36-inch 5.50s at 7⅞ cents, while in the business done in drills were 34-inch 4.75s at 7⅝ cents. Not much of interest was done in the rest of the market.

Printed Dresses Selling Well.

Printed silk dresses are headed for a "record-breaking" season, in the opinion of E. W. Cohn, a partner in the Hilvale Costume Company of this city. The early demand for these dresses, he said yesterday, has been tremendous and is far ahead of last year at this time. Crêpe de chine garments in a large variety of patterns and colors are taking well and promise to lead in dresses to retail at $15. Printed and plain georgettes are also in active demand, while washable radium silk dresses are finding increased favor with buyers. Combinations of a georgette waist with Eton jacket and skirt of crêpe de chine are also well liked. A novelty type in the form of "veiled prints," Mr. Cohn said, is attracting attention. These dresses have a georgette overdress with a printed slip.

Water Cannot Spot It.

One of the important objections to rayon silks as dress fabrics, that of spotting when splashed with water, has been overcome in new silks which are being used by a dress manufacturer here. He demonstrated yesterday the quality of the silks to resist water by splashing garments with the fluid which rolled off without leaving spots. The new silks, which bear the name of velvet rose, are described as made of 100 per cent. pure silk and pure dye. They are lustrous and drape well in the sports and street dresses into which they were made up. Production of the silks into dresses has been confined to Herman Landes, dress manufacturer, of this city.

The "Tenth Customer" Counts.

Discovery and recognition of the fact that every tenth customer who enters a department store is interested in the purchase of notions was described as one of the outstanding benefits to the notion trade during the past year, in the report made yesterday by General E. C. Young, retiring President of the National Notion Association at its annual meeting in the Hotel McAlpin. General Young paid tribute to E. R. Dibrell of Lord & Taylor, who set forth the "tenth customer" and her potentialities for the notion trade in an address to the members last Summer. Standardization of sample cards for jobbers' salesmen was described by General Young as another forward step of great value to the trade. Herbert G. Stine of the Hemingway Silk Company was elected President of the association for the coming year. Other officers are: First Vice President, Earl S. Copp; Second Vice President, J. A. O'Brien; Treasurer, Robert G. Blumenthal, and Secretary, H. S. Vorhis. The Board of Directors was re-elected.

Raw Silk Situation.

The position of the Japanese raw silk market continues unchanged. Prices are being held steady, with the fluctuations in yen exchange the important factor, according to E. Gerli & Co., Inc. Grand XX was quoted yesterday at $7.30, crack XX at $7 and XX at $6.90. Chinese silks were generally lower, owing to the approach of the new year and also because of lower silver. China steam filatures were priced from $7.70 to $7.05, depending upon grade. More inquiry is reported for Canton silks, although business as yet continues of small volume. The comment is made that these silks will eventually attract manufacturers' attention because of their reasonable prices. Canton 14-18s were quoted at $5.25 and 20-22s at $4.90.

Staple Ginghams More Active.

Although the business transacted in them is being done in a quiet way, the increased movement of leading makes of staple ginghams lately was said here yesterday to be one of the features of current trading in cotton goods. The individual orders, while not large in themselves, bulk large in the aggregate. They are attributed to the starving of staple gingham stocks on the part of many wholesalers, who have been forced by an increased retailer demand to replenish their supplies. A sample of how some wholesalers' staple gingham stocks have been allowed to get was shown yesterday by the request of a certain wholesaler that the manufacturer of a well-known brand make a direct rush shipment of a twenty-five piece assortment to one of his retail customers.

Fall Napped Fabrics Opened.

Prices were made late yesterday afternoon on the napped goods lines of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company and the Hamilton Manufacturing Company for Fall delivery. Quotations on the narrow goods, which are of special appeal to the jobbing trade, show reductions of about 10 to 15 per cent. from the opening levels of a year ago. According to Jarvis Loomis & Boucher, selling agents for both companies, the same prices are quoted on the wide goods as were made to the cutters-up when these cloths were opened for them about a month ago. At that time prices on the wide goods were said to be 8 to 10 per cent. under the quotations of the last previous opening.

Styling Napped Goods.

Not the least of the many improvements that have been made in American production of cotton goods in the last several seasons has been in the styling of napped goods. Not only has considerable progress been made in turning out all-cotton cloths of this character in a wide variety of colorings and patterns but one of the leading makers of the goods is showing for Fall delivery a line of part-wool napped fabrics which, it contends, is one of the most important developments in that branch of the industry in the last quarter of a century. These goods, which are now on display here, are said by the selling agents to be making a strong appeal to the wholesale trade.

Shows Varied Line of Flowers.

A wide variety of floral decorations is displayed by a Chicago millinery and dress trimming house that has opened an office in the Hotel McAlpin and that is said to be the first Middle Western concern of the kind directly to invade the local market. For trimming hats an extensive line of flat bands, wreaths, sprays and similar garnitures of flowers is displayed, the materials from which they are made ranging all the way from sheer georgette to heavy velvets. Flowers for dress trimmings include such popular things as gardenias, lacquered violets and roses of various sizes and colors. Tiger lilies in natural colorings are also shown, as well as attractive corsages of sweet peas and orchids. For use on boudoir pillows, dresser boxes and other home decorations is displayed a broad line of flowers in silk, chiffon and metallic cloth.

Etching Robbers Still at Large.

The police failed to discover any clue yesterday to the identity of the robbers who stole between $30,000 and $35,000 worth of etchings from the Schwartz Galleries, at 617 Madison Avenue, on Tuesday. They were inclined to believe, however, that the robbery was committed by the same band which stole $6,000 worth of tapestries from A. Wedtheim, Inc., of 534 Madison Avenue a little more than a week ago.

SHOE MEN APPROVE HOOVER'S POLICIES

Session in Resolution Says the Nation's Prosperity Is Due Largely to Him.

WOULD BOOST MALE TRADE

The policies of Secretary Hoover were approved in a resolution adopted at the closing session of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association at the Hotel Astor yesterday, which expressed the belief that "to Mr. Hoover's progressive, broad-visioned and constructive policies are due in large part the present material prosperity of our country and the cordial relations existing between our business men and the Government."

Speakers discussed aspects of the shoe industry, leading from retail sales to the wisdom of a national advertising campaign to develop "foot consciousness," particularly in the male trade.

"The shoes bought by men are fewer per capita than they were ten years ago," said George Geuting of Philadelphia, who discussed stimulation of this field. "There is no romance in men's shoes, but to the woman her shoes have taken the place that millinery held ten years ago. The man considers his shoes merely a foot covering; still, under the skin, he is the same peacock he was in the days of the cavalier, when men wore laces and their slippers bore buckles. The problem is to bring out that inner feeling, to educate a man to a sense of foot consciousness."

"The shoe industry is volume-mad and is forgetting the proper place of credit, which must lead to the ruin of all concerned," declared Alfred T. Woodward, credit manager of the United States Shoe Company. "Manufacturers, through fear of losing business, are being led more and more into actually financing retailers, new and established, where the retailers' hope of making profit is the only real backing they can furnish. This is the bankers' field, and the manufacturer is committing a moral and business wrong when he enters it."

Development of the Latin-American and Australasian markets was discussed by Samuel A. Pleasants, who found the failure of a large percentage of the people to wear shoes and outside competition responsible for America's exporting there only 5,000,000 pairs per year. He urged a unity of competing American firms which would concentrate on particular markets, granting liberal credit terms and employing aggressive agents as the means of developing them.

After a discussion of the advisability of a national campaign of advertising, a committee was appointed to survey the field and, if feasible, the association will conduct a drive to develop "foot consciousness" in Americans. It was said that the industry was far behind other essential industries in the extent of its annual advertising.

John C. McKeon of Philadelphia was re-elected President, the directors reported, and other officers chosen for the year were: Vice President, John R. Garside, Long Island City; Herbert L. Tinkham, Stoneham, Mass.; Charles C. Craddock, Lynchburg, Va.; John G. Hollens, Cincinnati; A. J. Sweet, Auburn, Me.; Treasurer, Herbert P. Gleason, Newark, N. J.; Secretary, J. Dudley Smith, New York.

Professor William Starr Myers of Princeton, in his remarks urged more active political participation by business men and said most of the country's best brains had gone into business and the professions. He also assailed the superfluous legislation enacted by Congress and urged greater freedom for local Governments. J. Robert O'Brien of the National Security League, Dr. John L. Davis and Robert M. Washburn of Boston also spoke. Messages of congratulation from President Coolidge, Vice-President Dawes and Governor Smith were read.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 20.—Formation of a regional association, comprised of five States and the District of Columbia, was approved here today at the closing session of the twelfth annual convention, Pennsylvania Shoe Retailers' Association, in the Hotel Traymore.

George M. Garman of Philadelphia was re-elected President for a second term. He was authorized to appoint an organization committee of nine men from each of the sections in the new regional organization, which will be completed before the 1927 convention.

LADY ASTOR'S SON HURT.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Lady Astor's son by her first marriage, Robert G. Shaw, got a bad fall when thrown from his horse during the steeplechase at Portslade today. His mother saw the accident and immediately ran out on the course to her son's aid.

He is suffering from a bad shakeup and a cut on the head, and was taken to Lewes Hospital. Shaw was the first rider to wear a skull cap on a race course in England.

KNIT GOODS BUYERS HAVE ANNUAL MEETING

Discussion of Trade Problems Precedes National Dry Goods Convention at Waldorf.

The Wholesalers' Association of Knit Goods Buyers discussed trade conditions at its annual meeting at the Waldorf yesterday in connection with the annual convention of the National Wholesale Dry Goods Association.

Topics included the advisability of manufacturers limiting their distribution to selected distributors, and whether or not it would be well to issue collectively a uniform hosiery card. The wisdom of asking manufacturers of heavy underwear to refrain from announcing their opening Fall quotations until after Jan. 1 was also debated. Methods of meeting the competition of exclusive case lot sellers were considered and there was debate on the market for various forms of sweaters and how to reduce manufacturers' competition.

At the afternoon meeting, E. M. Stevens of Kansas City, Mo., spoke on style trends. Dr. A. P. Haake of the Simmons Company here spoke on "The Retailer and the Canvasser."

Other questions considered were: Are advertised lines of advantage or detriment to wholesalers from a profit standpoint? Should mill quotations be broadcast? Owing to lack of advance business, should buyers change their policies so as to give retailers the service demanded and keep an adequate stock on hand? When a buyer orders 80 per cent. of his requirements months in advance of a season, is it an obligation on the part of the mills to fill the repeat order of the buyer when the season is under way? What will be the prevailing sweater novelties this Spring? What stock record system has been found useful in meeting the situation created by hand-to-mouth buying? To what extent will rayon be used in knit underwear?

The main convention of the National Wholesale Dry Goods Association will meet today. The delegates will be welcomed by the President, W. M. G. Howes of Wichita. The speakers will be Paul H. Nystrom, director of the Retail Research Association, New York City; Ward Thoron of the Merrimack Manufacturing Company, Boston; H. W. Davis, New York City; John A. Sweetser, Boston, and George W. Norris, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, who will speak on "Instalment Selling."

The annual dinner will be held in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf this evening. The speakers will be Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, who will talk on "World Problems," and the Rev. Dr. John L. Davis, who will speak on "The Dimensions of Life."

WOULD DROP SURETY ON STATE CONTRACTS

Mahon Says Elimination of Bonds Would Save $450,000 a Year—Hearing Ends.

A recommendation that all surety bonds for State contracts be eliminated will be made to Governor Smith in a fortnight, said William J. Mahon, counsel to Sullivan W. Jones, State Architect, at the conclusion of the hearing yesterday in the rooms of the Bar Association which has been in progress for a month. The elimination of bonds, said Mr. Mahon, would save the State $450,000 a year for the next two years and $200,000 a year thereafter.

Declaring that the State has expended more than $1,000,000 in premiums in the last eighteen years, Mr. Mahon said that the testimony of the bonding company representatives showed that surety companies have lost only $146,000 through defaults of contractors.

The only witness examined yesterday was T. B. McCarthy of Syracuse, a dealer in laundry equipment machinery, who had complained that the State architect and State Purchasing Department discriminated against him in favor of the Troy Laundry Machine Company and the American Machine Company. These two concerns he characterized as the "laundry trust," and said they were working to get a monopoly of State business.

Mr. Mahon produced figures showing the amounts of the State contracts in the last five years of the two concerns as compared with those of McCarthy and another competitor. These figures indicated, said Mr. Mahon, that the Troy and the American companies were not working together, since the former concern got awards of only $17,000 in this period as against the $52,000 in contracts awarded to the latter.

The hearing was adjourned subject to the call of the Chairman, and it is understood that the investigation is at an end except for the filing of reports by the surety companies relative to their losses on State contracts.

Police Department.

HYLAN IS CONSIDERING FLORIDA REALTY DEAL

Also Weighs Long Island Development, but Says He Bars Wooden Cars.

Former Mayor John F. Hylan said yesterday that he was considering several Florida and Long Island real estate propositions. One of the Florida developments that Mr. Hylan has under advisement is being pushed by Colonel Francis P. Bent, who was at the head of the Bureau of Contract and Supervision under Mayor Hylan.

Other Brooklyn residents named as taking stock in the enterprise were Dr. John A. Ferguson of 932 Bushwick Avenue, Mr. Hylan's physician and a member of the Board of Education; Dr. Louis F. Knoll, 925 Bushwick Avenue, and Joseph Schlein, 1,040 Bushwick Avenue. Dr. Ferguson is on the Advisory Board of the company.

The development is the Punta Gorda Shores, Inc. Colonel Bent is Vice President of the firm, which was incorporated in Florida and which has several Miami real estate men on its directorate. The capitalization was said to be $50,000.

"I have been approached on several Florida land enterprises," Mr. Hylan said. "For that matter I have been approached on real estate propositions elsewhere, including some on Long Island.

"With reference to the development in which Colonel Bent is interested, I might say that I have it under advisement."

"You might say for me," Mr. Hylan went on, "that any real estate development with which I might identify myself will not have any horse racing or gambling or wooden cars as features. I see that wooden cars cost the lives of some more people the other day.

BUILDERS ACQUIRE SITES IN MANHATTAN

AMSTERDAM AV. PURCHASE

Sites for improvement with business and apartment buildings in Manhattan are being assembled for builders.

Julius Tishman & Sons, Inc., have increased their plot on West Thirty-ninth Street by the purchase from Theresa F. Fulimer of 108 West Thirty-ninth Street, giving them a total plottage of 75 feet on the south side of Thirty-ninth Street, between Sixth Avenue and Broadway, the present site including 108, 110 and 112 West Thirty-ninth Street.

As soon as the present leases expire it is the intention of the owners to erect on the site an eighteen-story business building, which improvement is estimated to cost $1,300,000.

With the purchase of 661 Amsterdam Avenue, at the northeast corner of Ninety-third Street, a five-story apartment house with stores on plot 25 by 66 feet, from Mrs. Adelaide H. Levy, and 173 West Ninety-third Street, a three-story and basement private dwelling on plot 17 by 102 feet, from Matilda J. Quinn, Schulte Company, through its subsidiary, the Central Realty Company, completed the assembly of one of the largest plots on Amsterdam Avenue.

They purchased previously 175 and 177 West Ninety-third Street from Mrs. Martha Roelper, 683 Amsterdam Avenue from Mrs. Olga Bookman, 685 Amsterdam Avenue from Leo L. Buchsbaum, 687 Amsterdam Avenue from Warland Realty Company and 689 Amsterdam Avenue from J. C. Mortimer, and now control a plot of about 12,100 square feet, with a frontage of 114 feet on Amsterdam Avenue and 117 feet on Ninety-third Street. Negotiations are pending for the resale of this plot to a prominent builder. Alexander Werner and the Duross Company were the brokers in all these transactions.

Apartment House Trading.

Isidor H. Kempner & Sons have purchased the property known as 149 Avenue A from Caroline Schiefer and Emilie Munch. The property consists of a five-story building with two stores and is on a plot 26 by 113 feet. This is the first sale of the property since 1865. Henry P. Doufsch was the broker in the transaction.

Harry Hoberman, through Sherman & Kirschner, Inc., sold 212 East Ninety-eighth Street, a five-story apartment house on a lot 25 by 100 feet.

Cleary & Glynn sold for Emanuel and Nellie Scheyer the two-five-story tenements at 19-21 East 108th Street, on a plot 50 by 100 feet, to the Someld Realty Company, Inc.

James H. Cruikshank sold to Raul Barboza, 206 West 128th Street, a four-story single flat on a lot 20.11 by 100 feet, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues. James A. Steele was the broker.

Louis Schrag sold for the Ma-Lo-Sa Corporation the northwest corner of Seventeenth Street and Seventh Avenue, on lot 48 by 160 feet. The corner building is being remodeled into stores and apartments and a new building to consist of four stores will be erected on the Seventeenth Street side.

Cashmore Construction Company, Inc., purchased from Frederick D. Sasse, 23 and 25 West 114th Street, two five and one-half story tenements on a lot 25 by 100 feet each, consisting of two six-room apartments with baths on each floor. They rent for about $12,000. This property is situated between Fifth and Lenox Avenues. George A. Bowman was the broker in the transaction.

TWO TERMINAL UNITS TO COST $2,000,000

Bush Company Is Preparing to Erect Large Structures in Brooklyn.

Plans for two additional units to the Bush Terminal Company's buildings at the terminal in South Brooklyn are being prepared by William Higginson, architect and engineer. The two structures probably will cost in excess of $2,000,000 and are to be erected immediately.

The buildings will be similar to those already at the Bush plant—of concrete construction and will be erected on the square blocks extending west from First Avenue and between Thirty-ninth, Fortieth and Forty-first Streets.

It is understood that two more buildings are projected for the Bush plant in the near future.

$35,000 More in Mortgage Taxes in 1925 Than 1924.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Jan. 20.—An index of the growth of building and realty operations in Nassau County was found today by County Clerk Thomas Cheshire in the mortgage taxes and fees collected by the county in 1925. Mortgage fees amounted to $461,800.97, and the county tax amounted to $125,607.70. After the amount due the State is taken out, the county will receive $356,508.18. This, Mr. Cheshire said, was an increase of more than $35,000 over 1924. Twenty years ago the combined mortgage fee and tax collections amounted to $12,180.61.

West Twentieth Street Investment.

John F. Reed sold for William McCarthy 217 West Twentieth Street to the Empire State Holding Company. It is a two-story building on lot 25 by [illegible] feet. The buyers are investors.

'Crystal Shop' in the Penn Zone.

James M. Stewart's "Crystal Shop," located for the past twenty years at West Broadway and Murray Street, has leased from the Equitable Life Assurance Society in its new building at Thirty-second Street and Seventh Avenue, opposite Pennsylvania Station, a store, mezzanine and basement containing approximately 7,000 square feet, for a period of twenty-one years. The premises will be occupied as soon as alterations are completed and fixtures installed, about March 15 next. Brett & Wyckoff were the brokers in the negotiations.

East 86th St. Hotel To Cost $2,000,000

Plans were filed yesterday with the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings for the erection of a twenty-two-story hotel building at 2 to 10 East Eighty-sixth Street, between Fifth and Madison Avenues, at an estimated cost of $2,000,000.

The site for the new building is 100 by 102 feet and is owned by 2 East Eighty-sixth Street, Inc. A. P. Hess is the architect for the project.

Also included in the Manhattan filings yesterday were plans for altering the property at 1,040 Park Avenue into a fourteen-story apartment house. The Park Avenue Holding Corporation is the owner of the property and Delano & Aldrich are the architects for the proposed improvement. They estimate the cost of the alteration at $6,000.

A MODERN BUILDING FOR VARICK ST. PLOT

A modern building is to be erected on another lower west side holding of the Trinity Corporation as the result of a deal just closed with B. M. Maltz & Sons, Brooklyn builders. The transaction affects the block front on the west side of Varick Street, between West Houston and Clarkson Streets, with frontages of 200, 125 and 126 feet respectively.

The site is at present covered with several old tenements and stores and has been leased by the trustees for twenty-one years at a net annual rental of $26,200. It carries the privilege of three similar renewals at a rental based on a reappraisal of the property.

The church recently leased the block front on the east side of Varick Street, between Spring and Vandam Streets; also the northwest corner of Varick and Charlton Streets, and sold the block front on the east side of Varick Street, between Charlton and King Street, to William S. Coffin, who subsequently resold the site to Samuel Brener.

SUBLET FOUR FLOORS FOR A LONG TERM

Toy Business Firms Take 30,000 Square Feet of Space at 153 Spring St.—Other Leases.

A RECORD IN 1925 IN BUILDING HERE

Contracts Awarded in This City Last Year Cost $1,047,309,000, Says Dodge Corporation.

Building and engineering contracts awarded in the five boroughs of New York City during the year 1925 reached a total of $1,047,309,000, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. This was the largest construction volume ever recorded for the city, being 19 per cent. over 1924, the previous record year. Last year's construction volume in New York was about one-seventh of the entire volume for the United States.

This record building total included the following important items: $611,374,200, or 58 per cent. of all construction, for residential buildings; $286,914,400, or 22 per cent., for commercial buildings; $78,284,900, or 7 per cent., for public works and utilities; $41,223,500, or 4 per cent., for social and recreational buildings; $25,515,600, or 2 per cent., for educational buildings; and $23,095,000, or 2 per cent., for industrial buildings.

The big increase in New York's construction volume came in the second half of the year. The year closed with record-breaking volume. December contracts, with a total of $182,705,300 (including $44,000,000, in subway contracts), passed the previous high record of last August. Last month not only exceeded the preceding month by 39 per cent. but its contract total was nearly two and a half times that of December, 1924.

Brooklyn Apartment to Cost $1,150,000.

Shampan & Shampan, architects, are preparing plans for a high-class elevator apartment house to be erected on the northeast corner of Washington Avenue and Crown Street, Brooklyn, upon a plot 218 by 100 feet, to consist of apartments containing 425 rooms to accommodate 126 families for the Kriedel Building Corporation, as owners. The cost is placed at $1,150,000.

Robinson Buys Bellmore Lots.

The Runcie Home Building Company, Inc., sold 24 lots at Bellmore to H. W. Robinson. The lots purchased by Mr. Robinson are improved with gas, water and electricity, and he will start immediately to erect a unit of twenty detached frame dwellings. The price was approximately $60,000.

Private Residence Sold.

Brett & Wyckoff sold to Dr. Watson L. Savage the four-story and basement dwelling house 147 East Forty-eighth Street, on a plot 20 by 100 feet. The property was sold for Elizabeth F. Murray and Margaret A. Quinn and was held at $65,000.

OF EIGHTEEN PROPERTIES

Ballroom, Robt. Treat Hotel, Tuesday Eve. January 26, 8 p.m.

WE HAVE assembled eighteen separate properties for quick sale, all situated on the most important streets in Newark. Each one represents a distinct opportunity — each one has certain advantages that makes purchasing advisable, whether it be for improvement, permanent investment or for speculation purposes.

Newark is expanding rapidly. Its growth is based upon a firm industrial foundation. Extensive municipal improvement plans and record-breaking building programs have given impetus to exceptional activity in real estate. Values are constantly increasing — and will continue to increase — for Newark is merely in the first stages of an era of commercial and industrial expansion!

This sale is without precedent in New Jersey! It is an event of foremost importance to everyone who is interested in the unusual opportunities offered in real estate in the City of Newark.

BROKERS ATTENTION—Brokers registering successful purchasers, will participate in the commission

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 20.—The disturbance that was over Southeastern New Mexico Tuesday night has advanced to Southern Texas with increasing intensity, with a trough extending northeastward through the Ohio Valley to Maine. Pressure is relatively low over Eastern Ontario, over Southern New Mexico and on the extreme North Pacific Coast. High pressure prevails from Saskatchewan southward to the Dakotas and thence westward to Northern California. Pressure is relatively high over the lower lake region and in the vicinity of Bermuda.

The outlook is for snow Thursday in the lower Lake region, for rain in the East Gulf, South Atlantic and Mid-Atlantic States and for rain changing to snow in the Ohio Valley. There will be snows in the interior and rain on the coast of New England late Thursday and on Friday. Elsewhere in the States east of the Mississippi River the weather will be fair Thursday and Friday. It will be colder on Thursday in the East Gulf States, the Ohio Valley, the western lower lake region and Northern New England, and colder on Friday in the Atlantic States.

An unusual School of Commerce opens its second term

FOR TWENTY-SIX YEARS the New York University School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance has offered to mature men and women in business an opportunity to further their advancement by evening study.

Evening classes are offered in all important fields of business and the instruction is on a par with that given in the day classes.

High school graduates are eligible to work for B. C. S. Degree. Persons over twenty-one with successful business experience may be admitted as special students.

The School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance offers courses in the following departments:

Accounting
Advertising and Marketing
Banking and Finance
Economics
English Government
Journalism
Languages
Law
Life Insurance
Management Retailing
Trade and Industry

Each of these courses is under the personal direction of an authority in his particular field. A well-balanced program is available for full-time or part-time students who wish to prepare for any of the business professions.

For complete description of courses apply to

We Are Happy Here

I came to Bradenton, Florida's most fertile garden spot, yielding many crops of vegetables and fruit a season, when most of its population were affluent sons of the soil. Hence its substantial start.

Tourists and pleasure seekers soon discovered we had a garden spot in every sense of the word. Bradenton's substantial growth then became most active.

I like to play golf, bathe in the surf, fish, sail, and glide over motor roads smooth as a city boulevard—we have all these things and more in Bradenton!

Our building activity is most substantial, in keeping with the influx of substantial folks to our delightful town.

We are all happy at work or play. Won't you join us?

SAYS DRY LAW HURTS THE COLLEGE CLUBS

ONE MADE $40,000 A YEAR

Movement Is Under Way for Common Building for the Smaller Ones.

Prohibition is partly responsible for the financial troubles of college clubs in New York, according to Thomas C. Desmond, President of the Technology Club of New York. Mr. Desmond, who said at Tuesday night's dinner of Massachusetts Institute of Technology graduates that regular college clubs in New York had a hard time to get along, expanded his views yesterday.

"The Harvard Club of New York is a very successful college club," said Mr. Desmond. "The Yale Club is a reasonably successful one and I think that the Princeton Club has had more trouble in getting along than either the Harvard Club or the Yale Club, not through any lack of club spirit on the part of Princeton men, but because of the greater difficulties due to the fewer numbers of Princeton graduates.

"Other smaller colleges and fraternity clubs in New York have all had a very hard time of it financially, especially since the war and prohibition."

Besides the Technology Club, Mr. Desmond belongs to the Harvard, University, Union League, Engineers, Players, National Republican, Newburgh City and Sleepy Hollow Country Clubs, and has served on the Board of Governors of several of these clubs.

Mr. Desmond is so impressed with the financial difficulties of a college social club that he is urging M. I. T. graduates to build a new $3,000,000 twenty-five story Technology Building which would be a combination office building and clubhouse.

One regular college club in New York is said to have lost an annual revenue of $40,000 since prohibition—that figure having represented the average yearly profit from its bar before the drought.

A movement is on foot to get some of the smaller college clubs to combine and share a common club building, which would have restaurant and lounge rooms open to all the clubs in it and private meeting rooms for each club.

Such a combination would be along the lines of the Fraternity Clubs Building at Madison Avenue and Thirty-eighth Street. This building houses twenty fraternity clubs and also the Cornell Club. The Cornell Club, which has a separate entrance and separate dining room, gave up its own clubhouse to join the combination.

To Discuss City Gardens and Parks.

Mrs. James Roosevelt of 47 East Sixty-fifth Street has invited men and women interested in city affairs to attend a meeting at her home next Tuesday to discuss a suggested plan relating to gardens and parks in the city. Francis D. Gallatin, Commissioner of Parks; Dr. John H. Finley, Martin Vogel and Franklin D. Roosevelt will speak.

Wanamaker Finds the Secret

THE rapid growth and success of Wanamaker's Store is not sheer luck. Wanamaker's business enterprises have been based on the rock bottom of soundest business policies.

It was the result of a carefully laid plan to give the customer a brighter, cheerier light, free from glare for selecting purchases—a light as near to nature's daylight as artificial light can be—that resulted in Wanamaker's selection of Celestialite. The increased sales after installation were a natural sequel.
